LOCAL BREVITIES.

Wednesday's Daily.

Marriage license was yesterday issued to E. L. Barzee and Alice Powell.

Dust thou art to dust returneth. But don't get up and dust now; we have a sufficiency.

And now the girls are kicking because the soldier boys must leave their arms at Vancouver. They consider this the most unkindest cut of all.

The great surgeons all now agree that appendicitis is rarely if ever caused by grape seeds or the like. They fail in all their operations and autopsies to find any such cause. They attribute the prevalence of the malady now to sudden jars.

In the suit of Ada Bingham against Lipman, Wolfe & Co., at Portland, the jury awarded damages of $2000. Mrs. Bingham was charged by the firm with stealing from the store. The conduct of Lipman & Wolfe in this case will no doubt injure their business to a great extent.

A very pleasant diversion from routine duties was furnished the ladies of the Degree of Honor this afternoon when there appeared in their lodge room a fall grown freezer of ice cream, with the compliments of their A. O. U. W. brothers. The fervor of the reception soon melted it away.

Among the delegates to the grand lodge, D. of H., is Mrs. Kate J. Young, who is a past grand chief and who organized Fern Lodge in The Dalles. Mrs. Young has been connected with newspaper work for some years past, and to her THE CHRONICLE is indebted for a report of the proceedings of the present session.

Among the freight which was brought up by the Regulator yesterday was a large number of kegs of beer. On board the boat was a strong prohibitionist, who evidently deemed the beer as deadly an enemy as the other article of beer, for at the Cascades he was noticed sitting on a large keg, and by way of saving himself from its seductive influence was using a life preserver as a cushion.

The members of the Commercial Club have extended the hospitality of the club rooms to the delegates now in our city. This evening a reception will be given to them in the parlors. The ladies of the club are especially requested to be present to receive the guests and make the evening pleasant for them. The D. C. & A. C. band will be in attendance to enliven the evening with some of their choicest selections.

Say, are you proud of The Dalles roads as you convey the visitors about the city? Don't you wish Union street had been repaired on the bluff; or those great boulders had been removed from the road leading up from Washington; or that those measly little rocks on brewery grade had been cast into the bottom of the sea; so that there would be one decent avenue by which we could reach the beautiful drive on the bluff? Our roads are certainly no recommendation.

On account of the large number of visitors who are now in our city and the fact that the Umattilla, House where the Grant party are to be entertained, is already filled to overflowing, it was deemed best to induce them to remain in Portland another day, and word to that effect was this morning wired to Dr. Grant, and later an answer received that they would make the trip up the river tomorrow. It is possible they may be taken through the locks by that time.

The 9-year-old girl spoken of by THE CHRONICLE a few days since as having come from Kansas alone and failing to find her brother when she reached here, has discovered her whereabouts now, and left on yesterday's afternoon train for Dallas. It seems that instead of Dallas her ticket read The Dalles. Surprising the truth, the conductor of the train on which she came telegraphed to that place and found that her brother, Wm. McCabe, had come in from his place, forty-five miles from Dallas, to meet her and had been waiting ever since. Some kind hearted people took her in here and she stayed with them until yesterday.

The excursion given by the local lodges to their guests was scheduled to leave at 9 o'clock last night; but circumstances altered the case, and the Regulator failed to arrive until 9:30 and therefore it was after 10 when the excursionists left the dock. A large amount of perishable freight had been brought up which necessitated immediate delivery, and the transfer caused the delay. But in spite of the lateness of the hour, about 300 delegates and others boarded the boat and enjoyed a delightful moonlight ride on the Columbia, going down as far as Mosier and returning by 12:10 o'clock. The D. C. & A. C. band furnished the best of music for the occasion, and it was indeed a rare treat to the visitors.

One of the most prominent editors of the national association, from Missouri, said at The Dalles the girls were the prettiest of any place on his journey. Some of them told the editor of the Statesman on the way down to Portland the same of Walla Walla girls. There were not many of our girls around at the early hour they arrived here as they were getting breakfast at home and all The Dalles daisies were out in full bloom.—Statesman. That's all right Walla Walla, we know you kept most of your young ladies in hiding when the editors were with you, sending only the best looking out on parade; but the beauty of your little city recommended itself and they were loud in their praises of Walla Walla and its surroundings. The Dalles daisies are always in full bloom and ready to make a good showing; but we're not selfish nor egotistic and don't mean to be regarded in that light.

A few days since the business interests of the Baldwin Sheep & Land Company passed from the ownership of Summerville, Breyman & Cartwright, to C. M. Cartwright of Portland, and J. G. Edwards, of Wyoming. The company will be carried on under the same name as formerly, but under different management, and the contracts made by the previous owners will be strictly carried out. The company is widely known throughout the Northwest and has perhaps the largest sheep interests in the United States, running about 35,000 or 40,000 head of sheep. They also engage extensively in raising fine sheep, having some of the best breeds it is possible to obtain. Each year they market in the neighborhood of a half million pounds of wool. All are interested in the welfare of this company and have no doubt but that its interests will fare as well in the hands of its new managers as in the past.

Thursday's Daily.

The flume broke loose near the garrison last night causing no little excitement and compelling the workmen to get up and "fight water."

During the absence of H. L. Vorse from the city his place will be filled by L. R. Robertson, of Portland, who arrived in the city Tuesday evening.

Paul Kreft is confined to his home today, having suffered a severe attack of stomach trouble last night, from which it was thought for a time he would not recover.

Yesterday Dr. Logan and Geisen-dorfer performed a very critical operation on John Burns, son of A. L. Burns, who lives about a mile from the city on Mill creek. The trouble was with the tubercular glands, and was a serious one. He stood the operation remarkably well and is improving rapidly.

W. C. Blalock, of Walla Walla, whose eyesight and hearing have been very poor for the past 32 years, suddenly found himself the other day in full possession of these faculties. He is now in his 76th year and cannot account for the restoration of his eyesight and hearing, which are the equal of those of his youth. His physical condition has much improved since his good fortune.

Last night the members of the grand lodge visited Fern Lodge, of this city, and spent a most delightful time. Two brothers, who are desirous of organizing lodges in their own towns when they return, were initiated into the mysteries, P. G. C. Mrs. Kate Young acting as presiding officer. Later all adjourned to the club rooms.

He was not dead, but dead drunk, when Marshal Hughes found him last night lying on the sidewalk, and when he awoke he was not resting on flowery beds of ease, but on the cot in the city jail. Before morning he was repentant and Recorder Gates dismissed him today. And his name was "John Doe." So was his cake dough.

"Kissing Bugs Not Wanted Here" were the words the young man read at the gate where his darling lived in Walla Walla. Then he walked sadly away, for he considered that he was an accomplished kissing bug, although not of the late dangerous kind. He will not return until that abnoxious sign is removed and the girl apologizes.

Tourist traffic this year is keeping the D. P. & A. N. boats bustling, and almost every day parties are brought to the Cascades. Saturday the Gillespie party will be brought through the locks. On that day the Regulator will leave this city four hours earlier, or at 4 o'clock, going through to Portland, and the Dalles City will leave Portland four hours later.

Yesterday Mr. Bolton received a report from Miss Holmes, of the Business college in Portland, giving a statement of the work done by Edward Jenkins while in the school. It was flattering indeed, the standing being among the highest made by any pupils in the college. She also expressed her deep regret that one who gave such promise in the work he had recently chosen should be so early taken away.

Yesterday morning Rev. J. H. Wood and sons, Frank and Willie, and A. Hall started for a camping trip in the vicinity of Badger lake. They expect to be absent about three weeks. Mr. Wood has labored assiduously in his pulpit for some time without a vacation, except as he was compelled to be at home through sickness in the family, and he has certainly earned a rest.

Judge Mays returned this morning from a trip into the Bakeoven country. Speaking of the crops, he said: "When I went into the country a week ago and looked over the grain I was discouraged and thought it was surely a failure, so parched did it seem; but on this trip I somewhat modified my opinion, and now believe the situation is not nearly so bad as some report it, although much of the crop will be anything but first-class. The weather is some cooler and the nights not nearly so sultry, which had bettered the condition. The condition of the grain is much worse beyond Deschutes than this side."

The Commercial Club rooms were well filled with guests last night, a reception being given to the visiting delegates in our city. Many were surprised and all greatly pleased with the appearance of our club. The time was spent by some in bowling and at billiards, while the greater portion improved the opportunity to meet the club members. The D. C. & A. C. band was stationed in the billiard hall, and we were all proud of the band and the music rendered by them. Truly they have made wonderful progress, under the direction of Rev. Poling and Mr. Simonton, who now has taken charge.

Mistakes will happen in the best regulated newspapers, and the CHRONICLE is not an exception to this rule by any means. And so last night when after printing the entire edition, we had the temerity to glance over the paper, we were not a little surprised to read in the report of the proceedings of the Degree of Honor, that Mrs. Mamie Briggs had spoken in "gloomy" terms regarding something. As a matter of fact it would be an unusual occurrence for that happy and always cheery-dispositioned lady to look on the gloomy side of any subject. Therefore, we trust our readers interpreted us aright and read it "glowing" instead of "gloomy."

Geo. D. Evans, the defaulting Washington deputy auditor, last Saturday was sentenced to the penitentiary at Walla Walla for five years. Evans pleaded guilty when his case came up at Olympia Saturday. He hoped by throwing himself on the mercy of the court to get a lighter sentence, but the judge gave him five years. The assistant attorney-general and the prosecuting attorney both asked that a light sentence be imposed in view of the fact that Evans had saved the state the expense of a trial. A letter from J. E. Frost, ex-state auditor, under whom Evans was employed, asking that Evans receive mercy, was read in court.

Friday's Daily.

Late this afternoon S. L. Young received word that his brother, George, had been accidentally killed near Victoria.

M. T. Nolan has been painting his store "red," and the effect is not only noticeable, but makes a decided improvement in its appearance.

For the past three days J. B. Crossen has been very ill, suffering intensely from stomach and bowel trouble. He is, however, somewhat improved today.

Wm. Menefer, who has been confined to his home for almost two weeks past with tonsillitis, was able to be on the streets yesterday; but he is looking much the worse for wear.

Wouldn't it be nice if we only had airships in which to transport our tourists about the country near us. In that way we could avoid the rockiness of the roads, which would be no small item in our favor.

The farmers say this cool weather is all right for the grain and just what we need. We're all farmers when it comes to saying the cooler weather is just what we need, and we're glad it's made its appearance.

A special meeting will be conducted Saturday night at the Salvation Army hall. Ice cream and cake will be served after meeting. Farewell meeting to Captain and Mrs. Melby Sunday night. Everybody invited.

Doug Langille was in town Wednesday. He says travel to Cloud Cap Inn has been very good so far. He has made but two trips to the top of the mountain, the last party he started with played out on him before getting half way up.—Glacier.

The subject of Dr. Grant's lecture this evening in the First Baptist church will be the novel one, "Snakes in Paradise." None should miss the opportunity of hearing such a splendid speaker, who has been requested to repeat the lecture given in Portland a few evenings since. Admission this evening will be 25 cents.

About noon today a special car passed through the city, on board of which was Industrial Agent Judson, who is piloting Secretary Wilson, of the department of agriculture at Washington, through this section of the country. They expected to stop a half-hour at Seufert's orchard and will go on to Walla Walla tonight, where the Blalock farm will be inspected.

Wasco is determined to have a celebration any way, whether the boys have returned to Oregon or not. They have reached the coast and that is sufficient to cause rejoicing in Sherman county, and so today is a veritable 4th of July in Wasco, where exercises will be held, coming with a dance tonight. Fred W. Wilson left The Dalles last evening to deliver the oration, and he will tell them how it all happened in his most eloquent manner.

The locks are again in good working order, the water having fallen sufficiently to admit of the boats passing through. Tomorrow morning the Regulator will leave The Dalles at 4 o'clock, making the round trip to Portland and return. The Dalles City will leave Portland for hours later than usual and bring the Gillespie party up to Memaloose island and back to Portland.

Justice of the Peace H. A. Johnson, of Salem, says that in his opinion the talk about the volunteers at San Francisco suffering for want of clothing is without foundation in fact. He says that when he was there last week, the boys seemed to be dressed warm enough and if any are not, it is because they prefer to save their clothing allowance instead of spending it for overcoats.

A report is current today that small-pox has reached Heppner, where there are four cases, two in the city and two too near to be comfortable. A portion of the city is said to be quarantined, but from a report brought by some traveling men that they refused to allow them to stop there, the entire place must be quarantined. We'd just as soon this disease wouldn't come so near home; it isn't just as desirable a visitor as it might be.

A USEFUL LIFE ENDED.

Mrs. Elizabeth Cates Dies at a Ripe Old Age—A Pioneer Resident.

Never in its history, perhaps, has The Dalles experienced so many deaths as in the past year; and not alone our city, but the entire state has been bereft of its pioneer citizens, until before many years roll by their number will reach the minimum.

Tuesday night about 10:45 the reaper whose name is Death again visited The Dalles and this time his sickle chose as its prey the ripened sheaf and from our midst was removed one of the pioneers, Mrs. Elizabeth Ann Cates, wife of John Cates. She was one of those dear old ladies whose presence in a community is always felt, though perhaps its influence is mostly transmitted through other lives which it has brightened. She will be sadly missed by her old-time friends and neighbors, who in the hour of affliction and need knew just where to find a good, true friend—one of those old fashioned kind, devoid of any modern affectation, but who in the fullness of her love was ever ready with a kind deed and word.

Her maiden name was Elizabeth Ann McCormick, and she was 81 years, 2 months and 17 days old at the time of her death. Her early life was spent in Wisconsin, where in 1836 she was married to George Frye Herbert, and with him came to Oregon in 1850, crossing the plains in the party of which Wm. Laughlin, father of B. F., was a member. They first settled in The Dalles, living at the garrison. Later they moved to Lane county, and from there came to 15-Mile in 1856. There Mr. Herbert died thirty-one years ago last February. She was a widow for five years and a half, when in August, 1873, she married John Cates. Together they moved to The Dalles in the following year, and have since dwelt in our midst.

To Mr. and Mrs. Herbert were born eleven children, all of which died in early life except Mrs. Jane Sherar, wife of J. H. Sherar, and Geo. A. Herbert, who are still living. Several step children also mourn her loss.

Into her life came many sorrows intermingled with the joys; but for a number of years past she has lived a quiet, happy life with her husband, who will now find life extremely lonely. Ten days ago she experienced severe pain about the region of the heart, which, however, left her and she again resumed her little home duties until Tuesday morning when she was again taken ill and continued to grow worse until the end came.

Last Tribute to Edward Jenkins.

Tuesday evening at 6 o'clock the friends of the late Edward Jenkins gathered at the home of his uncle, Simeon Bolton, to pay the last tribute to his memory, and listened intently to the words of the deceased—of his early teachings, which, although his parents had been called away while he was yet a child, had told on his life and borne fruitage to salvation as he neared the end of a comparatively short life. Of how he had become reconciled to death and, while suffering intensely has left messages for each one about his bedside and many friends in The Dalles, which were encouraging to those who now mourn. Mr. Wood chose as the basis of his remarks these words: "So teach us to number our days that we may apply our hearts unto wisdom."

The choir sang "Softly Now the Light of Day," "Jesus Lover of My Soul" and "Nearer My God to Thee," the last two of which he attempted to sing when on his death bed.

The pall bearers, Ned Gates, Forest and Ralph Fisher, Frank Wood, Arthur Stubling and Victor Schmidt, were chosen from among his most intimate friends and classmates.

Among the very many floral offerings was a large shield, bearing the class color, white and gold, which was the gift of the alumni of The Dalles High school, he having graduated in 1896 from that institution.

As the sun sank behind the hill just back of Odd Fellows cemetery, he was carefully laid to rest beneath the waving pines of that beautiful burial ground.

VISITING GOD'S COUNTRY.

The Grand Excursion Party In Our Midst—What They Are Seeing.

Friday's Daily.

Unfortunately yesterday was an extremely windy day for an excursion party to come up the river, where the force of every breeze is intensified. However, the Grant party, numbering twenty-four, enjoyed the trip up as only those can who are out for the purpose of seeing everything and making the most of the privilege afforded to view perhaps the grandest scenery they will encounter on their visit to the West, or in any other section of the country for that matter. Nothing escaped their notice, and all day long they were more than enthusiastic over the wonderful things they beheld.

In mentioning the names of the party in yesterday's issue, that of Miss Annie Grant was omitted. Colonel Hawkins, of Portland, who is thoroughly conversant with everything relating to Oregon, also joined them on the trip to The Dalles and is assisting in entertaining them.

This morning, in company with O. D. Taylor, Hugh Gourley, Mrs. C. J. Crandall, Alma, Anna, Dayton and Burnside Taylor, they were taken in carriages to the falls above the city, where they will be given an idea of the fishing industry and taken through the cannery. They will also visit the Seufert place and taste some of the luscious fruit raised there. It is the intention to cross the river and view the picture rocks on the Washington side.

This afternoon a trip was made to the orchards on Dry Hollow and up Mill creek. The warehouses here will also be visited, and a drive taken about the city. So that no stone will be left unturned to show them all the points of interest and tell them of our resources.

Their eyes are being opened to just what the West really is, and it is said surprise and wonder are depicted on their countenances as they realize that the West is also God's country and the favored one at that.

They will leave tomorrow morning having seen a great deal they never dreamed of, and will be ready to tell others, as the old fellow said "what they seen and heard."

No Excuse for Tramps.

"Men are scarce." This is the cry at last among employers of Oregon as they try to find men willing to work on farms, in mines, or logging camps, or on the railroads. All these avenues of employment are now open to laboring men, who have quit coming forward to accept the positions offered. Wages are better than they have been for five years, but when the men are not in the country, wages cut no figure. "We are offering $2 a day," a railroad contractor said yesterday, "but that don't do any good. If we were offering 50 cents a day or $3 a day, the condition would be the same. The working men are all at work, and the hobos don't care what the wages are."

Farmers all over the state need men to assist in caring for the hay crop, and orders are coming in, even from remote points in Eastern Oregon, sixty miles from any railroad. The wages offered on hay farms is $1.25 a day and board.—Oregonian.

It will neither make you nor break you if you don't try Schilling's Best tea baking powder coffee flavoring extract soda and spices but you'll miss something good.
