Saturday's Daily.

Workmen are engaged in repairing the valves of the locks at the Cascades today.

Why don't some one ask us if it isn't a beautiful day? These be the days that are worth mentioning.

And now we are compelled to inform eastern people that away out in Oregon we have a guideless pacer with a record of 2:04 1/4.

As the winter months come on the interest in bowling circles increases, and this bids fair to be the principal amusement from the number who are now becoming agitated over it.

One might suppose, from the fact that 500 turkeys were this morning shipped by one firm, the Commission company, to Portland, that Dalles people had decided not to give thanks this year.

Mrs. M. Zirka was delighted yesterday to receive a number of souvenir handkerchiefs from her two boys at Manila, from whom she had not heard for some time.

The reunion of the Epworth Leaguers and their friends last night at the Methodist church was particularly pleasant.

If there's one thing above another that The Dalles needs, it is a humane society.

The most important bankruptcy case since the new Federal Bankruptcy law went into effect was filed in the United States District Court at San Francisco Monday last.

The Dalles can justly be accused of being decidedly "stuck up" over her schools and we don't care who knows that we are.

Monday's Daily.

'Twas a busy day at the Saltmarshes stock yards, when 1080 head of cattle from the Baldwin Sheep and Land Company and H. Cleek, of Prineville, were being loaded on the cars.

Which shall it be? So questioned the weather provider this morning, and then before coming to a final decision, sent us snow and then rain and rain and then snow. At last seeing that we were determined to have rain, our petitions were granted and we have had it abundantly.

A force of men (very few of whose faces were familiar to Dalles people) began work this morning on the trenches preparatory to laying the new water mains in our city. The work was begun on Jefferson street, between Second and Third, and 'twill not be long before we can feel doubly secure against fire.

The appeal for help from fire-swept Canyon City is meeting with a generous response from the people of Baker City, the relief fund having reached the 300 mark. Are Dalles people going to let the matter pass unheeded? Surely we can do nearly as well as Baker City. Who'll start the ball rolling?

Last evening a union meeting of the Oregon Bible society was held in the Congregational church, and the agent, Rev. P. C. Heltzer gave a stirring address on the work of the society in Oregon, Washington and Northwestern Idaho. He said that in this territory 8220 families had been found without a bible, 5753 of which had been supplied. Beside, 8795 young men and women and 4500 boys and girls had been given bibles. Much interest was manifested, and at the close of the meeting a re-organization of the society here was effected.

Sheriff Kelly made a very hurried trip to Salem yesterday, taking with him Thos. Riley and Curly Keith. The former was sentenced to three years in the penitentiary for larceny from the store of Mays & Crowe, while the latter must spend one year within its walls, he being the culprit who stole money from the pockets of clothes which were hanging in the purser's office on the Dalles City last summer.

How few who are in the habit of playfully pulling the chair from under another as he is about to sit down, realize just what fatal results are likely to occur from such an action. A week ago at Hollingsworth, Wash., the 16-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. McGuire came to his death from concussion of the brain caused by striking the back of his head against the edge of the chair, which was pulled from under him by a friend. What remorse must have come to his companion as the awful news reached him that he had been the cause of his chum's death.

The Army and Navy Register of Nov. 12th, says: "So many applications for discharge from the volunteer service have been received by the war department, that the secretary has decided that no more applications for discharges will be granted, unless, in the opinion of the officials, good and sufficient reasons are given. Already so many men have been discharged from certain of the regiments that these organizations have been reduced to a numerical strength quite out of keeping with the needs of the service."

If there's one thing above another that The Dalles needs, it is a humane society. The class of citizens who have the slightest human feelings are continually shocked and grieved by the cruelty which is daily practiced by owners of animals. Then the way fowls of all kinds are dressed and then killed is something appalling. Today a gentleman was heard to remark that he fairly turned sick as he watched the manner in which the turkeys are prepared for market. They are at first stabbed in the roof of the mouth and hung up by the legs to die gradually. But instead of waiting until they are fairly dead, in their hurry to proceed with the job the poor things are divested of their feathers at once. One old gobbler, who, like a cat, had nine lives, was seen to get up and give his persecutors a merry chase after most of his feathers had been removed. Such inhuman actions in a Christian community is beyond the ken of the better class of citizens.

The most important bankruptcy case since the new Federal Bankruptcy law went into effect was filed in the United States District Court at San Francisco Monday last. The petitioner is Jesse E. Frick, now engaged in mining near Weaverville, Trinity county, Cal. He was formerly president of the First National Bank, of Arlington, Or., and was at one time very wealthy. He began speculating in land in Oregon a few years ago during the boom, which forms the principal part of his liabilities. His friends say that his downfall was due entirely to the heavy fall in the price of real estate, and that his failure was legitimate. His liabilities which amount to $130,000, with no assets, are divided among a large number of banks and loan companies, mostly in the East.—Agriculturalist.

The streets are decidedly muddy; but 'tis better to have them muddy now and reap the benefit of the rains which caused them later on.

The usual Thanksgiving shoot for turkeys and chickens will take place on the beach Thanksgiving day, conducted by A. Y. Marsh.

Work on the valves of the locks was so far completed yesterday as to have enabled the boats to pass through; but on account of having made arrangements to transfer passengers, fearing that they could not go through, the transfer was made.

Sunday night there were three baptisms at the Christian church, and two persons will be baptized this evening, having made confession. Rev. Boltz has recently organized a church at Wind river, with thirty-one additions and twenty-one conversions.

The force at Maier & Benton's store has been somewhat demolished for the past few days, Henry Bills being confined to his room with rheumatism, and Harry Gordion being laid up with mumps, which seem to have quite a sway in the city at present.

This afternoon the first feeling of penitence or regret was shown that has been displayed during this term of court. As Wm. Daly was being sentenced to two years in the penitentiary for burglary he was deeply moved, and as he walked out of the court room his eyes were filled with tears. Such feeling is commendable.

A nice little rain has visited this section, and caused the grass on the hills to become perceptibly greener, and the smile on the faces of the somewhat anxious stockmen correspondingly brighter. A couple more such showers and the pasture on the range will afford very fair picking before winter sets in.—Heppner Times.

Mr. and Mrs. I. N. Sargent this morning received an invitation to be present at the christening of the battleship Wisconsin, which will take place on Saturday next. The official party left Milwaukee last Saturday and will stop at Tacoma and Portland. Miss Elizabeth Stephenson, daughter of ex-Congressman Stephenson of Wisconsin, who will christen the Wisconsin, is a niece of Mrs. Sargent, and she is accompanied by her father and five other members of the family, so that it would be great pleasure to Mr. and Mrs. Sargent to join them on the trip to San Francisco and enjoy the festivities. However they find it impossible to do so.

Speaking of cruelty to animals, why not mention the shameful manner in which the most useful and noble of all beasts are treated by their inhuman owners. They are lacerated on the slightest provocation, while the blood of lookers-on fairly boils with indignation. Then, too little thought seems to be given to the amount which they are supposed to be able to haul, and they fairly sink under the weight imposed upon them. Added to all this, the poor animal is supposed to stand, for an indefinite time tied to some neighboring post in all kinds of weather and without a mouthful of food or a drink of water. Let us have a humane society and put a stop to these outrages.

FORESTER CAPTURED IN NEVADA

Philip Brogan's Murderer Will be Brought to Justice.

It is a difficult matter in this day and age, to avoid the vigilance of the officers of the law and to escape the penalty of a crime committed. He who attempts it may succeed for a time, but "murder will out" and his whereabouts be at length discovered. Last evening Sheriff Kelly received a telegram from officers in Nevada saying that they were on Forester's track and expected to capture him that night, requesting at the same time that the warrant for his arrest be sent. He immediately wired them to secure him, and the warrant would be forth coming.

After spending a restless night the sheriff hastened to his office early this morning only to find that no word had been received during the night. But a little later came the following dispatch: WINNEMUCCA, Nev., Nov. 22, 1898. Sheriff Robt. Kelly, The Dalles, Or.: We have Forester arrested. He acknowledges crime. Wire warrant and you can come for him right away. He waives requisition. W. McDERMID, Sheriff.

The warrant was telegraphed at once, and Sheriff Kelly, accompanied by Mr. Ed Glisan, will leave on the early morning train on their way to secure Forester and bring him to justice.

CEDAR CIRCLE ENTERTAINS.

A Good Program is Rendered, a Good Time Enjoyed, and Good Oysters Served.

Last evening was a lively one in social circles, and chief among the events was the entertainment given by the Cedar Circle to the Woodmen of Mt. Hood camp and their wives.

About 8 o'clock a jolly party gathered at Fraternity Hall, and made the most of the time until a late hour. The following program was rendered, some numbers of which were very amusing: Song and Drill..... Ten Little Indians Vocal Solo..... Annie Hansen Summersault Chorus..... Three Boys and Girls Mock Imitation..... Vocal Duo..... Mr. Dawson and Mrs. Stephens (Accompanied by Mrs. Patterson.) Vocal Solo..... Miss Male Cushing Optical Illusions.....

At the close of the program a genuine oyster supper was given the guests, and so generous were the ladies that not a person was seen fishing for the oysters in the stew.

Last, but not least was the dance at the close of the evening, for none enjoy this past time more than the members of these two orders.

Notice of Reward.

We will pay $1 per head for all horses branded H (quarter-circle H), commonly known as the Honeyman, De Hart & Glenn railroad stock, delivered to me at Rowena, Or., or put-in a pasture near by and notice given to me at Rowena or Hugh Glenn at the Dalles. H. CLINE, Herder.

DEATH OF MRS. GRACE CONDON

She is Suddenly Called Away on Sunday Morning After a Very Short Illness.

The peaceful quiet of the Sabbath morn gave place to awe and sorrow as yesterday morning from home to home was borne the sad news that with the rising of the sun came also the messenger from the spirit world and summoned Mrs. Wm. Condon to the realms of eternal sunshine where cometh no night.

Perhaps the shock would have been less intense had her sickness been of long duration; but many of her friends were not aware that she was ill. Indeed, but three days had elapsed since she had been seen upon the streets in the best of health and spirits. Wednesday evening she was feeling slightly ill, and as the disease developed it proved to be tonsillitis, which finally so took hold of the system as to cause heart failure. Saturday evening, as she seemed much worse, her sister, Dr. Gertrude French, was telephoned for at Portland and arrived on the midnight train. She, with Mr. Condon, kept watch during the night. The remainder of the family, never dreaming but that as soon as quietness and sleep came to her she would be better, went to their homes. Grace seemed very restless, complaining of being "so tired" and finally said to her sister, "Gertrude, I'm going to die." Upon being asked if she were afraid, she answered "No." She grew rapidly weaker, the heart seemed to beat fainter and at about 4 o'clock, before the relatives, who had been summoned, reached her bedside, she "passed through glory's morning gate and walked in paradise."

Grace French was born in Stanstead, Canada, on Oct. 30, 1867, and came to The Dalles with her parents when but a child, where she has since lived, with the exception of two years, which were spent in the Boston Conservatory of Music. She was graduated from the Wasco Independent Academy in 1884, and was married to William Condon Nov. 30, 1889. She was an earnest member of the Methodist church and allied with its every interest, being the leading soprano and main stay of its choir until she was called to join the "Choir invisible." In the many walks of life where her sweet, gentle presence was wont to be felt, will she be sadly missed; but more particularly in the home, where the noblest, highest characteristics of her nature were displayed, will the husband and little 8-year-old son, Clifton, seek for her in vain.

She leaves beside her husband and child, a father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. S. French, a brother, Frank, and sister, Dr. Gertrude, with all of whom she seemed to be a favorite, being of a clinging, trusting disposition.

Funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock from the residence. Sleep soft, beloved, we sometimes say, But have no time to charm away. Set dreams that dream again, But never doubt I dream again. Shall break the happy slumber when He giveth His beloved sleep.

CALIFORNIA VS. OREGON.

By Their Fruits Ye Shall Know Them, And We Are Known.

California is beginning to show to a marked degree just how much she fears her more than formidable rival in the fruit industry. It is a well-known fact for years that our fruit was shipped East branded as California fruit. This was proven by visitors in the East who recognized on the boxes names of Oregon raisers. The tables have turned, and to secure good sales for their shipments they are compelled to place our brand upon their fruit. And now comes a dispatch from San Jose, Cal., wherein the prunegrowers of that vicinity charge that Oregon prunes have been sold there and shipped East as Santa Clara county prunes.

A gentleman who recently arrived in Salem from California says that he has been foreman in a prunerying establishment in California and knows something of the facts. He says that the California shippers have been branding their goods "Oregon prunes" in order to increase their sales. Early in the season the California dealers were anxious to get Oregon prunes to ship there and sell as California product, their own not being up to the requirements of contracts already made.

It is surprising to what an extent the name of Oregon as a fruit-growing state has gained prominence. The writer was surprised at the recent meeting of the National Press Association to be questioned by people from the far East as to whether the next association was to be held where they could be able to secure some of the wonderful Oregon fruit. Or where they might perchance visit some of the orchards. But greater was the astonishment when an editor from Maine began to speak of the delicious flavor of Hood River strawberries. Not amazement that they should be mentioned, but because of the thought that clear across the continent people are relishing strawberries raised in a state which used to be considered by them a part of California.

California may as well yield the palm at once, and not try such subterfuges as decrying the quality of our prunes.

Yellow Jaundice Cured.

Suffering humanity should be supplied with every means possible for its relief. It is with pleasure we publish the following: "This is to certify that I was a terrible sufferer from Yellow Jaundice for over six months, and was treated by some of the best physicians in our city and all to no avail. Dr. Bell, our druggist, recommended Electric Bitters; and after taking two bottles, I was entirely cured. I now take great pleasure in recommending them to any person suffering from this terrible malady. I am gratefully yours, M. A. Hargity, Lexington, Ky." Sold by Blakeley & Houghton, Druggist.

Funeral of Mrs. Wm. Condon.

The funeral services of Mrs. Wm. Condon were held at the family residence, on Fifth and Union Sts., Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, when a very large number of friends were present to show the high regard in which their deceased friend was held and pay their last tribute of respect to her whose sweet disposition had won their affections.

Rev. Wood very appropriately chose as his text these words, "Her sun has gone down while it was yet day." During his remarks he said while to us it seemed unnatural that such should be the case, and though we cannot see the justice of the sun going down on such a young life, yet we can rest on the mercy of our Heavenly Father. We can be comforted by the thought that what seems sunset to us is really sunrise for her and brightness before her. Sunset always casts some rays behind, inviting those who sorrow here to follow in her footsteps, thus eventually reaching the fullest sunrise of the shore beyond. He spoke beautifully of the life and character of her whom today we mourn.

The choir sang "There's a Witness in God's Mercy," "Nearer my God to Thee," "Shall We Gather at the River" and "God be With You Till We Meet Again." The two former hymns were special favorites, and often sung by her whose voice now blends with those of the celestial choir.

The funeral was attended by the alumni of Wasco Independent Academy in a body, and the pall bearers were L. Porter, E. C. Pease, T. A. Senfett, J. C. Hostetler, T. Butler and N. Sinnott.

A Timely Suggestion.

TO THE EDITOR:

Your appeal to the citizens of The Dalles in behalf of the burned out people of Canyon City should surely awaken a quick and hearty response. Quick, because winter is upon us. Hearty, because, so to speak, they are our next neighbors. Let us fancy for a moment our stores of pillows, blankets and winter clothes suddenly taken from us, and then quickly do as we would be done by. We hope those who know most about Canyon City and the best means of getting our contributions into the best hands for distribution, will come forward with their counsel at least. There is surely no time for delay.

EDUCATIONAL MEETING.

At Franklin School House, in Hood River Valley—Well Attended.

An interesting and instructive educational meeting was held at the Franklin school house, west of Hood River, Saturday, Nov. 19th, Superintendent C. L. Gilbert presiding. A number of local teachers, and a great many patrons and pupils from the home and surrounding districts, were in attendance. Especially noticeable was the large number of Civil War veterans present, their presence being a living monument to the patriotism which the teachers are striving so hard to instill into the minds of the young.

The meeting was opened by a stirring song of welcome by some of Mr. Neff's larger pupils.

"Should we have music in our schools?" was an earnest plea for more and better teaching of music in our schools, by Miss Anna Smith. An open discussion followed by Messrs. Neff, Howe and Allard.

H. L. Howe gave an interesting talk upon "Plants and Children." It was shown wherein, with some of the most common flowers, plants and grains some excellent lessons may be deducted. That Oregon, a state, so full of the growth of plant life, does not put more stress upon the study of Botany is remarkably strange.

"Civil War," by R. R. Allard, brought forth a topical outline for the study of the same, the principal feature being the strong emphasis placed upon the necessity of teaching the causes which led to this great internal strife, and the results finally obtained.

"Reading in Primary Grades" by Miss Eliza Stevens, developed some good points along this line, and made a little more clear some of the foggy points so many teachers are struggling to overcome in primary reading work.

The meeting then adjourned for an elegant luncheon which the good ladies of the district had so thoughtfully provided.

After luncheon Miss Nettie Hart gave a stirring patriotic recitation.

"Mental Arithmetic," by Miss Hester Howe was an unusually strong paper for one so young, but when we take into consideration that Miss Howe made 100 per cent. in the last teachers' examination in this particular branch we need not wonder. She realizes the early presentment of this study to students, and the necessity of constant, ceaseless drill.

Miss Mella White rendered a pathetic recitation entitled, "The Second Trial." The audience had a hard struggle to keep back the tears, so well was the piece rendered.

M. P. Isenburg made an enthusiastic and patriotic little speech upon "The Relation of the Flag to the School."

The meeting then adjourned and the audience passed out to witness the flag raising by the G. A. R. and the rousing salute given by the school children.
