Wednesday's Daily.
The Congregational young ladies, in their custom, will give a Halloween entertainment on the evening of the 30th at the Baldwin.

Papers have been made out for the collection of road tax, and will be served if not paid during the week. Pay up and avoid trouble.

Chas. Miller, who was formerly passenger conductor on the O. R. & N., is now giving the high signs with the night crew in the terminal yards at Spokane.

The report that all work has been discontinued on the Lyle-Goldendale road seems to be correct. By stopping work the company forfeits all title to the right of way.—Agriculturist.

The Umatilla House bowling alley, which has always been such a favorite resort during the cool weather, were opened this morning and in a few days bowlers will be rolling 'em high.

The CHRONICLE was a little previous in announcing that the Inland Flyer would begin her regular run today. She will make her first trip Friday, details concerning which will be given tomorrow.

An exchange says that a man who carries on his business without advertising is like a man winking at a pretty girl through a pair of green goggles—he may know what he is doing but no one else does.

W. H. Butts, the wide-awake real estate man, has changed the location of his office, and is now with Mr. T. A. Hudson, where he will be pleased to meet his many patrons. When you want property at your own price don't forget to consult "Dad."

Rev. G. Rushing, of the Christian church, received a telegram this morning from his sister who resides at Garfield, Wash., telling of the serious illness of his brother at that place. Mr. Rushing will leave on this evening's train for Garfield to be at his bedside.

Mrs. Sarah Clevenger, of Grants Pass, president of the Rebekah Assembly for Oregon, will arrive in the city on tonight's train. Tomorrow evening she will be the guest of Azalea lodge, and each member should make an extra effort to be in attendance, and enjoy, as well as receive benefit, from her visit.

Two victims of over-indulgence in the fiery liquid now saw wood for the city, having failed to pay their fines of $5 each. J. N. Cramblet was arrested yesterday afternoon, and E. Straight last night. Straight is the shepherd who lost his wardrobe while drunk about a week since. At that time he donned the drinking habit and hasn't been able to keep Straight since.

We hear much said about the affinity of the female persuasion for a mirror and are led to believe that the "stronger sex" have no idea what they are used for. A glance into Parkins' barber shop since the new mirror case has been put in will overthrow that idea, for to those which already occupied a place there, he has added nine new ones. And yet men have no use for the article.

It is estimated the pack of salmon on Puget sound this season will be 600,000 cases. This is the largest in the history of the fisheries, the record for last year being 400,200 cases, valued at $1,600,800. On the basis of the same prices this year the value of the pack comes up to $2,401,200. This does not include a large amount of salt and frozen fish which have been dealt in heavily this season.

Yesterday morning about 9 o'clock, as one of the Harriman brothers, whose name we did not learn, but whose place is on Dry Hollow near 8-Mile, was coming up from 8-Mile to the 5-Mile hill with a four-horse load of wheat, his leaders broke loose from the wagon and ran over the hill down toward 5-Mile. Reaching the road opposite Hyer's barn, one of them fell and injured himself so that he died shortly afterward. Loaded teams were coming from each direction, and for a time there was what might be termed, a "wheat blockade" in that vicinity. Soon, however, matters were adjusted and the procession moved on. Mr. Harriman began to think that misfortune never comes singly, for not long since he paid $100 for a team and considered that he had a good bargain. A few weeks ago one of them collided with a barbed wire fence and killed himself and now his mate has suffered a like fate.

On Monday Oct. 16th the round trip exposition rate via the steamers of the Regulator Line will be $2.00. W. C. Ataway gen'l agt.

A change has been made in the captains on the D. P. & A. N. line, Captain Alden taking the Dalles City and Capt. Short the Regulator. Capt. Whitcomb has charge of the Flyer.

Yesterday Ben Bros. shipped eighteen carloads of sheep which had been bought of D. P. Ketchum over the C. B. & Q. to St. Paul. Today sixteen carloads more will be shipped.

Judge W. L. Bradshaw, who has held the office of prelate in the grand lodge K. of P., has been elected grand vice chancellor by the lodge which has just met in Portland. J. P. Kennedy, of Portland, is grand chancellor.

Did the snow on the Kluckitah this morning make you feel cold? Never mind yet a while; we have had no frost as yet, not even sufficient to destroy the most tender vegetation. The first frost in Portland was reported yesterday.

Among the passengers on this morning's delayed train was Mrs. Clevenger, of Grants Pass, president of the Rebekah Assembly for Oregon. She is the guest of Mrs. and Miss Lyle, and will meet with Azalea lodge this evening. It is desired that all members be present to meet the distinguished visitor.

The first steamship of the Portland-Manila line will leave Manila about November 1. The freight rate between Portland and Manila will be about the same as the rate between Pacific coast points and Hong Kong. This means a saving of the charges between Hong Kong and Manila, and in addition a saving of much valuable time.

The preacher who can preach to please ever hearer, the lawyer who can speak to please every listener, the merchant who can sell goods to please every customer, the dress maker who can do her work to please every woman, and the editor who can write to please every reader are all dead. They may be wearing wings and golden crowns, but the chances are that St. Peter would be very suspicious of an individual like that.

The author of "In His Steps," the famous religious book, of which over three million copies have now been sold, has been induced to answer, in an article which he has sent to the Ladies' Home Journal, the question which unconsciously comes to the mind after reading his book: "Is this plan practicable in our present daily life?" Mr. Sheldon does not evade the question, but answers it in a direct and vigorous manner, and tells exactly what he believes would be the effect of his plan upon modern business methods and present-day social life.

School Superintendent Gilbert never loses an opportunity to visit the schools under his charge, and is again on the go, visiting the school districts near the city during this week, among which are that in district No. 9 in the Van Bibber vicinity, where Mrs. Ina Fitz Gerald is teacher; No. 10, Chenoweth, taught by Miss Marguerite Shelly; No. 25, on Dutch Flat, Miss Hester Kent, teacher, and No. 24, on Upper 3-Mile, taught by Miss Abbie Taylor. He finds them all in a flattering condition, using the state course of study. He will continue his trips into the country until all schools have been visited.

Representative Moody has received a letter from Secretary Hitchcock, stating that no order will be issued at this time countermanding the privileges enjoyed by the permits to sheepmen for the grazing of sheep in the forest reservations of this state. This letter is in reply to a request of Representative Moody asking that no order be issued canceling the permits granted before congress convene, when careful consideration of all the interests involved may be had. The request was made on account of the departmental order recently issued excluding sheep from the Rainier reserve.

Nearly every city and town in this state has a curfew ordinance, which to an extent at least is successful in keeping young boys and girls off the streets at night. Anyone who spends a night or two in The Dalles can readily see that such an ordinance is not a part of the laws in force here, for boys, yes, and young girls without escorts, may be seen prowling about our streets, not only during the early part of the night, but many times after midnight. We were pleased to hear that the matter of a curfew ordinance for this city was discussed at the council meeting Tuesday evening, and sincerely hope it will be carried into effect before long.

With the CHRONICLE today readers will find a supplement which will be of interest to travelers up and down the river. To the already efficient service of the D. P. & A. N. Company has been added the Steamer Inland Flyer. She has always seemed like a veritable pleasure boat; and the more so now since she has been fitted up in such a complete manner, and a trip down the Columbia on her cannot fail to be enjoyable; particularly so since she makes no long waits in loading on freight, only stopping at way stations to take on passengers. Any objection to this steamer has always been that her facilities for furnishing meals have not been good. This difficulty has been obviated, and the coolest little dining room has been fitted up where eighteen can be served at one time. It is also so situated on the upper deck that the view is perfect. To look at the dining room makes one fairly hungry. Then her pilot house is ahead of that on either of the other steamers, being so

Among the South Dakota soldier boys who have just returned from the Philippines, was Zan R. Blondin, a brother of F. A. Blondin, of the East End barber shop. He arrived in this city Wednesday and is now employed in his brother's shop and will probably make his home here.

Kog. wanted to keep it a secret, but most of his friends know that he and his charming bride will pass through the city on the afternoon train bound for the East. They will make a six weeks' visit throughout the East, returning by the southern route and visiting relatives in Los Angeles on their way home.

The American visible supply of wheat according to crop returns is 44,215,000 bushels, which shows an increase of 2,083,000 bushels, compared with 12,210,000 bushels a year ago, when the increase was 917,000 bushels. The world's shipments for the past week were 8,559,000 bushels. Receipts at Minneapolis and Duluth for two days were 1218 cars of wheat, and at Chicago 434 cars of wheat and 1086 cars of corn.

All the farmers in the vicinity of Centerville have threshed their grain, while east of Goldendale in the No. 6 country threshing will close this week. The yield in different localities exceeded expectations. It has been variously estimated that Kluckitah valley this year would market at least 1,000,000 bushels of No. 1 wheat and the principal market would be made by local buyers at Columbus. This week wheat has been selling at 53-55 cent at Columbus. There are two firms buying the Kluckitah product, and it is reported that another will soon arrive on the scene and purchase at least 100,000 bushels.—Agriculturist.

His name was Dick, but he went out duck hunting this morning about 4 o'clock, and before he returned had adopted the pet name "Dack." No one had ever accused him of taking to water to any great extent, but there are times when one is compelled to take water, and one of those times is on a dark morning when the wary duck leads one to venture beyond his depth, and at times to lose even those ducks which he hath, not saying a word about his narrow escape from drowning. But reporters don't mind a little thing like that unless some other reporter comes along and gets a scoop. If it hadn't been for a little fish, who must have been in the water near by, no one would have been any the wiser.

From the number of wheat teams which have been constantly going up and down Second street today, it would not seem that The Dalles market is being slighted by Kluckitah farmers. It has been said that Columbus is receiving a greater amount of the wheat than usual; but this is due to the fact that there is an extra large crop, and there is an immense amount which goes there. The Dalles also receiving a greater amount in proportion to the increase in the yield. Most of the crop from south of here has been hauled. The warehouses are still paying 54 and 52 cents; the mill 56 and 57 for No. 1. In Portland the price has dropped a cent.

One evening last spring Dr. Rinehart and Mrs. Morgan invited a number of young ladies to spend the evening with them, and so enjoyable was the occasion that last night they invited themselves to duplicate the pleasure. While the Dr. was making a professional call and Mrs. Morgan was in her studio, they gathered at a neighboring home, donned all sorts of rag tag costumes, masked their faces and proceeded to the Rinehart home, where they took possession. When the ladies returned, they thought bedlam had been turned loose as they gazed on a crowd, which looked like they might be direct from the insane asylum. They at once went to work to discover who their guests were, and after some time succeeded in unmasking them. From that time until midnight there was one continual round of pleasure, all formality being cast aside, while games, dancing, refreshments, etc., occupied the time. The lunch was served in picnic style and was in keeping with the general good time which prevailed.

Forerunner of Winter.

It will soon be time for newspapers to remark, "Now is the winter of our discontent," as snow is making its appearance throughout Eastern Oregon and the weather has a wintry tinge. Last night the thermometer registered 34, which was cold enough for frost had it not been for the fog which prevailed. Night before last one inch of snow fell on Dutch Flat and two inches on Government Flat, while at Prineville quite a little snow and sleet fell.

Farther east they have had storms that would do credit to December. Yesterday at Walla Walla scattered flakes fell all morning. This is the first snow storm that city has had in October for nineteen years. At Baker City three inches fell, and at Meachem there were several inches. At Helena, Mont., it was five inches deep. Still farther east in Utah and Western Wyoming eight inches covered the ground.

In our own state the snow was what is termed a "wet snow," and melted soon, which will be of benefit to the grass.

Weather conditions are not such that it can be said that the approach of the winter rainy season is indicated by current atmospheric movements. However, the time for such season has arrived, and it may be expected almost any day.

HUGH BORTHWICK DEAD.

An Accident at Goble Causes the Death of a Man Well Known Here.

H. B. Borthwick, who died Monday morning in the hospital at Portland, was very well known to Dalles people and all along the Columbia river, having been engaged in the lumbering business for the past twenty years. In the early '70's he came to the Upper Cascades and for years was in partnership with Walter Frame, until the mill burned in 1889, when he went to Goble, where he again purchased a mill.

The accident which caused his death, happened as follows:

Mr. Borthwick was engaged in making an inspection of a flame connected with his mill, when he slipped and fell a distance of twenty feet. He struck on a broken spile with full force. On being picked up he was found unconscious. An examination disclosed that one of his arms was broken in two places and it was further evident from his continued bleeding from the mouth that he was also injured internally. On the arrival of the train from Astoria Mr. Borthwick was placed on board and taken to the hospital at Portland, where he died.

The news of the sad occurrence was telegraphed to Mr. Edwards, the local agent of the mill, who immediately left for the injured man's bedside.

Mr. Borthwick was one of the most enterprising lumbermen on the Columbia river and had largely built up and extended his business the past few years. His death will be deeply regretted along the river, and none more than his employees in the mill, all of whom speak of him in the highest terms.

All during the panic times, when mills were compelled to shut down all over the country, he kept a crowd of hands at work at his mill, regardless of the losses that he was sustaining. When the better time came he began preparations for an extensive business. A new tug boat had just been completed for him, and was to have been put in service this week. Many other improvements were to have been made at his mill, and his death is not only a great shock to his friends, but is a blow to the business interests of the town where he operated.

Mr. Borthwick's wife died last spring, leaving him without any family. He has a brother living in Canada, who has been advised of his death.

The funeral was held Tuesday and the interment was in Riverview cemetery at Portland. The Masonic order and the Elks participated in the funeral exercises.

Married at Dufur.

At 5 o'clock today at the home of the bride's parents in Dufur, Harry R. Richards and Miss Jetty Starr were united in marriage by Rev. O. V. White pastor of the United Brethren church.

The parlor was prettily decorated, and quite a number of intimate friends, as well as many relatives, were present. At the close of the ceremony a wedding dinner was spread for the guests, which was greatly enjoyed as lively conversation and jest was engaged in. One was heard to remark that Mr. Richards' Star-gazing had a happy termination in the possession of a Star, while another said as Harry was constable of his precinct, it was only fitting he should have a Star. At the same time all joined in hearty good wishes.

Mr. Richards is the son of W. D.

Richards, of Fairview, and a very worthy young man. He has industriously gained for himself a competency and business ability which gives the young lady the assurance of being well cared for and having a desirable life companion. Miss Starr is a very popular young lady, who is foremost in society and church work in Dufur having been organist in the U. B. church there for some time. The many presents bestowed the esteem in which they are held.

The young people will make their home in the neat little cottage which has been fitted up at his place eight miles from this city.

The CHRONICLE wishes to join in the numerous good wishes expressed.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Haworth, Mrs. R. E. Haworth and Mrs. J. Mann left the city this afternoon to attend the wedding, the groom being a brother of theirs.

F. W. Wilson Elected Councilman.

A short, but important adjourned meeting of the council was held last evening at 7:30 at the recorder's office, when were present Councilmen Keller, Clough, Johns, Gunning, Stephens and Kelly.

The object of the meeting was to take into consideration the bids for the extension of Federal street from Fulton to Clay. But one bid was submitted—that of W. R. Brown and C. T. Jones. For constructing the same, not including covering with gravel, their bid was $660. A separate bid for covering was 55 cents per cubic yard. The council delayed the acceptance of the bid, considering that the expense was too great for the city to bear unaided, and it was decided to give the residents adjacent to the street an opportunity to assist, a report to be given in at the next meeting, on October 17th.

A bill of C. J. Crandall's for $25, for surveying and making specifications of street, was allowed.

The committee on streets and public property was directed to sell the old stoves which have been in use in the city jail and recorder's office.

Some time since Councilman Michelbach resigned, having taken up his residence in another ward, and last night F. W. Wilson was elected councilman for the First ward. No doubt the youngest member of the council will prove an efficient warden of the city's interests.

After the battle of Manila, when the Olympia was in Manila harbor, a powder boy lost his coat overboard, and asked permission to go over after it. He was ordered to remain on the ship but disobeyed, and, slipping around to the other side of the vessel, dropped into the bay and swam around, and finally recovered his coat. He was hauled on board and placed under arrest for disobedience of orders, and was finally brought before the admiral. Dewey questioned him abruptly, and tears came to the boy's eyes. He reached into the pocket of the dripping coat and took out a woman's picture. "It's my mother," he said. "The only picture I've got." "My boy," said Dewey, after a moment of silence, "a lad who would risk his life to recover his mother's picture will not be punished by me. You ought not to have disobeyed the order. But I congratulate you on having done it."
