Canyon City's Klondike Proves Richer Than the First Discovery.

Canyon City News. Gold, buckets of gold! And not only buckets of gold, but bushels of gold are in sight at the new Great Northern claim on the mountain back of town. The display amounting to seven or eight hundred dollars which Mr. Guker had on exhibit last Sunday, could be duplicated by the washing of a few pans of the decomposed quartz which he finds "Climatic Influence on Grasses." in a deeper pocket, or extension of the same pocket in his Great Northern

Mr. Guker has three men employed, been busy making secure the walls of the shaft where the gold is found, in order to guard against accidents.

All the ledges and spurs on Guker's claim will prospect well, and he has done sufficient development work to establish their permanency. On the mother lode he will run a crosscut sixtyfive feet below the surface at the upper end, and has fully demonstrated by tunnels and shafts that the lodes are tion. there. He and all other miners are of the opinion that when the ledges unite, as they must inevitably at no great depth, there will be the richest quartz claim that the world has ever produced.

At the present time all the gold has been washed out with water produced by melting snow in the vessels. By this slow process Guker says they can take out ore and average twenty pans a day. The best pan in the last few days contained $84.75. Unless it grows better, as it has been in the babit of doing, it will probably not average this much. $25 to the pan, four men can take out $500 a day, which is pretty fair wages

Another Pioneer Gone.

At 12 o'clock Sunday Mrs. Bridget Fewer, widow of John Fewer, died at St. Mary's Academy in this city.

Mrs. Fewer was born in Kilkinney, reland, in 1817, and came to this country when she was about 20 years old. Snortly after her arrival in America she was married to John Fewer, and they moved to California, making their home in that state for a number of years. Later they moved to Oregon, and settled on a farm near Boyd.

About sixteen years ago Mr. Fewer died, leaving his wife entirely alone, with no children and, as far as could be found out, no relatives in this country. Suffering with the palsy and in need of care, she turned over what property she had to the sisters of St. Mary's Academy and took up her abode with them, where for the last fifteen years she has been tenderly cared for.

For a number of years she has been very feeble. However, last Monday she was able to be up and around, but later became worse and was forced to remain in bed continually.

We glean the following from The Oreonian of yesterday: "W. E. Sebree, of New York City, who s operating in Alaska, has purchased the steamer Dailes City from The Dalles, Portland & Astoria Navigation Company, with the purpose in view of putting the steamer on the route north from Juneau to Skaguay and Dyea. She is now on the Regulator Line between Portland and The Dalles, and will remain on that run until about the middle of March, when she will be delivered to her new owner and sent north. The boat is of 296 tons net, and is a good steamer for inside waters.

"The Regulator Line has nearly completed arrangements for a new steamer to take the place of the Dalles City on The Dalles run. She will be a bigger and better boat, and will be built especially for speed. The machinery will be built at the Willamette iron works, but the contract for the hull has not yet been let. The new craft will be named the Reliance. She will not be ready for service when the Dalles City shall leave, and arrangements for another boat to WOOL-GROWERS' ASSOCIATION.
