JAMES B. EUSTIS.

James B. Eustis, who died Saturday, was a man of more than average ability and his career was the whole a distinguished one. He was southern born, but attended the Harvard law school at Cambridge and after his graduation began practice in New Orleans. His public life was ever afterward as a servant of the state of Louisiana until his appointment to the embassy at Paris. He served in the confederate army, for the greater part of the time on the staff of General Joseph Johnston.

After the war Mr. Eustis resumed the practice of law and became a prominent political figure in his state. He was a member of the legislature during reconstruction and was one of the committee sent to Washington to confer with President Johnson in regard to the vexed problems arising out of reconstruction. He also served in the state senate and in 1876 was elected to the United States senate. He was not seated till 1877 and served only two years. In 1884, however, he was elected for and served a full term. For the greater part of his senatorial career he was a prominent member of the committee of foreign affairs.

While in the senate Mr. Eustis was not in cordial sympathy with Mr. Cleveland during the latter's first term. The senator from Louisiana did not approve of the president's civil service ideas, and while he was in the senate he could hardly be called a supporter of the executive. Later on they were drawn together and one of Mr. Cleveland's first appointments after his second inauguration was that of Mr. Eustis as our representative to France. He was well fitted for the place. He had education, culture, a knowledge of French language and literature and abundant private means. He made a record abroad, although some of his addresses and interviews were criticized, and returned to this country leaving a highly honored name among the French people. On the whole Mr. Eustis was one of the ablest, most scholarly and best equipped men for public life that the South has produced in late years.—Spokesman-Review.

SAME OLD FOLLY.

The following sensible article, clipped from the Spokesman-Review, is the latest thing in the way of a lecture which that paper occasionally gives to the farmers of the Palouse country:

Another full carload of ham, bacon and lard arrived last week at Colfax from Omaha. These products the merchants will sell to farmers in the Palouse country, and the money paid for them will be a direct and everlasting loss to this section.

This means that the farmers in the Palouse are paying the Missouri or the Iowa farmer for his corn, for his labor of feeding it to the hogs, his profit, the profit of the stock-buyer who ships the hogs to Omaha, the cost of packing and the packer's profit, the freight charges from Omaha to Colfax, and the profits of the jobber and the retailer.

This is the best farming and stock country on earth, and at a time when more or less wheat damaged by rains will be unsalable, and fit only to be fed to stock.

How long will this piece of extravagance continue? How long must we see trainloads of pork products, poultry, eggs, butter and cheese coming 2000 miles or more over plains and mountains, and millions of dollars which ought to be kept at home sent east to pay for these products which should be produced on our own fertile soil?

QUALIFICATIONS FOR AN EDITOR

It is stated that the Oregon Press Association will appoint a committee to draft a bill to be introduced in the next legislature to require those who aspire to the editorial chair, to pass an examination before being permitted to publish a newspaper in Oregon. The following questions are suggested for examination by the Moro Leader:

Give an example of your proficiency in the art of prevarication? Take an article from an exchange, and show how you can mutilate it, turn it to utter nonsense, and publish it as your own?

Give your private opinion of the man who comes round and bums a copy of your paper every week, and then lends it to his brother-in-law?

Explain how to manage with the same suit of clothes for two or three years?

What is the best answer to give your wife when she wants a new bonnet, which you know you can't afford to get her?

Give an example of your knowledge of mending your own shoes?

Give an example of the best way to approach your local merchant, with a view to obtaining more credit?

What plan can you adopt to please everybody, and succeed in pleasing nobody?

What is the best course to pursue when a six-footer comes into the office with a club in his fist and blood in his eye?

If the aspirant can answer these questions, perhaps the association "Can be makin' an editor outen him."

SUPPRESS "SOLDIER GIRL."

Who will suppress the "Soldier Girl?" Who will tell her that she is not wanted on the transports; that she has become a brazen evidence of female degeneracy and a general all-around nuisance, says the S. F. Bulletin.

What is the "Soldier Girl?" Not the sweet, modest, charitably inclined woman who visits the inbound ships loaded with brave boys in blue with the idea of administering to the sick, saying a few kind words to the weary volunteers and conveying messages to the men from relatives and sweethearts! The soldier girl is a loud-mouthed female of the I-want to meet some brass-buttons stripe, who listens for the sound of the siren, rushes to the nearest tugboat station and calmly presents herself to the captain with the declaration that "she has a friend on board the transport."

Not one soldier girl out of twenty has a friend on the transport, or knows so much as the name of the cabin mess boy or the regimental mascot. She isn't going off to the ship to soothe the fevered brow of some poor sick private or to say a few words of encouragement to the returning regular who wears no shoulder strap. She is simply looking for an opportunity to force her cheeky self on some officer and get acquainted with him in spite of himself, so that she may be able to go ashore and gush over the number of lieutenants and captains she has met.

The soldier girl has no particular choice of officers. She is willing to be introduced to anything that has legs, arms, a head, and wears a sword. Not satisfied with one expedition to the "inbound steamer," she bobs up serenely every time a vessel with troops aboard is sighted, and then goes through the same disgusting exhibition of lack of femininity that characterizes her peculiar class. No one on the tug is a greater bother, and no one is more of the opinion that the steam craft in question was sent out for especial purpose of allowing just such females as herself a chance to make fools of themselves.

She pouts and stamps when people with business to attend to requests speedy communication with the ship and a quick return to the shore. Miss Buttons wants to break in upon the sanctity of the meeting of an officer with his friends or family to "make dates" or beg a piece of blue cloth, or any old thing as a souvenir of the campaign in the Philippines. Everything must stop short when the soldier girl comes, and the military discipline of the regiments should be relaxed when this burdensome combination of silk skirts and human gall blances in view.

The soldier girl is never intelligent. As a usual thing she does not know when she is not wanted, and it is doubtful if she did become aware of the fact whether she could be persuaded that her presence was undesirable from a purely unselfish point of view. She is, in nine cases out of ten, a washed-out blonde with a face devoid of any expression save that of intense excitement on seeing a couple of yards of blue cloth made up into trousers and a coat. If you desire to make her very "tired," to use her own term, ask her what she thinks of the world in general outside of military circles, and she will regard you as an intolerable, wearisome man, or women, "who hasn't any sense." A joke wouldn't penetrate her unless blown into her with a Springfield bullet, or shot at her from a Hotchkiss. She is as dense as a Point Bonita fogbank, and she hasn't an idea above a pair of epauletts.

Chaplain Mailley of the First Nebraska is a Populist, but comes out red hot for expansion and the soldiers who returned from the Philippines with him applauded him when he spoke for that policy last Sunday. He did this in Lincoln, Mr. Bryan's home, and if the latter doesn't wish the enthusiasm to spread he will have to hurry home at once.

Irving M. Scott landed in San Francisco with $5 in his pocket, says the Spokesman Review. He is now one of the largest shipbuilders in the world and able to turn out such craft as the Oregon and Olympia. How is it that Scott could have done all this if he is chained down by what some are prone to call wage slavery?

Oregon Scenery.

Never was there such a demand for views of Oregon scenery as this year. No doubt this is due to the interest photographers are taking in securing the best pictures possible. While in Portland Mr. Gifford displayed his views of Mt. Hood and Lost Lake, and without soliciting secured a large number of orders. The Telegram said concerning them: "One of the pictures of Mt. Hood and the lake had been taken at sunrise. It shows the reflection of the mountain in the lake as plainly as it shows the mountain itself. One end of the lake is as calm as can be, while a beautiful ripple plays on the other end. Good judges pronounce this one of the hand-somest pictures of the mountain and the lake ever made."

No doubt these pictures will soon be seen in every state in the Union, and many of them already occupy prominent places in the homes of our city.

An Albany photographer has an order for 300 views of our scenery for a San Francisco firm, to be used for the coming holiday trade. Even the Californians look to Oregon for something attractive.

There is also a great craze over Indian pictures, and some splendid ones have been taken by amateurs, as well as professionals. The Indian twin pictures taken by Lee Morehouse, of Pendleton, have had a phenomenal sale, he having sold thousands of them, and is constantly receiving orders from all over the Union. Not long ago Mr. Morehouse had an opportunity to sell his copyright for a large sum to the Mellen's Food Company, who wanted them as an advertisement. They would have been spending to represent "before and after taking," but he refused to dispose of them.

REV. HAWK PASTOR HERE.

Assigned to The Dalles by the Conference—Other Notes.

Presiding Elder Warner and J. H. Wood returned this morning from the Columbia River Conference held at Spokane. While Rev. Warner has been retained as presiding elder, Rev. Wood has been assigned to North Yakima, one of the best and most flourishing charges in the district. Rev. Hawk, who for the past two years has been stationed at that place and who was previously at Goldendale, was assigned to the church here. Mr. Hawk is said to be an energetic worker and has had splendid success in every church over which he has had charge, so that the Methodist people here are more than satisfied.

NOTES OF THE CONFERENCE.

At 11 o'clock Monday morning memorial services were held for three ministers' wives who had died during the year. The memoir of the late Mrs. Emma C. Wood, wife of Rev. J. H. Wood, was read by Rev. Dr. Hines.

Rev. W. J. White offered a resolution instructing the general conference to make it a part of the discipline that no one shall be admitted to church membership who uses tobacco. There was considerable merit in the proposition, but no serious discussion. The resolution was lost.

While the report of the committee on education was under consideration Bishop Vincent said he was in favor of a plan to establish in the state university town a Methodist home, where young men from Methodist homes and families could live and be under good religious influence. This is in addition to any Methodist colleges and universities that may be established.

Rev. Perry Chandler, of La Grande, Or., read the committee's report on Mormonism. It was positive and aggressive in its tone. It denounced Congressman-elect Roberts and asked congress to refuse to seat him. It also proposed an amendment to the constitution of the United States that would keep the rights of citizenship from polygamists. The bishop said he hoped the conference would vote with a vim on this report and it was adopted with enthusiasm.

The following appointments were made for The Dalles district: Rev. Robert Warner, presiding elder; Antelope, Charles Elroy; Arlington, Ed Baker; Bickleton, Henry Mays; Cascade Locks, supplied by A M Lietz; Columbus, to be supplied; Dufur, W C Smith; East Kittitas, supplied by J C Smith; Ellensburg, J S Smith; Fossil, G R Archer; Fort Simcoe, J W Helm; Gilmer, supplied by Thomas Statrus; Goldendale, N Evans; Heppner, C D Nickelsen; Hood River and Mozer, F R Spaulding; Lone Rock, H C Clark; Moro, William Hoskins; North Yakima, J H Wood; Pasco, to be supplied; Prineville, H N Gowan; Prosser, supplied by A C Brackenburg; Spaulding chapel, F L Johns; The Dalles, U F Hawk; Tappanish, B L Burrill; Wasco, H L Beightol; Waldron, G W White; West Kittitas, W H Henderson; Yakima City, supplied by G E Campbell.

AN IMPORTANT MEETING

The Council Provides for a New Street and Appropriates $400 for the Fire Department.

An adjourned meeting of the council was held last night at the recorder's office, at which were present beside Mayor Kuck, Councilmen Keller, Clough, Gunning, Stephens, Shackelford and Johnston.

It was ordered by the council that C. J. Crandall be instructed to survey a new street from Alford to Fulton and make specification of same and that the recorder advertise for bids. We are informed that this survey has really been made and that further survey is meant to be made from Alford to Clay, the former being the avenue on which I. C. Nickelsen's residence is situated, and the latter the street where S. B. Adams lives. A new street has long been needed there, and will be a great convenience.

The council made a commendable move last night, when after a speech by J. F. Moore, they voted to assist in improving the fire system. Mr. Moore has been one of a committee which has been soliciting among our citizens to procure the ten per cent reduction which would be made by the insurance company were a chemical engine purchased by the city, the saving in insurance to be donated toward the engine. He explained that in all the chemical engine, fire alarm (consisting of seven boxes) and a hook and ladder truck would foot up to about $2400. From all indications when a canvass has been made, the dance given, etc., they will be about $400 short, so that he recommended that the city appropriate $400. On motion of Gunning, seconded by Stephens, the council so ordered. This shows that the council fully appreciated the efforts of the fire department in our behalf.

An ordinance was then passed whereby bootblack stands and shoe polishers were granted license by paying $5 quarterly.

Clough introduced an ordinance amending ordinance No. 285, which provides for the fire department, the same providing that the fire police patrol be admitted as members of the department, which was accepted. According to the present ordinance the following are members: Jackson Engine, No. 1; Columbia Hose, No. 2; East Dalles Hose, No. 3; Mt. Hood Hose, No. 4; The Dalles Hook and Ladder, No. 5; South Side, No. 6.

Prayer Meeting Ended in a Wedding.

Thursday's Daily. Prayer meeting service at the Calvary Baptist church last evening partook of a somewhat different nature than usual, and at the close of the service the pastor, Rev. W. B. Clifton, and Mrs. Almira Burget were united in marriage, Rev. Bailey officiating.

A large number of members were present; but no doubt the church would have been crowded had it been known that it was to be made such a happy occasion; but with the exception of a few close friends, all were greatly surprised when at the close of the meeting W. C. Alloway invited all to remain to another service, which proved to be of a matrimonial nature.

Mrs. Woodworth played Wagner's wedding march, and after the ceremony also played L'Eclair—"Call me Thine Own."

Rev. Clifton has been pastor of The Dalles church for the past year, and by his able and efficient work has endeared himself to his congregation, who are greatly pleased that he should have chosen as a helpmate and companion one who is so well suited by her energetic and happy disposition to be the wife of one who has chosen such a high calling as the ministry.

Not only his congregation and friends, but all who have known the bride for so many years, extend their congratulation and best wishes for their future happiness.

BEFORE THE PUBLIC GAZE.

Everybody's Face Appears in the Newspapers—A Foolish Practice.

To be "in it" nowadays one must procure a cut of themselves and have it published in some newspaper, and nine cases out of ten their best friends won't recognize them any more than it had been Aginaldo. But you must appear in the paper, either as a "social" woman, a postmaster or postmistress, an amateur actor or actress, a leading member of the A. B. Co., X. Y. Z. or any old thing, just so you get your "pic" before the public gaze. There are some people who are really of enough importance for the public to have a care to see their pictures displayed in the newspaper; but why a woman should wish to have her likeness placed before the public gaze because she is a leader of society in some 2d or even 300th town, is beyond our ken. We fail to see that there is any particular honor attached to such a distinction. And yet the women are foremost in this newspaper department.

Not that it is not commendable for any woman to make everyone about her as happy as possible by entertaining them in her best manner and so adding to their pleasure; but is that sufficient reason for sending her photograph into the homes all over the state as someone of public interest? Had she founded an asylum, a home for the poor, or been a public benefactor, then there were sufficient reasons for such proceedings; but such women are not the ones to desire publicity. Or even if in the every day walks of life she has carried a basket of clothing, fruit, or any gift of charity to those in distress she were more worthy. Or were she struggling against poverty to support a family of little ones or make her fireside the place where the most attractive society for the boys and girls is found, then were she more worthy of the commendation of the public.

But such facts are not the kind one's most likely to find in print, although occasionally one creeps in who is not noted as a "social leader" but a benefactor. True f-c-s are engraven on our memory and in the hearts of those with whom they come in contact.
