DEAR Boys: We are still on the trail, and will be for eight or ten days vet. We are now camped twelve miles from tide water, with all our stuff, except one load, ten miles further on. Tomorrow we will move camp to within ten or twelve miles of Lake Bennett, or Shallow lake, and come back for more stuff left beyond the summit about two miles.

Talk about your trails! This is the blankest trail any one ever took horses over. It is a good forty miles from water to water, and rocks mud and roots to no end. We had to send the horses in to be shod. The last trip we lost seven shoes and the calks are off all the others. It costs only $1.50 a shoe. or $5 a horse. Their backs are sore in places, and they are getting a little thin, and if they come in tonight are all alive. # Blood

When a horse is poor in flesh, a new harness won't give him strength. If a house is cold new furniture won't warm it. If your strength is easily exhausted; work a burden; nerves weak; digestion poor; muscles soft; if you are pale and worn out, the trouble is with the blood. It is not so much IMPURE blood as POOR blood. Pills won't make this blood rich; nor will bitters, nor iron tonics, any more than a new harness will give strength to the horse, or new furniture will make a house warm. For poor blood you want something that will make rich blood.

NEW YORK'S SKYSCRAPERS ! Sky Line of Gotham Rapidly and Com-tinually Changing.

The sky-line of New York is changing so rapidly that the American traveler who goes abroad can recognize with more certainty the profiles of the foreign cities he approaches than that of his own metropolis as he sees it from the deck of the steamer on his return, says Scribner's. It may be his first visit to Europe; he may know London, Rome and Paris only from the views of them in old prints. But if he has an eye for such things his first glimpse of St. Paul's, St. Peter's, or Notre Dame will tell him to what place he is coming, for all the world knows these pinnacles, has known them for centuries. They are as conspicuous and characteristic in the silhouettes of their cities as they were when they were built.

One of the Dutch governors of New Amsterdam, seeking in spirit some familiar earthly habitation, might find old Amsterdam, for it cuts the same figure in the sky to-day that it did when he left it; but the last dead boss of New York, if by any chance he should get away from where he ought to be, would search the horizon in vain for the face seek for are there; Old Trinity still on their lines in Oregon. stands, its steeple, like the spires of the old cathedrals, unlifted high above the earth; but its solitary prominence is gone. The modern office building has risen higher than the head of the cross and the church has lost its distinction. The enterprise of businesshas surpassed the aspiration of religion.

A WARLIKE MISSIONARY. He Didn't Believe in Cursing the Enemy. That the warrior spirit is not confined to soldiers is clearly shown by a story of a missionary chaplain in Natal, Rev. George Smith, Mr. Smith had been temporarily attached to the army for the period of the campaign, and during the whole of the long and fierce Zulu attack right gallantly he played dying.

No one had a greater share of danger than he, and no one, says a writer in Blackwood's Magazine, showed a more soldierly example of treating that danbut as every man who could handle a rifle was sorely needed to defend the parapet, Mr. Smith did essential service by going round the various posts and distributing reserve cartridges. A good story went round the army in South Africa bearing on the spirit of the horses in to be shod. Those four his professional conduct on one occa-One of the men, in the heat and excitement of battle, was cursing his enemies and using most profane language. The chaplain, coming behind, heard his words, and said:

"You should not speak like that, my friend. Don't curse them!" Then, shoving a packet of cartridges into his hand: "Shoot them! shoot them!"

Why He Said His Prayers.

Sunday school class in Syracuse on a recent Sunday. One little boy who had felt very smart during the class hour was asked if he prayed every morning. "I do in vacation time," he answered. "How is it you don't do it the rest of the time?" asked the teacher. "Oh, asked the teacher, again, "don't you have girls to send to school should write think there's more need of praying in to St. Mary's academy for terms. tf. the morning than at night?" "No." was the reply, " cause at night you have awful dreams."

Wheat From the Yukon. The department of the interior has received from Mr. Ogilvie, the dominion surveyor now in the Yukon country, a bunch of wheat bearing the following inscription on a card: "Grown at Fort Cudaby from accidental planting in the autumn of 1895. All from one root and cut fourteen inches above the ground, on September 7, 1896, August 27th, min. temp. 31.8 deg.; August Slet, min. temp., 27.2 deg.; September 1st, min. temp., 27.1 deg.

But the Walter Knew What Was What, Just the Same. He is an old, disgruntled looking bachelor, and he dines every evening in a chop house not far from Broadway, says the New York Heraldt

"Waiter," he said, the other evening, now take this order and see if you can get along without eternally suggesting things. No, I don't want anything from the bar. I'd say so if I did. Nice celery, eh? You wooden-headed idiot, didn't I tell you that I had sense enough to know what I wanted, without any suggestions from you?"

'Yes, sir," said the waiter, submissively.

"Now, then," resumed the old chap, "you may bring me Lyonnaise potatoes, coffee, small cup, and-ah-yes, a little old Stilton. Now, hurry up; don't stand gawking."

The waiter went away and returned with the order.

"What! How's this?" exclaimed the man, pounding with his fists upon the table. "Where's that sirloin steak I ordered?" "You ordered none, sir," replied the functionary, with a low bow. "I would have suggested as much, but I feared to displease you." "You're a nice waiter," yelled the old man, and he turned as red as old Bur-gundy. "All you need is an iron fence and board of lunacy commissioners to be an insane asylum. Why did you ask me if I want a sirloin steak if I didn't order it?"

'Yes, sir," said the waiter. Two minutes later he returned with BOSTON AND ALL the steak. He had called for it when POINTS EAST and SOUTH he sent down the original order.

CONTINUOUS STREET RAILS. The Contraction and Expansion of the Metal Were Engly Overcome.

Continuous rails, made up of ordinary rails length welded together electrically, are in use on many miles of electric street railways in the United States, says Cassier's Magazine, and with excellent results, too, having shown themselves to constitute an ideal track. Whatever misgivings may have arisen at one time as to the serious pranks which expansion and contraction might play with such continuous tracks have been effectively allayed, as experience has shown that the difficulties likely to grow from these causes are not extraordinary. It is interesting, however, to note that of the troubles from temperature variations in the track, that due to a temperature lower than the one at which the rails were welded is the only one requiring serious consideration. It is found in the tendency of the rail to shrink in a longitudinal direction, and this must be counteracted by a pull on the ends of the rail sufficient to produce a corresponding amount of stretch. Temperatures above that at which the rails were welded cause compression, and this has never been found to make trouble where the track was at all secured by the roadbed.

Experience, therefore, would seem to point to the winter season as the time for welding continuous track, as then the rails are materially contracted, and, though exceptionally cold snaps may be productive of a slight state of tension in the rails, yet the maximum stress would be nothing like that in rails welded in the summer, and probably far below the strength of the welds.

Sacrificed Their Whiskers. It will be remembered, says an exchange, how, on the birth of a son and heir to Prince Max of Bavaria, the grenadiers of his regiment cut off their mustaches to stuff a pillow for the royal infant's head. History has just repeated itself at the modest little town of Ribeauville, in France, where the captain of the local fire brigade recentbecame a happy father. With one accord the forave firemen sacrificed the hirsute adornments which were their glory to fill a velvet cushion, and this unique gift was duly placed in the baby's cradle, with a diploma of honorary membership of the corps.

Russian Press Rules.

The Russian minister of the interior, acting under instructions from the czar, has alleviated the severity of the press laws in all the larger towns and cities of the empire, in fact wherever the population is over 100,000, by exempting the newspapers from the obligation of submitting all articles on political subjects to the censor before publication. Hitherto only a few of the principal papers at St. Petersburg, Moscow, Warsaw and Odessa have enjoved the immunity.
