TO SAVE GRASS.

Horses Are Killed by the Northwest Ranchmen.

to Sale for the Animals, and Their Flesh Is Fed to the Hogs-A Perplexing Problem to Solve.

The interesting news comes from the city of Butte, Mont., that in several parts of that state horses are so numerous and there is so little use for them that they are being killed by ranchmen and their flesh fed to hogs as food instead of corn. In Madison county several horse meat canning establishments are now in operation. and the product is said to be shipped east and then to Europe. Horses can be bought for three dollars a head or even less when purchased in large num-

These facts suggest the inquiry as to what is to become of the horse. With the introduction of electricity on street car lines, where, until a few years ago, horses were practically the sole motive power, and with the ever-increasing use of the bieyele, there seems to be less use for the horse than ever. This use of electricity and bicycles makes it

In the states of Montana, North Dakota, Idaho, Washington and Wyoming hundreds of thousands of dollars have been invested in cattle, sheep and horses. Large herds were formerly toria, arrived home last night, and Mr. driven from Texas and the southwest to fatten on the nutritious grasses to be found in the states named, but the constant increase in the number of cattle, especially those of the half-breed variety, has also caused a reduction in their value.

The establishment of canning factories in Madison county, Mont., where horse meat is put up is not the first experiment of the kind in the northwest. In 1895 it was made in Portland, Ore., where horse meat was canned and shipped to France. It was found, however, that the enterprise did not pay, land on last night's train, and is visiting the demand being insufficient, while packers of beef refused to add horse meat to their line of trade because of the prejudice which would arise.

Reports from Madison county state also that horses in some instances are driven into corrals on the ranches, killed and the bodies dragged out into the fields, where the hogs can devour them. It seems almost incredible that this should be the case, but it has come to be a matter of self-preservation with the owners of large grazing districts, where there was danger that the horses would eat up all the grass, thereby leaving no fodder whatever for beef cattle. The few horse canning establishments in that part of the state cannot, of course, use up all the horses that are offered to them; hence it becomes necessary to kill the animals and dispose of them in the manner stated.

It is not only the half-breed horses that are found to be a drug on the market, but such fine stock as Clydesdales and coach horses are being offered by ranchmen there for very small figures. One ranchman in Madison county is said to have a herd of 1,700 horses of Clydesdale and Norman stock which head. He is unwilling to sacrifice his stock for canning purposes, although the herd is eating the grass required for the grazing cattle and sheep. The cattle herds in the northwest are numbered by thousands, the prices for which are ridiculously small. The feed on the ranges is not increasing. while the cattle are, thus making the problem of finding feed more difficult. These immense herds roam the prairies of North Dakota, Washington, Montana and Idaho. The Montana advices referred to state the horse canning factories believe that their project will be successful. There seems to be little likelihood, however, that much, if any, horse meat will be sold in the United States .- N. Y. Her-
