A GREAT FEAT.

The Mesa Encantada Explored at Last.

After Many Years of Conjecture the Truth Concerning the Famous Rock In Now Positively & Known.

For the first time in the history of man the celebrated Mesa has been nounted. The honor belongs to Prof. William Libbey, of Princeton university, New Jersey, and the fact has been scientifically established that the summit is uninhabited, and, as far as the party could discover, has ever been. There were absolutely no traces of animal life. It may be that new specimensof flora ave been found that existed in the prehistorie world, but sufficient examnation has not yet been made to determine this fact. The Mesa Encannda is said to be the only spot on the ace of the globe where the flowers of he period of long ago can exist without the contamination and war of plant life with the world of the present day, Prof. Libbey succeeded in making his much-talked-of ascent of the encantada a few days ago. The trip to the summit was fraught with great perils, and the result is of little value from an archacological standpoint.

The party consisted of Prof. Libbey, H. L. Bridgeman, of Brooklyn, and the correspondent of the Times-Herald. Every preparation had been made for the ascent, there were great kites and fealloons ready for use, but it was decided to throw a line across the top of the Mesa with a gun, borrowed for the pur-

ond, carrying a steel wire, went over the summit, but took two days to draw the cord which was attached to a longer rope over the rough, rocky surface of the spot described by Coronado in his report to the king of Spain nearly

When the ropes were made fast a block was arranged, and a great chain of boards, 20 feet across, was fastened to it. A huge rock was sent to the summit without tipping, and then Prof. Libbey made the ascent. It was dangerous, exceedingly so. As the proessor came close to the summit he had to hang on by one hand, while with the other, he disengaged the ropes of the chair, which had caught in the rough rocks. The remainder of the party then made the ascent, and were assisted on the surface by the professor.

Next a great difficulty presented itself in the form of a gaping chasm. This was crossed on the ropes, and the ten acres of the surface of the rock were ex-

They spent the entire day there, carehing for the evidences of the vilage, said to have existed 500 years ago, but there was nothing to indicate that it ever had existed in reality. There were monuments of rock, such as the indians built in the ages that have gone by, but that was all.

There were some pools of water that had callected, but whether they were worn by the action of small particles Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Glavey and daugh- of rock carried by the winds or whether they were in reality constructed by the Acoma Indians in the centuries that have gone down into the silence of the past is not known.

Search was made for the bones of the human beings whom the legend of the haunted rock describes as having been starved to death there, but they were not found.

It is assumed by botanists that this great rock, which rises over 700 feet from the surface of a desert of sand, protruded out of the ancient sea that covered this section of the world in the distant past, and that the flora is the same to-day as it was in those days, when the world was young and of which history has no account. Specimens, such as there were, were collected, but whether they belong to this day and has been called by the Acoma Indians, has been the center of scientific interest for years. Numerous attempts have been made to mount it, only to be doomed to failure.

The legend of the Indians is that the summit of the rock was once reached by a natural ladder in a pillar. On this place the old and decrepit were kept to shield them from the attacks of hostile foes, while the men were in the valley at work. Once a great torrential rain came, like a cloudburst, and ate away the sandy foundations of the pillar, which fell, and the inhabitants on the rock, several hundred in number, starved to death.

It has even been asserted that the place was inhabited, and the ascent by the Libbey party was made to set at rest the rumors and determine once and for all whether or not the stories as told were true.-Chicago Times-Herald.

Rich and Poor in India.

Our standard of civilization is personal comfort-luxury, a thing absolutely unknown in native India. There is searcely any difference in the mode of living between the rich and the poor. If you go into the house of a rajah, there is the same bare floor, and only a simple platter to eat from, such as is seen in the home of the poorest. To put it crudely, there will probably not be even the luxury of a wash basin and towel, for the rich man, like his poor brother, he washes in the open and dries himself in the sun. Such is the extreme simplicity of life that wealth is still buried in India; a man may spend it on jewels for his wife, but not on pleasure or personal comfort. This simple life, which can have the same by paying all charges. fostered no distinctions of class, has been preserved for 3,000 years by Indian civilization, but ours will destroy it in 50 years.-Humanitarian.
