The Wasco County Cases.

The supreme court at Salem yesterday handed down opinions in two Wasco county cases as follows:

The case of Oregon Lumber Co. ve. Jones, wherein A. S. Bennett and J. H. Cradlebaugh were attorneys for the detendant and Huntington & Wilson for the plaintiff, was affirmed.

This was a suit brought for the purpose of having the defendant Burns Jones declared a trustee for the plaintiff, B. F. Swick is down from Canyon for a one-half interest in certain lands near Hood River, Wasco county. The cause was tried in the circuit court for Wasco county, the testimony being taken before a referee. The result was ly. That last horse I had of you was a decree in favor of the Oregon Lumber Company, from which the defendant appealed to the supreme court. The opinion reviews the evidence and holds that the testimony supports the decree of the lower court.

The case of State vs. Jake Andrews, with B. S. Huntington and F. W. Wil- eler. son for defendant, was reversed.

The defendant was indicted, tried, convicted and fined $500 on the charge of showing, and having in his possession with intent to show, obscene pictures. The trial was had in Wasco county, where the crime is alleged to have been committed. A motion for a new trial was interposed and overruled. The dealleging many errors in the lower court.

The supreme court holds that the names of all twelve witnesses should have been endorsed on the indictment. Minor questions were also passed upon.

POPE FOR A DAY.

Leo's Successor Will Reign for Twenty-Four Hours, But Will Not Be Called Pope.

When Pope Leo XIII. dies his immediate successor will be Cardinal Luigi Oreglia, camarlingo of the Roman Catholic church. He will not be called pope, but according to the laws in force he will be acting pope until the new pope is elected.

The vatican regulations decree that the election of the new pope cannot take place until after the burial of the late pope, which takes place ten days after his decease. In many instances the election is not complete for weeks or months, so that the camarlingo may enjoy his papal power for a long time. Leo XIII, held the position of camarlingo when he himself was elected to the pontificate, but it does not seem possible that his camprlingo will succeed to the papal throne. It is the ca-marlingo who formally declares the pope dead after tapping his forchead three times with the silver hammer, He it is who breaks the seals and "ring of the fisherman," and then assumes the direction of the spostolic see
