The funeral of Thomas, the 3 year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Fargher, took place from the family residence at 2 o'clock yesterday.

Owing to the rapid raise in the Columbia the farmers along the bottoms below this place are forced to cut their meadow hay as quickly as possible, regardless of whether or not it is ripe. As it is some of the hay is under water and will in all probability be lost.

Neddy Briggs who had an operation performed Monday by Dr. Hollister in order to remove a piece of diseased bone caused by his long illness last winter is getting along nicely and he will be around in a short time. He was taken sick last October with inflammatory rheumatism, and it is hoped now that this will be the last operation that he will be forced to undergo.

Fifty Pendleton ladies met at the court house Saturday afternoon and organized a branch of the Oregon Emergency Corps. Mrs. Stephen A. Lowell was elected president; Mrs. H. J. Bean, vice-president; Mrs. M. A. Diasway, secretary; Mrs. T. B. Wells, treasurer.

Many farmers in the vicinity of Alba, Umatilla county, have taken fences off public land since Special Agent Pracht declared the fences to be illegal. There are still many fences standing. When they are taken down hundreds of acres of fairly good land will be thrown open.

Very gloomy reports are given by some Crook county people who state that there has been no rain worth mentioning in that county for two months, and in consequence crops are very short and there is hardly any grass on the ranges. In all sections where irrigation is impossible, it is said, crops will be a comparative failure.

The pupils of the High school, accompanied by a number of friends, making a party of about forty in all, went to White Salmon on the Regulator yesterday and returned last evening. Anyone seeing them as they came off the boat, could not doubt that they had an enjoyable time, in spite of the rain that fell during the latter part of the day.

A cloudburst occurred on the farm of Mrs. E. Baldwin, about five miles northeast of Colfax, Thursday afternoon. A great hole is said to have been torn in the ground, and Clear creek, a little brook, was converted into a raging torrent, which took out the railroad bridge at Glenwood. The passenger train from Spokane to Portland was forced back—a transfer to a train made up at Colfax being made at the washout, the through train backing up to Seltice, from where it went to Portland over the Pleasant valley branch.

The souvenir edition of the Baker City Morning Democrat has reached this office and is very neat, and well arranged, it consisting of forty-six pages. It contains a well-written account of the mining, farming and lumbering, stock raising and fruit growing industries of Baker, Grant, Harney, Malheur, and Union counties, and also a vast fund of information concerning that section of Oregon, as well as numerous cuts of business establishments, mines, residences and representative men of the above named counties.

In spite of the inclement weather, one of the largest crowds that have turned out to listen to any political speaker since the opening of the campaign greeted Mr. Schoonmaker last evening at the Vogt. He is decidedly the best political orator that has addressed an audience in this city for some time. Mr. Schoonmaker held his audience spell bound, being strong in argument, a clear and forcible speaker, and has a rich store of humor, which keeps everyone in the best of spirits while listening to him. He took up the numerous arguments of the Union party and handled them in so skillful a manner that no one could help doubting the political doctrines of that party.

Yesterday evening about 6:30 as Mr. James Blakeney was riding up on the hill, where he is accustomed to go after his cow, when near the brickyard his horse slipped and fell. Mr. Blakeney's left leg was caught under the animal's side and fractured two inches above the ankle. An expressman was immediately called, and he was taken to his home on Fourth street. Doctor Doane was then summoned and reduced the fracture, which is a bad one on account of the leg being broken in the same place some years ago. He refused to take an anesthetic, although the pain was intense. This a very unfortunate accident, and will no doubt go hard with Mr. Blakeney.

Last night over two carloads of strawberries were shipped East on the overland passenger. For the next month this amount will increase daily, which gives an idea of the immensity of the strawberry industry in the Hood River valley.

The amount of salmon packed on the river up to the present time is reported to be almost up to that of last season, says the Astorian, notwithstanding reports to the contrary, many of the fishermen have made average wages and their deliveries at the canneries are fully up to those at the same time last season. Salmon have run steadily since the beginning of the season, which is considered rather unusual, as past seasons show that the run increases or lessens, as the case may be, before the 1st of June. The weight of the fish is below the average, 25 pounds, but the past day or two they are reported to be increasing in size as well as in numbers.

Thursday's Daily.
The river continues to raise slowly, and at present stands at 35.

The hills about La Grande had a slight coating of snow Monday morning.

Friday evening, June 5th, the election of officers of Court The Dalles, No. 12, F. of A., will take place, and all members are requested to be present.

Yesterday evening Hon. Geo. W. Stapleton, of Portland, had a rousing Republican rally at Mosier. After the meeting he came to The Dalles on the night train.

Yesterday Dr. Eshelman performed a very delicate operation upon Blanche, the daughter of Mr. G. W. Miller, of this city, removing an adenoid growth from the naso-pharynx, which had prevented nasal breathing since her infancy.

The Times-Mountaineer casually mentions that when Hon. John Michell and Mr. F. W. Wilson spoke at Enderby the majority of their audience was not of the Republican faith, but in favor of the Union ticket. This must have been gratifying to the gentlemen, as they went "not to call the righteous, but sinners to repentance."

Owing to the necessity of transferring freight and passengers at the Cascades, and the large number of way landings which have to be made between here and the locks, the boat did not get in until 9:45 last evening. It will probably be late in coming until such time as the water is in a condition so that the boats can go through the locks.

Up to 6 p. m. yesterday .09 of an inch of rain had fallen in this city. All indications point to a heavier fall, which will certainly insure abundant harvests. Reports from the interior state that refreshing showers fell Saturday and also on Tuesday, while more or less rain fell yesterday at points south. If this continue, the farmers will have money to throw at the birds this fall.

At the annual election of officers of the Degree of Honor, which was held last evening, the following officers were elected: C. of H., Mrs. M. B. Douthitt; L. of H., Mrs. McArthur; C. of C., Mrs. Sterling; recorder, Mrs. Stephens; financier, Ida Barchori; receiver, Elizabeth Schooling; usher, Mrs. Katie Krell; inside watchman, Mrs. Halpapp; outside watchman, Mrs. Nellie Wand.

land, where she has been to visit her father, J. C. O'Leary. She reports that her father's condition is much improved and the danger of having to amputate the limb is considered over. Miss O'Leary was in Butte when Mr. O'Leary was shot and came down as soon as the news reached here.

Late Tuesday evening James Cribbs, a stonecutter, aged 68 years, committed suicide by jumping into Cooper's lake, near Colfax. Cribbs has been partially demented for several days from religious excitement and financial troubles. He left an aged widow and two sons.

On Sunday, June 12th, is the Forester of America's annual memorial day. The different courts of the order in Portland are making extensive preparations for the observance of the day, and in all probability a delegation from Court The Dalles will go down to take part in the exercises.

William Searcey, of Missouri Gulch, brought to Pendleton Monday samples of wheat grown on his place, which measure nearly fifty inches in height, the heads of which are fully developed and of splendid size. He says that if the weather remains favorable for six weeks the crop in his section will be the largest ever known.

Harry M. Clay, a prominent stock-owner of Eastern Oregon, died of pneumonia at his home in Arlington, on the 30th inst., aged 38 years and 1 day. Mr. Clay was born near Reedville, Or., in 1860, and moved to Portland with his parents when but six years old. He received his education in the public schools of that city, and in his early manhood came to Eastern Oregon where he engaged in the stockraising business, which he followed successfully until his last illness. Clay was known among his business associates as an honest, upright man.

Yesterday afternoon while Ivane Gibbons was walking through Max Vogt's building which he is having remodeled on the corner of Third and Washington streets, he ran a wire nail in the ball of his foot, inflicting a painful injury. Had the nail been rusty it might have resulted very seriously, as it is there is little danger of any bad results, more than that he will be laid up temporarily.

Yesterday C. L. Phillips returned from a campaigning tour in the interior. He is well pleased with the outlook, and has no fear for the result of the election. Mr. Phillips is certainly a vote-winner right from the turn-loose; not only on account of his genial manner and capability to fill the office for which he is running, but he is a treasure when it comes to singing for votes; and when his dulcet tones are heard in "America" he is irresistible.

Yesterday Chris Donovan, who about two years ago left this place for Alaska, returned to The Dalles. When the rich finds were made at Dawson he went into that section and located claims on Bonanza creek, Lost Chance and Chicken creek. He was taken sick last fall and came to San Francisco. From there he went to the Indian Territory, and at present is on his way back to Alaska. He says that there are better chances for a poor man there than there are in Oregon, and he would not have returned had his health remained good.

Get our prices on Banner Engines. We can save you money. Mays & Crowe.

Preparations are making rapidly for the launching of the new torpedo-boat Davis, which will take place at Wolff & Zwicker's yard Saturday. The river is now rising rather faster than is pleasing to the contractors, and it is just possible that the boat will float off of herself before the appointed time. It is hoped, however, that the water will recede sufficiently during the week to give the craft a show for her white alley, as it were, or in other words a chance to slide far enough to give the launching the traditional dramatic effect. Long-fellow could hardly have written a poem about a boat which was lifted up gently by a flood and carried out into deep water without a slide or a splash during the whole operation.

Yesterday a carload of burros, which were sent here from Colorado with the intention of shipping them to Klondike, passed through the city yesterday en route to the Colville reservation. They evidently came too late to use for packing in Alaska, as the rivers are opening up and the transportation will be carried on by water.

We are sorry to announce the serious illness of Postmaster J. A. Crossen. He is under the treatment of Dr. Doane, and is convalescing.

Last night fifteen carloads of stock cattle were shipped from the stockyards in this city to Nebraska. They were brought from Crook county by Mr. Corvert and are a fine lot of stock cattle.

The funeral of Hon. Thos. Stevenson, of Crook County, took place last Sunday. He was thrown from a horse over a month ago and received injuries which later caused his death. He was among the best-known and most prominent men in Crook county.

The Campbell & Wilson Millinery Parlors is the place to buy trimmed hats, as they have the largest and most select line ever shown in the city. Prices to suit all classes of trade, ranging in value from $1.25 to $20; children's trimmed hats, $1 up.

Yesterday Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Hudson arrived in the city from Portland, where Mrs. Hudson has been undergoing treatment in the hospital for several months. She returns much improved in health, though not fully recovered from the difficult operation which she was forced to undergo.

Yesterday afternoon Harry M. Benson, of 5-Mile, near this city, was united in marriage to Miss Maud Franz, of the same neighborhood. The ceremony was performed by Justice Fillion at the residence of Dell Wilder, in this city. Both the bride and groom are esteemed young people in their neighborhood, and they have the congratulations of their many friends.

Yesterday Joe Martin, better known as Frenchy, fell off a plank between the old store building on First street and the D. P. & A. N. driveway. He was carrying a box of fish and lost his balance, falling some twelve feet. At first it was thought he was severely injured, but he recovered in a short time and went on a spree to celebrate his good fortune in not being injured more severely.

Last week in Fossil, Wyatt Putnam, 6-year-old son of J. H. Putnam, was accidentally shot by Verne Carey, aged 7. A bullet from a 38-caliber revolver, which young Carey had secured possession of, not knowing it was loaded, passed clear through young Putnam's body, entering the back just above the waist and coming out at the left nipple, after passing through the left lung, and touching the apex of the heart. Young Putnam has a fair chance of recovery.

Within one mile of Long Creek are quartered the sheep and campfollowers and herders of George Gray, of Morrow county, representing Wyoming stockmen. Mr. Gray has been paying $2 for yearling wethers, and $2.25 for yearling ewes, and has succeeded in getting together 9000 head from Grant and Morrow counties. The sheep will be divided into two bands when he has added about 3000 more head to his purchases, and three men, each intrusted with 6000 head, will start for Huntington, from which place the sheep will be shipped to Wyoming. Mr. Gray says quite a number of stockmen in northern Grant county have refused his offers of $2 and $2.25, holding for $2.25 and $2.50, for wethers and ewes, respectively. Prior to the election of President McKinley, the same class of sheep were sold at from 90 cents to $1.25 per head.

GOOD FOR SHEEP MEN

STOCK CAN ENTER CASCADE RESERVE JUNE 15.

All Districts Save Those Especially Prohibited Soon to Be Thrown Open to Grazing.

Sheep can now go on the Cascade reserve June 15th. Until this news was received the sheep men had been very anxious to get their herds on the reserve, and the day set for allowing the sheep to pass the lines, July 1st, seems to them a long way off.

W. C. Willis, of Willow creek, who wrote to Special Forestry Agent S. B. Ormsby, at Salem, in relation to the drought prevailing there, the lack of feed and the necessity of a change in the date when sheep were to be permitted to pass into the reserve, received a reply stating that sheep would be permitted to go over the lines of the reserve on June 15th, and that the time will be changed to an earlier date if the drought continues.

Mr. Ormsby further informs Mr. Willis that, in order that the sheep men may get into the reservation with their flocks, it will be necessary to make application to him, giving name and post-office address, number of sheep, number of lambs, locality of range, and to state if this range has been occupied by them before.

The attorneys of the sheep men have been informed that practically all of the trespass cases now pending, have been ordered dismissed, and that future grazing will be restricted only as to certain areas about Crater lake and Mt. Hood, as well as to the region about Mt. Ranier, frequented by tourists.

All grazing is absolutely prohibited in the Bull Run reserve from which Portland receives its water. "By, in and about Mt. Hood in the Cascade reserve," the general land office refers to that portion north of the Barlow road and west of the summit of the divide east of the east fork of Hood River.

The closed areas about Crater lake are indicated by the boundaries laid down in the bill now before congress to establish Crater lake as a national park.

RIVER BULLETIN.

The Condition of the Columbia River at Various Points.

Through the courtesy of the weather bureau at Portland we are in receipt of the following synopsis and river forecast under date of Tuesday, May 31st:

The Snake and Clearwater are falling. The upper Columbia continues to rise. At Umatilla the rise is but 0.2 of a foot and at Portland the river rose as was stated last Saturday. Much cooler weather has prevailed during the past 48 hours, so that the melting of the snow has been materially checked.

The upper Columbia will become stationary or begin to fall slightly within 36 hours. The Snake and Clearwater will continue to fall for four or more days. From Umatilla westward the river will become stationary by Thursday noon, when a slight fall will begin. The Willamette at Portland will fall for several days from Thursday. The expected fall will be but temporary for with a recurrence of warmer weather the melting of the snow will be more rapid and a rise in the river the result. A further rise will not occur until at least next Monday.

Yesterday M. J. Anderson, Union nominee for county clerk, N. H. Gates, nominee for prosecuting attorney, and Chas. Schuz, nominee for justice of the peace, went to the Mesplie schoolhouse, on Mill creek, to make political speeches. Andrew Urquhart informs us, however, that their trip was for naught, since not a solitary soul turned out to hear them. This is worse than the report the Mountaineer gave concerning the audience that greeted some political speakers at Enderby a few days since.
