Wednesday's Daily.

The Umatilla house is receiving a new coat today, not of many colors, but white paint. Nothing improves the appearance of a building more than a fresh coat of paint.

Two days of special meetings will be held at the Salvation Army hall Saturday and Sunday, conducted by Staff Captain and Mrs. Willis from Portland. Everybody invited.

Dr. Geisendorffer who was called to Wauke on account of the serious illness of Mrs. Frank Woodcock, who is well known here, returned last night and reports her condition much improved.

Gao, Pursor, a deck hand on the Regulator, stopped off at White Salmon Monday, and yesterday when he boarded the boat bound for Portland on a wedding trip, he was accompanied by an assistant Pursor.

When the Regulator goes down to assist in escorting the boys up the river, there'll not be a steamer in the squadron that will present a more swell appearance, for she'll be decorated to suit the queen's taste. Ernest Jensen will understand just how to tog her up, and A. M. Williams & Co. have consented to let him superintend the work.

M. K. Thompson, who assaulted Breen at Ketchum's ranch Monday and was put in jail for failure to furnish bail, paid over his $15 and was discharged last evening. It is too bad that such petty cases should be brought up and a jury trial had, thus putting the county to so much expense. If possible they should be settled out of court or with a minimum expense to the county.

M. F. Boyles and Tim Brown arrived at Oregon City, Saturday, from Eastern Oregon with a band of horses. They made the trip by the Barlow road, and say they are the first to come over that road this season. Mr. Boyles reports that there is more or less snow for a distance of forty miles. Boyles and Brown had difficulty in getting through places where the snow lay twelve feet deep. The snow seems to be melting very slowly at the summit.

The hot springs and various camping places along the Columbia will not be overlooked by Oregonians this year. Mrs. Jewett has made many improvements in her summer resort at White Salmon, and for some time past she has had application enough from Portland people to fill her house. The resorts at Wind river bid fair to receive their share of patronage also. W. O. Hadley is now engaged in building a hotel at the Carson hot springs, just back of Sprague, which will no doubt attract many, as good accommodations are what has been lacking to make the hot springs better patronized.

"No more high water this year." So says the report from Portland today. The Columbia is coming up a little, and stands at 41; but we are now safe, as the rivers above are rising only slightly. Yesterday's bulletin says that cooler weather prevails over the Columbia. The temperature in the mountains was near the freezing point during the night. This cool period, the coolest for two weeks, will check the melting of the snow and allow a fall of several feet in the rivers before the next warm period can melt sufficient snow to cause them to rise again. Warmer weather will prevail for several days, from Wednesday, but as it is thought that the snow is off the lower levels, there appears to be no danger of any further material rise.

From a telephone message received from W. B. Hurlburt, of the O. R. & N. Co., it was thought the editors would reach this city Monday evening and remain over until the morning of the 4th, thus giving us a splendid opportunity to entertain them and show them our city. Later word, however, was to the effect that they cannot reach here till early Tuesday morning, stopping only long enough for breakfast. It is now planned to give them breakfast at the Umatilla House, and if possible take them a short drive about the city. About $40 was realized from the play given for this purpose, and it will be necessary to call upon the citizens for a small contribution to meet the deficit. All should respond liberally for no such opportunity has ever been offered our city for advertising as this. We cannot afford to let it pass unheeded, and fall to give these distinguished visitors a royal reception.

In spite of Ringling Bros. endeavor to have no accompanying skin games, hobo, etc., following them, when they reached Moscow last Sunday they had with them a menagerie of tramps. It seems that the Weary Willies wanted to get out of town, so about sixty of them secreted themselves aboard the five circus trains as they pulled out of Lewiston during the night. As the trains neared Moscow the rising day revealed many of the hobos to the management. About five miles below town a stop was made and all the Willies that could be found were summarily yanked from their positions and left upon the right of way. When, at 3 o'clock the trains arrived at Moscow and stopped for water a thorough search was made and thirty-two more hobos were brought to light. The nightwatchman arrived on the scene with a savage looking bull-dog and a billy club, and the hobos were prevented from going up town. Later on the others arrived from where they had been put off down the track. The marshals were kept busy all day, and it was nearly evening before the last hobo disappeared up the track toward Pullman.

Thursday's Daily

Today's report says warmer weather for several days. Also that the Columbia will begin falling tonight and fall until Tuesday. It now stands at about 40.

Flax comes from J. W. Daugherty, grown on his farm at DeMoss Springs. This flax is about twenty inches long at present, but has not come to its full growth. Persons who are authorities on flax culture, says Mr. Daugherty, will harvest twenty bushels to the acre from his 75-acre tract. Allowing a dollar a bushel for the flaxseed, the superiority of flax over wheat in this case as a source of income; to the farmer is very plainly demonstrated.

There are still several sidewalks in our city which are a disgrace. Of course we would not be so small as to mention the numerous chuck holes which are evidently left to allow the ratter to ply his trade, nor the planks which when you step on one end, fly up and salute you. But we are now referring to the walks which have been patched up by property owners, who have not taken the trouble to put new boards in, but instead, have nailed "bias" pieces on top covering the pit falls and in their place leaving a splendid stumbling block whereon to stub the toe and light on all fours. Indeed, there are many such things in The Dalles which would induce one to keep sober for fear of running up against them. If even that much good were accomplished by their presence, it might be an excuse for the patching business; but we have noticed no such results, and therefore call the attention of the marshal and property owners to the neglect.

Friday's Daily.

Prof. R. R. Allard, who has been principal of the Hood River schools, has accepted the principalship of the Dufur school.

Nothing definite has been heard regarding the rumor that the O.R. & N. will put an opposition boat on the river as soon as the river recedes sufficient to admit of passing through the locks.

Call at the lawn of the Congregational church tonight and let the Junior Endeavorers serve you with a plate of ice cream. It will cost but ten cents, and assist in helping along the babies' home of Portland.

The workmen were somewhat delayed in getting the Oregon Telephone line into Antelope, but last night the wire was stretched as far as that little city and we can now talk to our friends there over that line.

A patriotic service will be held by the Christian Endeavor Society of the Christian church next Sunday evening at 8 o'clock. Addresses, songs, etc., appropriate for the occasion will be given, and the general public are cordially invited to attend.

Dr. Locke, formerly pastor of the Taylor street church in Portland, but for over a year pastor of Central church in San Francisco, has been called to a church in one of the largest cities in New York, and will probably leave for that place in a few weeks.

It has been thought advisable to make the dining room of the hotel as attractive as possible on the morning of the arrival of the editors. Therefore all ladies who will donate flowers (choice ones) for this purpose are requested to leave them at the Umatilla House Monday evening.

Sheriff Kelly arrived on yesterday's afternoon train from Sumpter. He had in charge Joseph Ganterman, who was arrested for obtaining money under false pretense, having passed a bogus check at Chas. Frank's saloon some months since. He had a hearing before Justice Bayard this afternoon and was bound over in the sum of $500.

At the time the volunteers left for the Philippines, Third regiment O. N. G., was disrupted and as far as the regiment is concerned, was a thing of the past. The adjutant-general has now placed on the retired or veteran list its officers, among whom are J. M. Patterson, of Wasco, A. Varney, formerly of The Dalles, and H. H. Riddell, of this city.

The state military board is considering the advisability of making the day of the arrival of the volunteers a state holiday. When the date of their arrival is definitely known, a meeting will be held and a decision arrived at regarding the matter. This will be the best of news to those who have been scheming to get away from business duties on that day.

It may be a fact that the race of "noble red men" is diminishing rapidly; but one would never judge such to be the case by looking around the streets of The Dalles the past few days. The town is fairly "painted red" with their presence, and if all the small papoosees which are so much in evidence at present, shy clear of the happy hunting grounds there'll be enough of the race left to fill the reservations for some time to come.

A local reporter on one of our neighboring papers got into trouble last Thursday by making the wrong heading to an account of the marriage of a couple in his vicinity. The man's name is Avery and the lady was a Miss Small, and the local scribe made the heading read, "A Very-Small Wedding." The groom, who is a strapping country youth, went after the reporter to wipe the earth with him for saying it was a very small wedding.

A letter received by friends in this city tells of the appointment of Frank Newcome as clerk of the Park hotel at Mt. Clemens, the finest hotel in the state of Michigan. Many will remember Mr. Newcome well, he having spent some time in The Dalles and was for many years a resident of Wasco county, having stock interests with his brothers near Ridgeway. As Mt. Clemens is a health resort it will be just the place for Mr. Newcome, whose health was much impaired when he last visited this city.

During the entire season Astoria has evidently been catching all the salmon in the river. At any rate somebody has been enticing the succors into their traps, seines, or whatever they may be, for none of them have succeeded in making their appearance in the wheels at The Dalles. In vain have the fishermen here kept their wheels running, for very few have condescended to give us even a passing glance. At Astoria Wednesday the fishermen came up from the lower river loaded with fish, and steelheads continue to increase.

Every once in awhile the people of Oregon, who are so situated that they have a good view of Mt. Hood, imagine that mountain has again taken up the bad habit of smoking, and declare they saw a column of smoke issuing from it. However, Mt. Adams is seldom accused of a like offense; but this morning many residents of this city were attracted to a column of smoke around the summit, which seemed to be curling around just as if coming from it. As there certainly can be no forest fires at present to cause it there was quite a little speculation as to what it was.

There is no mistake but that the employees at the laundry will have an opportunity of celebrating on the Fourth. A few mornings since when Mr. MacAllister sat down at his desk in that establishment a document met his gaze, which upon inspection proved to be a "round robin." It was a petition from the employees for a cessation of duties on our nation's birthday, which was so worded that it could not fail to accomplish the end desired. The names being signed in a circle it was impossible to tell who was the promoter of the scheme. No doubt the manager intended they should celebrate any way, but this settled the matter.

You cannot enter the Umatilla House now without being greeted by the sweet strains of music; not the "old songs" either, but the very latest airs. 'Tis not the musical voice of Jud, for fish don't sing; nor the baritone of the genial clerk, for Rog at present has something else to think about. If the night clerk's name were spelled with P, instead of B, one might think it is Patty; neither can it be Patricia McNeal for there are no Irish airs put on. The strains emanate from the bar room, where is placed an automatic music box bought from Jacobsen this morning. It is one of a superior make and is worked somewhat on the plan of a nickel-in-the-slot machine. It will play any number of airs without changing the discs, the indicator controlling the machine and the tunes it plays. It is not only a fine musical instrument, but a nice looking piece of furniture.

Excursion to California.

For annual meeting of National Educational Association, the Southern Pacific Company (Shasta route) will make $35 round trip rate to Los Angeles, by train leaving Portland at 7 p. m. July 7. Tickets will be good to September 4, and permit stopover on return trip.

On July 5th, 6th, 7th, 8th and 9th, round trip tickets to Los Angeles will be sold at $40 rate, allowing stopover in either direction, and final limit of September 4th.

Holders of these excursion tickets may make low rate side trips to Monterey, Lake Tahoe, Yosemite Valley, Big Trees, Riverside, Redlands, Santa Barbara, Catalina Island, etc. No such opportunity to visit all California points of special interest, at small cost, has been before afforded. Note the dates.

For guides, sleeping car reservation and further information call on any Southern Pacific agent, or address Mr. C. H. MARKHAM, general passenger agent, Portland, Or.

We Apologize.

The Dalles CHRONICLE is giving our morning contemporary credit for that recent suggestion of ours to the peace commission. If THE CHRONICLE had printed the article without credit to anyone it wouldn't be so bad—but for us to furnish feathers for the nest of the morning grafter is too much. The Dalles Times-Mountaineer clipped an article from the Statesman, too. But its course was not quite so reprehensible as that of the CHRONICLE—it didn't credit the article to anybody.—W. W. Statesman.

The Times-Mountaineer evidently thought it would not be necessary to put a credit on any of the Statesman's articles, as their excellence would probably brand them as coming from that journal.

As to the CHRONICLE's error in the matter, we are perfectly willing to make reparation, and apologize sincerely to the Union for the mistake.

WEDDED.

E. M. Williams and Elizabeth Sampson United in Marriage Last Wednesday.

Thursday's Daily.

Never in the history of The Dalles has there been a wedding of two young people about whom more interest has been centered, than in that solemnized last night, when Mr. Edward M. Williams led from the altar, as his wife, Miss Elizabeth Sampson, eldest daughter of Mr. Frank Sampson, of this city. Both having made this their home for many years and both having occupied most prominent places in our city, it was natural that they held the kindest thoughts and heartfelt best wishes at this important step in their lives.

The Congregational church, where the ceremony was performed, was beautifully transformed for the happy occasion by a great profusion of palms, ferns and white lilies, and the scene was one of beauty and impressiveness, as to the playing of the "Bridal Chorus" from Lohengrin, by Prof. Birgfeld, the bridal procession entered the church. First came the ushers, Carl Williams and Victor Sampson, followed by the two bridesmaids, Misses Clara and Florence Sampson, becomingly gowned in lavender organdie and carrying handsome bouquets of roses. They proceeded the maid of honor, Miss Pearl Williams, dressed in pink organdie, and bearing in her hands a bunch of Li France roses. Following the maid of honor, came the bride, a picture of sweetness and simplicity, leaning upon the arm of her father and attired in a very pretty gown of organdie and white silk, over all of which was a handsome bridal veil. She carried a large bouquet of white roses.

At the altar the party was met by the groom and his best man, Mr. Fred W. Wilson, and to the impressive words of the Episcopal marriage service uttered by Rev. D. V. Poling, of the Congregational church, the care of the daughter for all time to come was transferred from her father to that of her husband. During the entire ceremony Prof. Birgfeld at the organ rendered sweet and impressive music.

Following the ceremony at the church the participants repaired to the home of the bride's parents, whose parlors had been very tastefully decorated with a profusion of flowers. The color scheme in the front parlor was entirely in pink, the walls being so covered that they represented a bower of roses, while deep red roses in great profusion gave to the dining room an appearance of great beauty. In an adjoining room the decorations were confined to blue, and here were placed the many beautiful and appropriate presents, which showed the appreciation of a large circle of friends.

At 10 o'clock the guests sat down to an elaborate wedding supper, the bridal party occupying a table at which the decorations were principally of sweet brier combined with sweet peas and pink streamers of ribbon.

Many kind words and wishes were expressed for the happiness and prosperity of the newly married couple, and with great interest the wedding cake was cut. Fortune decreed to Miss Pearl Williams the ring it contained, while the bride's bouquet was caught by Miss Clara Sampson.

Just as the supper was ended the sweet strains of music were heard coming from the band which gave a delightful serenade to the participants in the happy event.

Mr. and Mrs. Williams left on the 11:45 train for an extended wedding journey, expecting to be away till September. They will visit many places in the far East, especially in New York and Massachusetts. If all the good wishes by which they are followed are vouchsafed, their future life will be one of unalloyed happiness.

Mr. Williams is well known to the business world as the head of the large dry goods establishment of A. M. Williams & Co., and occupies an enviable position in the estimation of all who know him. His friends are limited only by the extent of his acquaintances, and few men can claim so many sincere ones. Miss Sampson has lived in The Dalles since her girlhood days, and her sweet, unselfish disposition has endeared her to a marked degree in the affection of her associates.

The wedding was of a private nature, only the members of the respective families and the employes of Mr. Williams' store being present. No cards were issued.
