ORGANIZED CRIME.

On the 11th day of July, 1892, the organized miners of Canyon Creek blew up the Frisco mill and engaged in a pitched battle in which several men were killed.

The Spokesman-Review says the criminal character of the miners' unions of the Coeur d'Alenes has been demonstrated by their regular "celebration" of the anniversary of that terrible day of anarchy.

A letter written by Michael J. Dowd, member of the union, and present assessor of Shoshone county, which has been preserved among the records of the Burke union, reflects the spirit which for years has animated these criminal organizations.

PAYING THE CUBANS.

It is difficult for a man to refuse money when it is offered to him. Money is what the majority of people are after, and the Cuban is not constituted differently from other people in this respect.

The agitation of the leaders, who hold aloof, is largely of the buncombe character. A good many of them are sorely grieved because the ousting of the Spaniards did not give them an opportunity to fatten in those walks of life which had been so profitable to the former representatives from Madrid.

political agitators who are anxious for position, power and prestige. For the rank and file the money paid over ought to prove a veritable blessing.

JOE WHEELER IN BOSTON.

Memorial day observations in different parts of the country were noticeable for a reiteration of those expressions of good will between North and South, which have been one of the healthiest manifestations growing out of the late war.

Perhaps as noteworthy an incident as any in connection with the day's celebration was the appearance of General Joe Wheeler in Boston. The old cavalry leader not only attended the exercises, but was the orator of the day before a post of the Grand Army of the Republic.

It all goes to place in a strong light one of the incidental, but all-important, results of the late war with Spain. Time, no doubt, was gradually softening the once harsh feelings which estranged the North and the South.

The call to rally around the flag was answered in no other locality with more loyalty and enthusiasm than in the South, and the heroism of her sons, old and young, on land and on sea, took the form of a splendid but sacred pledge that she forever is in and of and for the Union.

The element, said to be in the war department, opposed to half-way measures in dealing with the Filipinos, will, it may be hoped, prove to be the controlling element, and that without unnecessary delay.

They are excited in Chicago over tuberculosis in the cows. Every one of twenty-three cows examined at the stock yards was found to be suffering from the disease. Although there was no outward sign, each one was found to have consumption in an advanced stage.

liver. Yet milk from all these cows was sold in the Chicago market a week ago. Very little is being done in Oregon to keep the disease down, or very little that is made public, as we have said.

Many of the volunteers who have returned from Manila declare that the Filipino ways of warfare are similar to those employed by the American Indian. The recent brutal murder of Captain Tilley by the natives of Negros bears the statement out, and reminds one of the days of Sitting Bull.

Ants that eat paper money have turned up in the Philippines, and only American gold and silver will be used to pay the army. The populists as well as the sluggard can now be referred to the industrious insect to gain wisdom.

A Curiosity.

J.E. Adeox, head watchmaker for our popular jeweler, Harry C. Liebe, has, in anticipation of the formation of a watch trust by the watch manufacturers throughout the country, taken the initiative by making a watch composed of parts of all the watches manufactured in this country.

Would Not Suffer So Again for Fifty Times Its Price. I awoke last night with severe pains in my stomach. I never felt so badly in all my life.

The funeral will be held from the Methodist church tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. All are invited to be present and give the poor unfortunate man such a burial as we would want a friend to have under the same circumstances.

SKULL LITERALLY CUT OFF.

Switchman J. C. Bradley Meets a Terrible Death Thursday Morning.

Although more accidents have occurred on the railway here during the past year than for years previous, the most dreadful, perhaps, is that which happened at 6:30 o'clock Thursday morning in the yards, when John C. Bradley, a switchman for the O. R. & N., was mutilated in a terrible manner, losing his life instantly.

It seems from the evidence given that the switch train was just a short distance west of the depot and had a car to "kick" in on the side track. Bradley stepped down between the cars to uncouple them, and must in some way have been thrown down.

Going to where he lay, they beheld an awful sight. He lay directly across the track, his feet across the north rail, and his head, or what was left of it, just inside the south rail. Evidently he had fallen in some way and was dragged a short distance, when his head struck the break rail and the top was literally cut off, a large portion of his brains lying about five feet from the track.

We the jury summoned by W. H. Butts, coroner of Wasco county, state of Oregon, to inquire into the cause of the death of the body now before us, from an examination of the testimony produced before us, and after due and careful consideration and deliberation find the following facts:

That the deceased was John Charles Bradley, a single man, age about 31 years, whose occupation was a switchman in the O. R. & N. Co. yards at The Dalles, Oregon, and that he came to his death at the hour of 6:35 o'clock a. m. on the first day of June, 1899, in said railroad yards, while performing his duties as such switchman; that said death was caused by being run over by part of the train upon which he was working while attempting to uncouple a car or said cars from said train.

That the deceased was John Charles Bradley, a single man, age about 31 years, and had worked here several months during the fall, going East some time in January. He returned recently, and commenced work as switchman last Sunday. His home was in Philadelphia, where he is said to have two sisters living. All witnesses who knew him spoke in the best of terms of his character at the inquest this morning.

The Dalles City, Oregon, June 1, 1899. Bradley was an unmarried man of 31 years, and had worked here several months during the fall, going East some time in January. He returned recently, and commenced work as switchman last Sunday.

Memorial Day.

Especially we wish to thank the Rev. J. DeForest for his most appropriate and instructive memorial sermon on the evening of the 28th, the Rev Poling for his eloquent address on the evening of the 30th, The Dalles Commercial club band, and the choir of singers for their great kindness and material assistance.

Last, but not least, we express our deepest gratitude to the ladies of the W. R. C. for their labors in furnishing flowers and everything for the occasion, not forgetting the bountiful supply and superb quality of the baked beans, coffee and hardtack with which we were regaled after returning from the cemetery.

Good friends, one and all, we thank you.

JAS. W. NESMITH POST, G. A. R.
