Last Night's Revival Meeting.

Tuesday's Daily.

The interest in the revival meetings at the Methodist church is increasing every night, and the church is crowded at every meeting. A deep feeling seems to take possession of the audiences, and nightly many are found at the altar of prayer.

The singing of Evapgelist Miller is not only beautiful, but impressive. Every tone is clear, and the words, which are so distinct that every one is heard, carry with them an influence which is lasting. Last night, among other selections, he sang "I Am That Wandering Boy," occurred in one of the missions at Chi-Jesus.

Mr. Miller took for his subject last night "Guilty Before God," and it seemed that everyone one in the room was touched by his earnest appeal.

All should take advantage of this opportunity to hear so beautiful a singer. The Methodist Church Thursday Night.

The Methodist church was filled last night with an audience anxious to listen to E. F. Miller sing the gospel.

After a short and enthusiastic song service, the evangelist gave opportunity for requests. A number quickly responded, and then followed a number of Sandford Bros, short earnest prayers along the line of Taylor, Ray Wilder, M D

Mr. Miller had scarcely begun his talk when we found ourselves literally "sitting in darkness." Hastily concluding his remarks, he seated himself at the Mr. Chas. Huntley, an old-timer in organ and sang "Calvary" and other Oregon, is in the city from his home at touching songs. Lights were brought in Pine creek, Gilliam county. Mr. Hunt- and for a few moments he spoke of the ley was a resident of Wasco county when work of children in the home, illustratit extended as far east as Salt Lake City, ing his remarks by several incidents which certainly gives him the right of where children had ded the percent and where children had led the parents unto the "way of life." He then sang a most pathetic song, "Willie and Papa." At the close of his remarks he invited persons to manifest their desire to lead a Christian life, and quite a number rose in response.

The meeting was thought by the church to be the most effective of any vet held.

MILITIA ON A WAR FOOTING. Would Be Ready to Fight at Almost

Any Moment,

The Oregon militia is on a war footing. When the time comes to burn gunpowder; when screaming shot and shells go tearing through the air and dynamite that the druggists themselves regard for the honor of "Old Glory." The officers and men, for that matter are not doing any talking on the outside, but are letting their actions speak for themselves.

The men are showing their patriotism by practical methods. Everyone of them is eager for war to vindicate America's honor, which they believe has been sullied by the brutal Spaniards, in the because he knows it has been of blowing up of the Maine, in flaunting untold benefit, should not for one their bravadoism in America's face and instant think of taking the risk of cruelly crushing a people striving for liberty. The officers are no less deterration. The substitution mined than the men, but they say nothof something said to be ing, and are throwing the full force of than any ordinary man had need of "just as good" for a stand- their energy toward putting the men in using. He mentioned it to Wardell one ard preparation twenty- a position to take the place of trained five years on the market, soldiers in the event their services are needed.

> The new rifle impels a bullet with terrific force, and at 100 yards will send its deadly messenger throught several men. The gun to be used is the new "Crack Joergensen. Smokeless powder will be used entirely, and the target will not be obscured by the smoke of battle. The effects of battle with such weapons, not to speak of the dynamite which would be discharged from balloons, and the other great machines of destruction, could be better imagined than described.

In case war is declared the guards would be placed under orders, and go into camp and draw regalar pay. They would probably never be called on for actual duty, unless armed forces were landed some where on the coast of this

RID A TOWN OF RATS The Ingenious Scheme of a Main Seaman.

Nobody has seen or heard of a rat about Castine, Me., since last summer, says the New York Sun. In July, when the whole town was overrun with rats and everybody was in a panie over their destructive work, a coasting schooner came there for wood, and the captain sold Ben Wardell a receipt for killing the animals. For a week or two Wardell went from house to house selling a yellowish gray powder, which he offered to give away if it failed to destroy the pests. Then the rats began to die. Their bodies were found in outhouses and cellars and in ditches by the roadside. The smell was bad for a time, but the rats were gone and not one has been seen since. The composition of the powder remained a secret until Wardell enlarged his business and began to sell it in other towns. The Castine druggist was naturally anxious to know what killed the rats, and made note of the articles which Wardell bought. He never asked for any kind of poison, but the drug vender believed that he purchased more calcine plaster day, and the secret was out. The ratkilling powder was composed of Indian meal and calcine plaster in equal parts. The rats ate the mixture for the meal it contained. Then they had a great thirst. The water caused the mass to harden in the stomachs of the rats, after which their digestive functions ceased to operate and the rats starved to death.

MILK, BEER AND SUGAR.

The Diet on Which a Russian Has

Lived for Twenty Years. There is a Jew, a native of Litsk, Russia, living in the east end of London who has fasted for 20 years, his sole daily diet during that time consisting of six pints of milk, three pints of beer and half a pound of Demerara sugar. His name, says the New York Times, is Morris Fox. He is an excellent Talmudical scholar, and, in spite of his frugal meals, he is the most wealthy, intelligent and wide-awake person in his quarter. He is now about 40. At the age of 17, it appears, he caught some lingering fever which shattered his digestive organs. He took many kinds of treatment from many physiciáns until his stomach became inured to all medicine. At the Kieff hospital they vainly tried to cure him by sponging and electrolysis: at Vienna his physicians included the well-known Drs. Albert and Northnagel. His treatment at Carlsbad was a failure: then he traveled to Konigsberg, when the physicians decided that he must live on sugar, milk and beer. He adopted their prescription and soon regained normal health. For 20 years no solid food has passed his mouth.

Received Her Sailors.

For the first time in history Queen Victoria has held a reception for some of her sailors. The affair took place at Osborne house after the return of the cruiser St. George from a three-years' stay in South Africa. The crew had had much fighting to lo while there, and after the ship reached Portsmouth 24 officers and 284 men were presented to the queen personally.
