Mr. A. C. Thomas, of Marysville, Tex., has found a more valuable discovery than has yet been made in the Klondike. For years he suffered untold agony from consumption, accompanied by hemorrhages; and was absolutely cured by Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. He declares that gold is of little value in comparison with this marvelous cure; would have it, even if it cost a hundred dollars a bottle.

Asthma, Bronchitis and all throat and lung affections are positively cured by Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. Trial bottles free at Blakeley & Houghton's drug store. Regular size 50 cents and $1.00. Guaranteed to cure or price refunded.

FRESHMAN GETS A LESSON.

Bryn Mawr Girls Teach a Sportive Harvard Youth Manners.

A Chicago young man in Cambridge found recently that he could not make fun of the women's colleges with impunity. In his letters to his sister, reports the Chronicle of that city, he had spoken of her college as an incubator several times and said he wondered when the chicks would hatch and if they would take a postgraduate in a brooder. His sister didn't care much for that sort of thing from a brother, who was only a freshman himself, albeit a Harvard freshman, nor did the other Bryn Mawr girls, to whom she repeated his remarks.

On the day of the receipt of a letter from him saying he was coming down to inspect the "apparatus" the members of his sister's class held a meeting in her room. On his arrival, two days later, he was ushered with some ceremony into the reception-room.

After waiting 20 minutes a girl came in hurriedly, looked fairly at him and said "Oh!" Then she left abruptly. In five minutes a second girl rushed in, saying "Oh!" turned round and walked out. Five minutes later a third girl did likewise, and in another five minutes it happened again. This continued for just one hour, when all of the 20 girls that had said "Oh!" together with about as many more, all strangers, came in in a body, said "Oh!" and fled out.

Then the freshman's sister came in, by which time the youth was ready to collapse, and asked him how he liked the chicks, and if he didn't think they could peep prettily, after which she invited him to a spread in her room with the chicks, where they demonstrated they could pick up crumbs as well as peep.

PIN HOLES IN THE CHECKS.

Only One of the Cashier's Precautions Overlooked by the Forger.

In the course of a lecture delivered recently on chemical tests used in discovering by the ink the age of documents, and whether there have been interpolations, Prof. C. A. Doremus told of a curious discovery in the case of a raised check, made by his father, who is an expert in chemistry and in documents. The interests involved in this case, says the New York Sun, were very large, and it was not practicable that the original check should be tampered with or chemically treated. For purposes of testimony an enlarged photograph of the check was taken by Dr. Doremus, who was called as an expert in the case. The first trial resulted in no decision, and on the second trial, what purported to be the original check was produced. It was handed to the cashier of the bank for identification. He examined it and said: "This is not the original check."

"How do you know that?" demanded the amazed lawyer. "Because in the heading of the original check I pricked a hole in the center of each of the 'o's' with a pin," was the reply. "This check has not those holes."

In all other respects the check seemed to be identical. The court called for Dr. Doremus' photograph to be produced. It plainly showed the pin holes. Upon this the lawyer for the defense threw up his case, and the guilty substitute of the false check fled the country.

A Daring Joke.

The celebrated Handel had such sensitive nerves that he could not bear the tuning of instruments, and so this was always done before he arrived at the theater. A musical wag wishing to make mirth from Handel's irascibility of temper, stole into the orchestra on a night when the prince of Wales was to be present and untuned all the instruments. As soon as the prince arrived Handel gave the signal for beginning concert spirit; but such was the horrible discord that the enraged master started up from his seat, and overturning a double-bass which stood in his way, he seized a kettle-drum and threw it with such violence at the head of the leader of the band that he lost his wig in the effort. Without waiting to replace it, he advanced bareheaded to the front of the orchestra, breathing vengeance, but so choked with passion that he could not speak. In this ridiculous attitude he stood stamping and staring for some moments, amid a convulsion of laughter. Nor could he be prevailed upon to resume his seat until the prince went in person and with much difficulty appeased his wrath.

I was reading an advertisement of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy in the Worcester Enterprise recently, which leads me to write this. I can truthfully say I never used any remedy equal to it for colic and diarrhoea. I have never had to use more than one or two doses to cure the worst case with myself or children.—W. A. Stroud, Popponoke Ctv., Md. For sale by Blakeley & Houghton.
