PERSONAL MENTION

Saturday's Daily.

Mr. and Mrs. Truman Butler left for Trout Lake this morning.

Dr. Tackman and family left this morning for a month's outing at North Beach.

Mrs. Ira Campbell, wife of the general editor of the Eugene Guard, is visiting friends here.

H. J. Maier went to Moffat Springs this morning to remain over Sunday with his family.

Professor Birgfeld, Malcolm McInnis and T. A. Van Norden, went to Moffat Springs this morning.

Dr. Lannerberg arrived home last night after nearly a month's absence. His classic countenance shows the effect of the Eastern Oregon sun, but the tan does not detract from his genial smile.

A party consisting of Mrs. Mary French, Misses May Enright, Ursula and Ione Koch, Mary and Minnie Lay, Emma Morse of Portland, Miss Wynkoop of Iowa, Miss Hollister of Chicago, Dr. Hollister, Dr. Sturdevant and Grant Mays, went down on the early train to Hood River this morning, and will go to Cloud Cap Inn. Some of the party will make the ascent of Mt. Hood tomorrow.

Monday's Daily.

W. H. Wilson and wife left for Ilwaco this morning, to be gone a month.

Dr. Sturdevant, Grant Mays and Miss May Enright made the ascent of Mt. Hood yesterday.

J. A. Douthitt and George Gibbons, delegates to the grand lodge A. O. U. W., arrived home Saturday night.

Doctor Siddall and Fen Bettey leave for the Clondyke on the George W. Elder Friday.

Lewis Porter and Will Crossen went to Hood River on the boat this morning and will climb Mt. Hood tomorrow.

Miss Hollister, Miss Wynkoop and Dr. Hollister arrived home from Cloud Cap last night. They went up the mountain to Cooper's spur.

Frank Chrisman left for Portland this morning. Rumor says he has a good claim on the Clondyke, but an intimate friend of his says he is going to Portland to get married.

Doug Langille, who has been mining on McCoy creek, Skamania county, is expected in Hood River today. W. A. Langille, who has had charge of Cloud Cap Inn, leaves for the Clondyke tomorrow, and Doug will take his place at the Inn. The latter is a competent guide, having acted in that capacity for several years.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Fish and children, Mrs. H. S. Wilson and Miss Deven left for Cloud Cap Inn this morning to remain until Friday. Judd had a man hired by the day for the last 4 days driving nails in the soles of a new pair of shoes which he intended to wear in making the ascent of the mountain, and then went away and forgot them. Someone going to the Clondyke can get a bargain in shoe leather by applying to Col. Sinton. If not sold the Col. intends having them dismantled to get the nails.

Tuesday's Daily.

Dick Gorman and Leo Schanno went to Moffat Springs this morning.

Mr. and Mrs. McArthur went to Hood River on the Baker this morning.

C. E. Bayard and wife went to Hood River this morning for a week or two's outing.

Henry Blackman, of the revenue service, was a passenger on the 8:30 train this morning.

Mr. John Parrott leaves in the morning for Portland, and will be one of those who start on the Elder for the Clondyke.

Misses Edna, Grace and Hattie Glenn were passengers on the Baker this morning, going for a day on the river and returning tonight.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Michell, Misses Rose, Annette and Myrtle Michell, Mrs. Louise Ruch and Misses Cora and May Wells, of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, went to Hood River on the delayed train passing through here shortly after 7 o'clock this morning. They go by private conveyance to Mount Hood today to remain two or three days. Some of the young ladies may make the ascent of the mountain. If so, when they get to the top of the line of demarcation between the angle of this world and those of the other will be so closely drawn that a common mortal put on oaths couldn't tell which to classify them with.

A Distinguished Visitor From Michigan.

Rev. C. H. Maxson, pastor of the Michigan Avenue Baptist church, the leading Baptist church of Saginaw, Michigan, occupied Rev. O. D. Taylor's pulpit last Sunday, preaching an able and interesting sermon to a highly appreciative congregation. Mr. Taylor introduced the speaker in a few appropriate words, making touching reference to the generous kindness which Mr. Maxson had extended towards him at a time when almost a stranger and in trouble in Mr. Maxson's city, he needed substantial sympathy and help. Mr. Maxson took for his text the last clause of the 32d verse of the 11th chapter of Genesis, "And Tarah died in Haran," and from the incident of the patriarch's death while he tarried in Haran, without ever seeing the land of Canaan towards which he had at one time directed his steps, the speaker drew some impressive analogies of the numerous earthly objects that hinder or retard or turn aside men from the path that leads to the Heavenly Canaan and to God.

Mr. Maxson is a young man of very pronounced ability, and his sermon was regarded as a great treat by those who had the pleasure of hearing him. The gentleman was taking a short summer vacation, and left here Monday morning for a trip to the Yellowstone National Park.

A STORM-SWEPT PASS.

Edgar A. Mizner Describes the Summit of Chilcat Pass.

In corroboration of Eastman's description of the blizzards and whirling snows he had witnessed tearing across the Chilcat pass, the following excerpt from a letter of Edgar A. Mizner, of San Francisco, is given. It is descriptive of his experience on the pass.

"But the summit of Chilcat pass! That's the place that puts the yellow fear into many a man's heart," writes Mizner. "Some took one look at it, sold their outfit for what it would bring and turned back. The pass is over the ridge that skirts the coast. It is only about 1300 feet from base to top, but it is almost straight up and down—a sheer steep of snow and ice.

"There is a blizzard blowing there most of the time, and when it is at its height no man may cross. For days at a time the summit is impassable. An enterprising man named Burns has rigged a windlass and a cable there, and with this he hoists up some freight at a cent a pound. The rest is ported over on the backs of Indians.

"We were detained 10 days awaiting our turn to have our outfits carried over and for favorable weather. The miserable roosting-place was called 'Sheep Camp'—so called, I think, because no animal except one with a brain-like a sheep would ever consent to be seen there. The wind howled continually and the snow fell most of the time, and we had to use much force in persuading our tent to stay with us.

"But at last came a fair day, and with the aid of 12 Indians we logged our outfit to the summit. We began work at 5 in the morning and had everything on top by noon. In this we were very lucky as many have been many days doing the same thing.

"Once on top we had before us a downshoot of a quarter of a mile at an angle of say 45 degrees. All we had to do was to pack everything on the two sleds, turn them loose and put our trust in the Lord. An instant of flying snow, and our sleds shot out on the frozen surface of Crater lake. Others were not so fortunate. Many sleds upset or ran off the track and were buried many feet deep in the snow.

"On Crater lake we loaded just our camp outfit on one sled and 'cached' the other with the rest of the equipage. We then started, double team, down the 15-miles to Lake Linderman and the timber line. While this was mostly down grade, we found many up-hill pulls; so it was after dark when we made camp on the edge of the lake, and you never saw two more tired or broken-down adventurers in all your life. You who sit in the club behind clinking glasses have no idea what the word 'tired' means.

"We rested the next day—a regular Mizner rest cure, and on the following morning at 2 o'clock started back to Crater lake after our cached sled. Daylight peeps in about 2 in the morning now, and it is not dark until 10 at night.

"After going about three miles up a dark canyon, a whirling snow storm struck us. But having risen at such an unconscionable hour we would not turn back. Our pride was near the end of us. I hope I may never experience such another day. The air was so filled with snow that it was impossible to see 10 feet. It was all we could do to keep our feet against the wind which howled down the mountain. My beard became a mass of ice. The trail was soon obliterated and we were lost. But we stumbled on, and by rare chance we came upon the handle of a shovel which marked our cache.

"There was nothing to do but fight our way back to camp. The storm did not abate in the slightest. In fact, it raged for four long days. It was nearly dark when, with knocking knees, we got back to camp—more dead than alive. The next day 10 men made up a party to go on the same trip, going back for their outfits. The day after that they were found huddled in a hole dug in a drift, eating raw bacon."

On the occasion of queen's jubilee, Mr. Macleay presented the city of Portland 100 acres of land in the outskirts of the city which will be improved and named Macleay Park.
