LOCAL BREVITIES.
Saturday's Daily

N. J. Sinnott, of this city, will deliver the 4th of July oration at Goldendale this year.

Pages says the young ladies can't wear their summer dresses tomorrow; that it'll be fair, but cooler.

Six hundred head of cattle were delivered to Cox & Pyle at Saitmarsh's stock yards today. They will be shipped to Montana tonight.

Mr. J. Herbert Preston, formerly with the American Import Company, will arrive in The Dalles Monday, and accept a position with E. Jacobsen.

C. J. Stubling is sole agent in this city for the celebrated Nglee brandy. This brandy is of the vintage of 1872, and is unexcelled for medicinal purposes.

There will be no meeting of the Elks tonight. During the summer months regular meetings will be held on the first Saturday in July and August, and the third Saturday in September. Special meetings may be called at any time.

The ferry boat Klickitat met with an accident the other day, says the Pioneer. While loading ties in the mouth of Rock creek she sprung a leak, caused by loading too heavily on one end of the boat, and before she could be hauled ashore she sank. She is not damaged materially, but there is not much chance of getting her afloat until the high water in the Columbia commences to recede.

C. L. Phillips has about completed the work of removing his grocery store to the North side of Eighth street, where it will be attached to the new portion recently built. Together they will make a good sized store, and much of an improvement over the old one.

Oscar Minor is of the opinion that the coyote bounty law is having the desired effect. Last week he rode for several days over the range, including a portion of the mountains where they used to be plentiful, but failed to see a single coyote. The boys got in their "dirty work" on these sheep-eaters in proper shape.—Heppner Times.

E. L. Matlock, sheriff of Morrow county, died at his home in Heppner Wednesday evening and was buried on Thursday at 3 p. m. Mr. Matlock was one of the pioneers of Oregon. He was one of the men who came into Eastern Oregon when it was new and not yet changed from its naturally wild condition. He had his part in the work of development, and he did that work well.

Yesterday afternoon Gen. John F. Miller and James Bybee arrived in the city, having made the trip from Klamath Falls overland. Having disposed of some real estate in that section, it was their intention to return to Salem by the Lebanon route. However, finding the snow so deep in the mountains they came by the way of Prineville. Both gentlemen are well up in years, one 80 and the other 85, but they averaged fifty miles a day on their trip. They left on the boat this morning.

This morning Edward Breen, who is manager of the D. P. Ketchum ranch on 5-Mile, where he keeps his stock, was pretty badly bruised up by one Thompson, an employe at the ranch. It seems that Breen was attempting to carry out Mr. Ketchum's orders concerning the feed to be given the stock, when Thompson refused to obey. Breen started to do the work himself and the other man jumped at him, and as he is a much older man, bruised him up considerably. He was brought to Mr. Ketchum's home in this city and a physician called. The left arm is badly swollen and perhaps broken, and his side also seriously injured.

One of the best means of advertising Oregon can receive is in the distribution throughout the country of the beautiful photographs of the scenery along our grand Columbia. Much of this has been done in past years by the O. R. & N. Co. and in almost every railway station may be seen pictures which attract travelers and cause questions to be asked concerning the country where they may be seen such views. The D. P. & A. N. Co. is doing much along the line of such advertising at present. Yesterday Mr. Gifford showed us a large size photograph of a view of the Regulator taken near Castle Rock, and showing snow-capped mountains in the background. Many of such views are now being taken and used not only as advertisements, but to beautify the homes of Oregon people.

While discouraging reports continue to reach us from the Alaska mining district, and disheartened prospectors are returning on every steamer, every few days letters are received from the mines in Oregon which are gratifying to not only those directly interested, but all who feel a pride in our state. Yesterday Mrs. Isaac Joles received word from her husband, who is part owner in the Sand Gulch mines in Grant Co., and his reports are all that could be desired. In the three or four days previous to the time he wrote, in making a clean up of a small portion they had worked, they secured thirteen ponds, which would make nearly $3000. Delaying to send the letter for a few days he wrote a few lines later and said they had picked up $340 the day before, and were not through with the clean up in the small canyon they had been working yet. Who says Oregon mining doesn't pay?

Monday's Daily.
J. F. Moore, of this city, was appointed a notary public Friday by Gov. Geer.

E. Jacobsen has found out that there is to be a 4th of July in this year's calendar and from the looks of the fireworks he has in stock he must think Dalles people are going to celebrate.

The case against Marshall, charged with stealing a horse from Martin on Dutch Flat, came up for hearing in Justice Bayard's court this afternoon, and was not finished at the time of going to press.

Much trouble has been experienced with the sewer on Union street today, which, caved in. The cellars along that street were flooded this morning and workmen have been busy all day repairing the sewer.

Del Norte, the famous guideless pacer, which attracted so much attention here last fall, has been taken from Walla Walla to Salem, where he will go an exhibition mile against his record of 2.04 next Wednesday.

Having served seven years in The Dalles fire department, as members of the Jackson Engine Co. No. 1, Messrs. John Herdette and Joseph Knebel were today issued exemption certificates by the board of fire delegates.

Messrs. D. M., J. W. and S. French, accompanied by C. J. Crandall, left this morning for White river falls, in the Tygh district, for the purpose of taking elevations and determining the power to be secured from these falls.

This morning the furnishings of the barber shop of Thos. McCoy were sold at sheriff's sale and bid in by Max Vogt for $150. The property was sold on execution founded on a judgment in the circuit court in the case of Vogt & Co. against Thos. McCoy.

Walla Walla people now have a treat ahead of them, for on Thursday night the ladies of that city will give a minstrel show under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Runcie. If it is half as good as the performance here, it'll be all right.

The new Benedictine monastery at Mount Angel, near Portland, the corner stone of which was laid last week, will be one of the most important Benedictine institutions in the world. It will cost when completed not far from $2,000,000, and probably more.

The river has continued to fall at this place, but the report says a rise from tonight until Friday, when it will stand at 42. A decided fall will then take place. The readings this morning were as follows: Lewiston, 17.3, a rise of .7; Wenatchee, 38.5, a rise of .7; Northport, 31.1, a rise of 1.1; Umatilla, 23.2, a fall of 1; The Dalles, 39.8, a fall of 1.2.

Capt. Sherman, of the steamer Regulator, resigned his position as captain last Friday, and made his last trip today. Chas. Alden, who has been mate of the Dalles City, will assume command bringing the boat back this evening. Capt. Alden understands the river thoroughly and any of the D. P. & A. N. steamers are safe with him at the helm.

Saturday evening Constable Hill made a trip to D. P. Ketchum's ranch on 5-Mile and arrested M. K. Thompson, charged with assault and battery on the person of Edward Breen. His trial was set for 2 o'clock this afternoon, but was postponed till later on account of Marshall's case coming up before Justice Bayard. N. H. Gates will appear for the defense and A. A. Jayne for the prosecution.

Yesterday's Oregonian gives notice of the death of Thomas M. Lawler at Nacusp, B. C.; but no particulars are given as to the cause. The Lawler boys, Larry and Thomas, will be remembered by Dalles people, both of them having been employed as painters at the company's shops here some years since. Thomas was the younger of the two. He leaves a wife and child, having married one of the Horton girls, formerly of this city.

The Dalles bowlers seem doomed to disappointment as far as bowling for the Feldenhimer trophy is concerned. The past two Saturdays they have planned to go to Portland for that purpose. Last Saturday they depended on passenger train No. 1, and of course it was late. Mayor Nolan has appeared on the scene both times, but couldn't win the trophy alone, despite his excellent record. They are not discouraged, however, and say they'll take the early train this week.

Tuesday's Daily.
James Fisher, who has been employed in the grocery store of M. T. Nolan, and formerly with A. L. Newman, has accepted a position with the Warco ware house company. Mr. Fisher is a young man who will succeed at whatever he undertakes, being steady and industrious.

Last night Deputy Sheriff Sexton arrested Frank Crane, of this city, who is wanted in Crook county on a charge of larceny from a dwelling. He is now a boarder at the county jail.

Children's day services at the Liberty school house last Sunday were well attended by the members and friends of Sunday school. The offering by the children was $2.70, and will be applied to the missionary fund.

Julius Fisher, who was formerly in this city, employed at the Elite barber shop, has opened a first class barber shop in the Hotel Perkins at Portland, where Dalles people will always be glad to find him when visiting there.

A dispatch from the officers at Sumpter summoned Sheriff Kelly to that place last night. One Genterman, a tombstone dealer, who obtained money from Chas. Frank, of this city, on a bogus check six weeks ago, having been apprehended at that place.

Rev. De Forest must have ordered weather for the occasion, for no better picnic weather could be imagined than that of today, when about seventy of the Episcopal Sunday school members and a few friends boarded the Regulator for an outing at Hood River. No doubt they have spent a most delightful day.

The town is full of country people today, and all look smiling and report crops and everything else the brightest. The rain of Saturday and Sunday was very general in the interior and came in good play. The only crops that are the least phased are those nearer the river, which have been burned slightly. The storm came a little too late to benefit them.

M. K. Thompson, who was arrested charged with assault and battery, demanded a jury trial and his case was continued from yesterday afternoon until 9 o'clock this morning, when N. H. Gates appeared for the plaintiff and A. A. Jayne for the defense. The jury brought in a verdict of guilty as charged and Justice Bayard fined him $15 or seven days in jail. In default of payment he now languisheth.

From Thos. Balfour, who came up from Lyle last evening, we learn that a man who was engaged in driving logs for Rowe yesterday at the mouth of Klickitat, fell between the logs and was drowned. The body has not as yet been recovered. The river is now a raging torrent, the recent rains making it worse than formerly. However, during the forty-mile drive which they have already made, not an accident has occurred before.

From a friend in Portland who attended the Mays-Ainsworth wedding we learn that the Oregonian failed to mention one of the prettiest features of the wedding, and that two of our sweetest Dalles "young ladies" were forgotten. The little twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Thompson, Edna and Lois, acted as flower girls, and attended in light blue silk gowns, made a very pretty picture as they carried baskets of the sweetest flowers with which to strew the path of the bridal party.

Last night about 9:30 o'clock, Pearl, the 6-year-old daughter of R. G. D. Wilson, died at the home of Mrs. F. W. McCune, on Seventh and Union street. Her father being in this city working for Hugh Glenn, Pearl came up from her home at Sprague about two weeks ago on a visit. She was taken ill two days since with what was supposed to be typhoid fever, but which terminated very suddenly in her death. The remains will be taken to Sprague tomorrow for burial by the side of her mother, who died last summer.

Those who have a good cherry crop this year may consider themselves fortunate, for Royal Anns are demanding an exceptionally good price, due perhaps to their scarcity. The crop in the Valley having failed, the commission merchants from Portland are coming up into Eastern Oregon and buying up the entire crop from different orchards. While large Royal Anns last year were sold for three cents, this year the fruit men are getting four and a half cents for the best. Where there is a full crop the fruit is smaller than usual; but those who have but a half crop can show some of the largest and best cherries we have ever seen.

A meeting of the members of the public library was held at the library room last night for the purpose of revising the charter. Among other things, it was arranged that any who are members of the library, that is, by paying 25 cents a month are entitled to its privileges, are also entitled to vote on any question which may come up in connection therewith. The ladies realized about $100 from the minstrel performance, a portion of which will be used in supplying new books, and thirty-five volumes will be added at once. This is a splendid opportunity to procure the latest reading, and many new members should be taken in.

The Modern Beauty.
Thrives on good food and sunshine, with plenty of exercise in the open air. Her form glows with health and her face blooms with its beauty. If her system needs the cleaning action of a laxative remedy, she uses the gentle and pleasant Syrup of Figs, made by the California Fig Syrup Co. only.

WE'LL ALL BE THERE.

And the Good Old Steamers of the D. P. & A. N. Line Will Be First to Greet the Boys.

Dalles people can now rest assured that an opportunity will be afforded them to go down the river and meet the returning soldier boys. Everybody wants to go, and sufficient means will be afforded to accommodate all who can get away.

Great plans are being made in Portland, and all passenger steamers, or as many as are deemed necessary, will be placed under the control of Capt. E. S. Edwards, U. S. local inspector, who will form them into a squadron two abreast and go down as far as St. Helens to escort the transport up the river. Each steamer will be listed to carry a certain number of passengers and a rate of $1 from Portland will be charged. The receipts will then be turned over to Capt. Edwards to be used for the entertainment fund. It is thought about 10,000 or 15,000 people will take advantage of the opportunity to meet the boys and welcome them.

As to the people of our city. Agent Allaway, of the D. P. & A. N. is very enthusiastic over the matter, and will do all in his power to give our own boys a royal welcome. Indeed, he is already planning all sorts of schemes to that end. Capt. Edwards has agreed to send up 300 tickets for those who desire to go from here, and the Regulator will be used on that occasion. It is thought that will not be sufficient to accommodate all, and if the height of the river will permit of the Dalles City being brought up, that too can be brought into use. As no doubt many friends from the country will desire to join us, more than one steamer will be needed.

The plan is to arrange to go down the night before so as to join the procession in the morning, and it is thought arrangements can be made for sleeping accommodations on the boats. Anyway, we'll all be there and on hand to send up cheer upon cheer. We will have the good old steamers of our own line gaily decorated and make them look so attractive that our boys will have the best welcome of all.

Mr. Allaway would be glad if different citizens would suggest a design to be used as our banner. As soon as it is determined about what time they'll reach the Columbia, then plans will be carried out.

WOMEN TRAMPS.

They are Now Abroad in the Land—Look Out for Them.

Still the tramp nuisance grows, and we are not only annoyed with men tramps and boy tramps, but women are assuming their rights along this line as well as others, and have joined the army of those who choose this as a means of obtaining a living. As is usual when women undertake anything, it is being done up brown and people are being imposed upon in a manner to suit the queen's taste, if not those who find themselves hoodwinked.

When women begin this sort of thing, where will this dreadful evil end? The best way to assist in quenching it is for the people to harden themselves against all such appeals, and, although it may seem uncharitable to say so, starve it down.

A little over a week ago a woman tramp made her appearance in this city, and as it was a comparatively new departure here, she succeeded in eliciting the sympathy of many of the ladies around town, who, in the kindness of their heart, assisted her. She told a story of a sick husband and four children, which was calculated to pull the wool over the eyes of any who gave her a hearing. No doubt the same people have been "working" the people of Walla Walla, as the following from the Statesman would indicate:

"Last Tuesday many prominent ladies had their sympathies thoroughly aroused by the pitiful tale from a Mrs. Wartleigh who said that she and her husband and four children had arrived in town and were without money or friends. The Ladies Relief Society rented a house, ordered groceries and wood and sent out bedding, clothing, in fact everything necessary for housekeeping.

"After having received these things Mrs. Wartleigh went around to the merchants with her sorrowful tales and upon being asked why she did not appeal to the Ladies Relief Society she said that they had refused to assist her. Last night the family departed taking all that they had collected and forgetting to say good-bye. It is thus that the merchants and the society are imposed upon."

MORE ABOUT THE ASYLUM.

The Sentinel Makes Further Charges Which Should Be Investigated.

The Salem Sentinel continues to speak freely regarding the manner in which the state insane asylum is conducted. In Saturday's issue it says: "Friends of the present asylum administration say the Sentinel has been too severe in its criticism of loose methods at that institution. To all such critics we would say, the half has not been told. There is even yet talk of an official investigation of the mysterious death at that institution of Del Main, and of another unattended patient who during the state fair was permitted to ride a hobby horse on the merry-go-round. Becoming dizzy, she fell off and her neck was broken. It seems that the price of a place there now is for the employe to keep his mouth shut—say nothing and saw wood.

"Much criticism is made of the method of handling the private funds of patients. They are said to be asked what they require, and are then made to sign a receipt in blank. The wording of these receipts affords a lovely opportunity for minor grafts and the working off of old, second-hand or shoddy clothing at a nice price.

"The manager is said to retain several employes who are wholly incompetent. Not only that, he has created new offices, with big salaries, has assessed and collected enormous political assessments. Last year he bled the employes for about $1100. One Democrat refused to contribute to the fund. He was threatened with discharge, but as he has no doubt learned by this time that silence is golden, he retains his job and says nothing. On the whole, we incline to the belief that should our critics investigate the management of the institution they would agree with us that our criticisms have been decidedly mild."

More Scared Than Hurt.

The old adage that "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," although a good one in many cases, probably does more harm than good when carried to the extreme, and a person might just as well "die as be scared to death."

When the news reached this city a week ago that a berry picker at Hood River had been taken to Portland and that it afterward developed that he had small-pox, the CHRONICLE accepted the news with a grain of allowance, and refrained from publishing the same, fearing that it might have been started through spite work and to injure the strawberry trade in Hood River valley. It now appears that such is the case, and that the people are more scared than hurt, the small-pox cases proving to be simple cases of chicken-pox.

A letter received from Dr. Hollister by the CHRONICLE this morning says: "I was called to Hood River yesterday afternoon by County Com. Evans, who requested me to bring another physician and investigate the small-pox scare there. Dr. Andrew Smith, of this city, accompanied me, and with Dr. Watt, of Hood River, who had been attending the suspected cases, visited the patients and found them to be severe cases of chicken-pox."

Although being absent from The Dalles for ten years, Miss Alice Duffy, who taught in our public schools, has a very large circle of friends here, who are interested concerning her welfare. About two years ago they were much grieved to hear that her favorite brother, Henry, had been murdered by burglars who entered the store where he slept. Another deep sorrow has come to her during the past week, when her older brother, James, was killed by the train when on an excursion from his home in Wenlock to Burlington, Vt., where the national convention of Foresters was to be held. Stepping off at a way station to speak to friends, he attempted to board the train after it had started and fell under the wheels, receiving injuries from which he died the next evening.

MAYS-AINSWORTH WEDDING.

The Ceremony Took Place in Portland Last Wednesday.

Following is a portion of the Mays-Ainsworth marriage notice as it appeared in the Oregonian Sunday:

The wedding of Miss Mabel Ainsworth and Mr. Edwin Mays was solemnized at the First Presbyterian church on Wednesday evening at 8:30 o'clock. The decorations were artistic in the extreme. The choir rail held in place a long festoon of white roses intermingled with sprays of woodland greens, while depending at intervals from the balcony were hanging baskets filled to overflowing with full-bloom white roses. Just at the entrance was a beautiful garland of roses tied at either end with true lovers' knots of white illusion. The altar was brightened by several beautiful palm trees and baskets of exquisite flowers. While the guests were being seated Mr. Thomas M. Lighter rendered a program of organ selections. First came six ushers, followed by the six bridesmaids, Miss Julia Sprague, of Tacoma, as maid of honor, and last the bride escorted by her brother, Mr. Laurence Ainsworth. At the altar they were met by the groom and his best man, Mr. Grant Mays, of The Dalles. The ceremony was pronounced by the Rev. Dr. Hill, during which the organ softly played Barnaby's "Perfect Love."

At the conclusion of the wedding, a reception was held at the bride's residence, to which were invited the wedding party and a few friends. The decorations of the handsome home were very elaborate. The hall was entirely in tones of red and green, the walls, pictures and embrasures of the doorways being massed with Jacqueminot roses depending from Indian baskets. The drawing-room was all in white and green. Bunches of Nephitis roses were held in place with long garlands of soft white tulle. The dining-room was entirely in tones of pink. The bride's table was massed with La France roses and bunches of asparagus-tenuissimus tied with large bows of pink satin ribbon, while the other tables were profusely decked with pink carnations. The library was arranged with a beautiful display of marguerites and woodland ferns tied with true lovers' knots of white tulle.

The bride looked very sweet in a simple gown of white organdie with a veil of filmy lace, which completely enveloped her graceful figure. She carried a bunch of bride's roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Mays departed the same evening for Seattle, and from there will take the steamer for a short trip to Alaska.

At the Portland hotel on Thursday evening, in the small dining room, a handsome dinner entertainment was given by Messrs. Grant and Robert Mays, and Mr. Hilburn.
