Wednesday's Daily

Last evening a very pretty hand-made hem-stitched handkerchief, with lace edging, was lost either on Washington or Second street. Will the finder kindly leave the same at this office.

Yesterday eighteen carloads of Eastern Oregon sheep were shipped to White Earth, Montana. They were purchased from Frank Gabel, of Wapinitia, and R. Griffith, of Clarno, by Malcolm McDonald.

Yesterday morning F. E. Bayard had his preliminary examination before Justice Bayard on the charge of stabbing the little son of A. A. Jayne, and was bound over under $300.00 bonds to appear before the next grand jury.

The ladies of School District No. 1, Rockland, Wash., have organized a Sunday school, the first services to be held at the school house on Sunday, July 17, 1898, at 10 a. m. Mrs. L. Hillary has been appointed superintendent.

J. P. Schooling, of Harrisburg, father of Mr. Schooling, of this city, suffered an attack of congestion of the brain while driving on the Belknap Springs road last Wednesday evening. His chances of recovery are few. His son left yesterday to be at the old gentleman's bedside.

The ladies of the relief corps are meeting with remarkable success. Yesterday they succeeded in getting a large number of honorary members at the admission price of $1 each, as well as receiving donations from the business men, so that altogether they have collected over $135.00. As yet they have not finished their work, but as soon as they are done the complete subscription list will be published.

An army of harvest hands has mobilized in Walla Walla, awaiting the opening of the season's work. It is estimated that there are at least 1000 idle men there who have come from points as far distant as Montana and California, under the impression that harvesters were scarce and good wages could be secured. Reports to this effect, they say, were published in the papers of Montana, Oregon and California. There has been no anticipation of a shortage in the supply of laborers since June 1st, when they began to arrive, and there are more men there now than can possibly obtain employment. Everywhere on the outskirts of the city camps are scattered, and the cheap lodging houses are filled to overflowing. A great many have means sufficient to support themselves in a frugal manner, but there are large numbers who are penniless and live by begging and foraging from the different market gardens in the suburbs. Otherwise they are a well-behaved class and have given the police comparatively little trouble.

Thursday's Daily.

Four hundred and fifty head of fine merino sheep were shipped to Wyoming yesterday by the Baldwin Sheep and Land Co.

Mr. W. Bolton, of Antelope, is in the city. He informs us that the loss of his firm in the recent fire will amount to about $10,000. Their building and stock being only partly insured.

James Smith, a sheepherder for Adams & Wells, whose ranch is 35 miles from Pendleton, had a lively fight with a cinnamon bear recently. Two shots from Smith's rifle made the bear mad, and he charged and handled Smith roughly. Smith's dogs came to the rescue and drove the bear off. Smith was badly scratched and clawed, but escaped serious injury.

Monday a runaway couple was arrested at Arlington. The woman was the wife of John Welsh, a baker of Portland, and had skipped out with a fellow who had the appearance of a hobo. When arrested Mrs. Welsh tried to take her life with an overdose of laudanum, but was saved by the doctors. She was taken back to Portland by her husband.

Letters received from the eighteen recruits who left several days ago for Frisco state that their trip was uneventful and that they all arrived safely and in good health. When they reached there they were met by the ladies of the Red Cross society who entertained them and furnished them with a splendid lunch as well as necessary articles to make them comfortable during their stay.

Dispatches received from Michigan yesterday in connection with the O. D. Taylor case, state that the case which was appealed to the supreme court had been decided in his favor. Several months ago after the long trial in Saginaw, Mr. Taylor was found guilty of obtaining money under false pretenses and appealed to the supreme court with the above result. This will be quite a pleasant surprise to Taylor's friends as they had little hopes that such a decision would be given by the supreme court of Michigan.

The wheat crop of Umatilla county is ripening very rapidly, and within ten days harvesting machines will be seen in operation in every part. Various reports are coming in and estimates being made as to the probable yield of fall and spring wheat, but even the lowest figures place the crop equal to and above that of last year, and much better than in many preceding years, says the Pendleton Tribune.

From arrivals from Antelope we learn that Mrs. Thos. Condon, daughter of W. N. Wiley, of this city, and her little daughter were severely burned in the recent fire at that place. It seems that they were rooming in the Masonic building and met with the accident while attempting to escape. Mr. Condon lost something like $100 in coin, which they had in their room. Outside of this, no serious accidents are reported.

Yesterday Drs. Belle C. Reinhart, Logan and Sutherland held an autopsy over the remains of the late Geo. Morgan, in accordance with a request made by Mr. Morgan a short time before his death. In the course of examination it was found death had resulted from blood poisoning caused by the failure of one kidney and the intestines to perform their functions. The right kidney was almost gone while the intestines in the lower part showed much adhesion and an accumulation of pus. The whole trouble was caused by an attack of appendicitis several years ago.

The fifth annual assembly of the Willamette Valley Chautauqua Association began Tuesday morning with the largest first day's attendance in the history of the association. At 11 o'clock the assembly was opened with the invocation by Rev. M. L. Rugg, of the First Baptist church, of Oregon City. An address of welcome by President Miller followed. Governor-elect T. T. Geer responded to the address of welcome. The numbers on the program were enthusiastically applauded, and responses to encores were the rule. Headquarters and campers' tents are more numerous than ever before, and more are going up. It is already evident that this will be the greatest Chautauqua assembly ever held at Gladstone Park.

The trial of Chas. Ross for the murder of Waltuce Benson, an Indian of the Tappanish tribe, was begun in Seattle Tuesday. Benson was killed on the Yakima reservation last November. The information charges Ross with killing Benson with an iron bar and afterward breaking his neck. The defense will endeavor to prove that Benson met his death by falling from his horse while intoxicated.

Reports from Sherman county state that haying is in progress in that vicinity and in a short time the farmers will be working late and early to harvest one of the largest crops that Sherman county has ever produced. To say that the farmers are jubilant is unnecessary.

The Sarah Dixon arrived last evening about 9 o'clock, after having gone to Bonneville and met the Baker which, on account of the swift water, was not powerful enough to come as far as the locks. A transfer of freight and passengers will be made at this place until such time as the Regulator and Dalles City are in shape to go into service again.

He respectfully invites his friends, patrons and the general public to call and inspect his stock before purchasing elsewhere. THE REGULATOR STRIKES

A ROCK AND IS BEACHED

During a Heavy Gale the Trim Little Vessel of The D. P. & A. N. Co. Meets With a Serious Accident in Which Her Hull was Badly Damaged--Two Hundred Passengers and Large Amount of Freight Were Safely Removed.

News reached the city shortly after noon Tuesday that the steamer Regulator had been sunk a short distance below the locks. As it was difficult for a time to gain particulars, quite an uneasiness was felt for the passengers and crew but later news stated that no lives were lost and that the damage was comparatively light.

It appears that the Regulator was making the run across from the Washington to the Oregon side below the entrance to the locks. A very strong wind was blowing from the Washington shore at the time, and this along with the swift water and large load of freight and passengers made it hard to handle her. When the boat came close to the Oregon shore the wind and current caught her and before anything could be done the trim little craft was driven with terrible force against the rocks on the shore near the end of the old portage. At first the passengers did not know that any serious danger threatened them and not until the lines were out and Mate Alden called "All ashore!" did they realize the true state of affairs.

In less than twenty minutes from the time the rocks crushed into the vessel's side all the passengers were landed and the deckhands were busily engaged in getting the freight and livestock ashore, which they succeeded in doing to a great extent before the water came over the lower deck.

From the time the lines were run out until the lower deck was submerged the boat continued to careen, and for a time it was feared she would upset. She is, however, considered to be in a comparatively safe position, and can easily be raised as soon as proper contrivances can be secured.

The accident was one that could not possibly be averted, and the action of the officers and crew was commendable. They were cool and collected and did splendid work in getting the two hundred passengers off without a single accident.

Over one hundred of the passengers arrived on the 5:20 train last evening, the others remaining over until the night train and today's boat. On account of the enormous traffic over the D. P. & A. N. line at present, the temporary damage to the boat will cause great inconvenience to the company.

The Regulator is certainly one of the strongest and best vessels on the Columbia, and as it is a Dalles boat in every sense of the word, everyone regretted the accident.

THE DALLES STEAM LAUNDRY

An Industry Which is Proving a Success--Number of Hands Employed--Work Done.

A few months ago when the steam laundry opened under the present management, many of our people thought that it was a venture that would prove anything but a success. In this, however, they were mistaken, since the laundry has proven by the amount of work secured, as well as the splendid manner in which it is done, that it will be successful in every regard and continue to gain the patronage not only of the people of this city, but also of the smaller towns in Eastern Oregon and Washington.

At present ten hands are employed in the laundry, and at times additional labor must be put on in order to do the work.

People who have patronized Portland laundries for years have changed and given their work to the home plant and say that it is satisfactory in every regard. It could scarcely be otherwise, however, as their machinery is as good as can be found anywhere, and the head lady has had years of experience in the business, understanding it thoroughly.

The people of this city are anxious for home industries, so that many who are at present out of work can gain employment and that the monthly pay rolls will increase. Unless this industry is patronized, there will be little inducement to start others, and the proper stimulus is the undivided patronage of our people.
