It's Human Nature.
 This readiness to accept the wonderful and miraculous in preference to commonplace truth. A plausible and glib-tongued doctor can go from town to town curing, or trying to cure, people, and have a great influx of shokels, while every community in which the so-called doctor goes is supplied with quiet, learned practitioners, who have forgotten more than the fakir ever learned, and they can give you the best treatment within the reach of human knowledge. While your home doctors carry you from year to year, get up at all times of the night and are your servants during the day, and you pay them when you are well or able, the fakir gets the cash, and is gone forever. If your eyes are troubling you in any way, call on Prof. P. G. Dant, the only graduated optician or doctor of refraction in The Dalles, two doors west of Keller's bakery. I am here to stay, and guarantee all eye work.

YELLOW FEVER.

The Glorious Opportunity to Destroy It Now Being Opened to Americans.

The expected has happened, and yellow fever has attacked our troops at Santiago. The first reports that were permitted to reach the public were dated July 12, on which day there were 14 new cases. Within three or four days after that the total number of cases to date was admitted to have been upward of 300, so that it is certain that the disease has been among the troops for some time, probably having attacked them almost immediately after the landing was made.

The policy of concealment was wholly justifiable at that time, for a confession of the truth would have served no purpose in protecting the home ports, and would simply have encouraged the Spaniards to delay surrender, and would have caused unavailing anxiety and discouragement at home.

All the accounts of the epidemic agree that the disease is in an unusually mild form, by far the greater number of those attacked recovering after the normal period of not very great suffering. Among the sufferers were very many of the Red Cross surgeons and nurses, all of whom, so far as is known, have entirely recovered or are convalescent. Many immune surgeons and nurses are on the way now to Santiago, and will be assigned to the fever hospitals immediately upon their arrival.

Now that there is no human enemy in our way, our sanitary officers in the conquered province have an excellent opportunity to give to the world an object lesson in cleanliness. And we are perfectly confident that, with the filth of Santiago destroyed, the houses cleaned and disinfected, the infected huts burned, and our camps removed to the hills as far as that may be possible, Gen. Yomito Negro will follow the lead of Gen. Toral and wield to the inevitable.

We have always believed that the chief reward to our country for undertaking this modern crusade against the Saracens, and one that will fully compensate us for expenditure of blood and money, will be the liberation of our southern states from the constant menace of yellow fever. We are fighting not only for the freedom of Cuba from Spanish tyranny, but for the freedom of America from Spanish disease. The accomplishment of the first object is almost realized, and that of the second is plainly in sight.

It is not expected, however, that this glorious victory can be won without a struggle, and we therefore welcome the battle which is now on, fearful indeed that the loss may be heavy, yet with no misgiving as to the outcome of the contest.—Medical Record.

Sober and Suspected.
 This is how he came to swear:
 It was four a. m. when he got home. He didn't fumble around the latch for an hour, stutter in his talk, or awaken everyone in the neighborhood with an unseemly noise. He was sober: hadn't drunk a drop.
 Instead, he struck the keyhole at the first attempt and entered. All was quiet. He put his hat and coat on the hall rack and was about to take off his shoes before going upstairs, when an old, familiar voice sounded gratefully on his ear:
 "Is that you, Jack?"
 "Yes, Nell."
 Then he began:
 "It's three minutes after four. I did not let the cat follow me in. I've just returned from one of our excursions. The gas is turned down low. The doors are all locked; the windows fastened. I paid the taxes this afternoon. Mary's baby's got the measles. That isn't our log barking."
 And when he tumbled into bed Nell looked at him out of sleepy eyes and said:
 "Jack, you've been drinking."—N. O. Times-Democrat.

Her Idea of Deaux.
 The ideas of children as to the beaux of kitchen maids are sometimes rather limited.
 "Maggie," said a little girl not long ago, "have you a beau?"
 "Why, of course, I have," replied Maggie.
 "Well, then," persisted the little one, "what is he—a policeman or a street car conductor?"—Chicago Post.
