Saturday's Daily

Joe Steers, Jr., who has been quite ill with pneumonia, is reported better today.

At the county clerk's office this morning a marriage license was issued to J. W. Davidson and M. M. Swift, both of Dufur.

Miss Taylor announces that beginning Monday the session of Kindergarten school will be changed from morning till afternoon, from 1 to 4 p. m.

We understand that the Hamlin Wiscard Oil Company will visit this city during the holidays, playing at the Vogt during the entire week. This company is always welcome in The Dalles.

The postoffice was closed this afternoon from 2 till 4 o'clock, an order having been issued by the postmaster general for all offices throughout the union to close at that time, during which hours took place the funeral of Vice-President Hobart.

In spite of the nearness to Thanksgiving, the turkey market seems to be somewhat off and some dealers have refused to buy. They claim the market will not warrant the prices asked. Twelve cents a pound is what is being paid.

Everyone is anxious for information concerning the new railroad scheme. We understand the survey will be made at an early date, and when the practicability of the move is assured, then watch The Dalles smoke. There will be no difficulty in pushing the work if our people see the benefit which will be derived therefrom.

Gov. T. T. Geer Thursday sent a telegram of condolence to Mrs. Garrett A. Habart, at Paterson, New Jersey, on the demise of the late Vice President Hobart, as follows: "The people of Oregon join with those of the nation in sharing with you the sorrow that has overtaken your household, and their sympathy is extended in this hour of your great affliction."

An accident which proved to be a fortunate one from the fact that much harm usually results from such occurrences, happened yesterday at 3 o'clock about a hundred yards above the Wasco warehouse, when engine No. 83, which brought in passenger train No. 1, ran into an open switch. A cattle car was struck and badly demoralized, but fortunately no one was injured.

This is the way an exchange states the case: Next year we may expect to read something like the following in the daily papers: About 10 o'clock this morning a horseless milk wagon loaded down with cowless milk collided with a brainless rider on a chainless wheel. The luckless wheelman was badly injured, and being homeless he was taken in a horseless cab to a home for the friendless.

There are a number of men in The Dalles who should be taking a trip with Ed Marshal, just sentenced to seven months imprisonment by the U. S. marshal at Yakima for selling liquor to Indians. That's the way we used to do business when the government had a deputy marshal stationed here; but now the offenders are as bold about breaking the law as any one could possibly be, and yet go unmolested.

Every few weeks the members of the High school geology class take a jaunt out into the country and spend the day in studying the various rock formations. This morning a wagonette load left for the Washington side and visited Wishram, the Indian village up the river. Such trips are not only beneficial in the pursuit of their studies, but provide a very pleasant outing and change from the tediousness of the school room.

A member of the O. R. & N. engineer corps says that at a point on the road above Mosier is another sliding mountain like the one near Cascade Locks. Rocks keep sliding and raising up the ties and pushing the track towards the river. His party explored the top of the mountain, where they found the skull of a mountain goat with the horns complete. They also found several petrified trees and parts of trees.—Glacier.

It will be good news to many Dalles people to learn that Messrs. W. H. Biggs, A. Morehie and David Fulton, of Wasco, have purchased the hot springs at Collins Landing and intend fitting the property up so that visitors to that place may receive the benefit from the healing properties of the water, and also be furnished a good camping ground. This spring is equal to that at Wind river, and with proper accommodations will become a popular resort.

Everyone who attended the club dancing party last evening is talking about the splendid time they had. There was an unusually large crowd in attendance, and the music by the full orchestra seemed to wake everyone up and cause them to enter into the spirit of the hour with renewed animation. It seemed like old times to have the orchestra once more, and while the dancers have enjoyed the music at the former parties, the added instruments and new music were greatly enjoyed and enhanced the pleasure of dancing.

Several months ago a man by the name of Ed Marshal was arrested here under the charge of horse stealing and indicted. He, however, furnished bonds to appear before the last grand jury, but failed to show up. Yesterday the sheriff received a letter from the United States marshal at Yakima saying that the fellow had been taken up there for selling liquor to Indians, and sentenced to seven months in the U. S. penitentiary at McNeal island. When he has completed his sentence there the marshal says he will be turned over to the officers here to be dealt with for the horse stealing offense.

Our business houses are now taking great interest in preparing for the Merchants' Jubilee Carnival to be given by the ladies of the Good Intent Society in the near future. A carnival which had the same object in view was given here several years ago; but it was conducted on a different plan. The entire evening is to be taken up with the advertising entertainment, and each person representing a business house gives a recitation, song, or in some way sets forth the merits of the firm they represent. There are some very catchy parodies and witticisms which cannot fail to call attention to the goods advertised.

The order has gone forth which will remove the railroad shops and round house from Starbuck to Winona. This is a result of the change of schedule on the Spokane-Portland train of the O. R. & N., which seems to hit Starbuck pretty hard. The arrangement in regard to the runs of conductors as at present outlined is that they will run from Spokane to Umatilla. That town is not as pleasant a place to lay over as Walla Walla, where the conductors now lay over, and they may be subsequently given the long run to Portland. The trains will not make the proper connections to enable them to double back to Spokane immediately from Umatilla.

The principles of charity are being instilled into the minds of the children of the county. A few weeks ago a circular letter was sent out from the office of the county school superintendent giving the school children of the county an opportunity to make donations of clothing, canned fruit, etc., to the Boys' and Girls' Aid Society of Portland. A few of the schools have arranged to respond by bringing their gifts to the school house on Wednesday preceding Thanksgiving. Donations from The Dalles public school will be received, boxed and shipped by Judge Blakeley. C. D. Thompson, principal of the Hood River school, is appointed to receive all contributions from that valley. Miss Cora Cottle from Viento and F. M. B. Chastain for Cascade Locks.

Monday's Daily Another marriage license was issued this afternoon to Wm. Brookhouse and Johanna Shelly.

She—Do you believe that man sprang from the ape? He—No. But I believe all women sprang from the monkey.—Chicago News.

This morning at 10:30 o'clock, at the Farmers' Hotel, Recorder N. H. Gates united in marriage C. C. Woodford and Mrs. Emma Sparling, both of Dufur.

From Saturday night until noon today we have had 1.12 inches of rain. Its not worth mentioning, however, if the old Indian's report that it is to continue throughout the winter is true.

J. D. Osborne, who has spent the past week at M. D. Farrington's place, on lower 15-Mile, assisting in putting in a roller feed mill, returned this morning. He says the mill is now in order ready for work, and is prepared to roll ten and twelve tons a day.

Master Workman Bassett, of the local lodge here, received a telegram this afternoon from the wife of L. D. Miller, the unfortunate fireman who lost his life in the wreck last night, notifying them of his death, and saying that the funeral would take place Wednesday at the family residence on Borthwick street in Portland.

Lee Moorhouse's famous photographs, the "Crying Cayuse Twins," are attracting attention throughout the Union. A recent issue of the New England Home magazine, which is published weekly in Boston, appear engravings of the twins. Accompanying them is the story of their birth and the taking of the pictures by Mr. Moorhouse.

These are lively times in the matrimonial market and November is livelier than the preceding months. Yesterday at high noon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Cook, on 3-Mile, was wedded Miss Jennie Cook, was wedded to Frank Moore, of Dufur, a son of the late W. H. Moore, Rev. Smith, of the Dufur Methodist church, performing the ceremony. They will make their home at Dufur.

J. H. Adams, an old resident of the East Side, sustained a serious attack of illness a few days ago that was very dangerous. A physician was called, and after working with him for some time, he partly recovered from the attack. While able to be around, Mr. Adams is still far from having recovered.—Oregonian. Mr. Adams is well known in The Dalles, and a brother of C. A. Adams, of Tygh.

The hour for holding Thanksgiving service this year has been changed from morning until evening, and on Thursday evening at the Methodist church a union service will be held, the pastors of the Congregational, Christian, Baptist and Methodist taking part in the service. A male quartet will give a selection and the various choirs will furnish other music for the occasion. Rev. Gentry Rushing, of the Christian church, will preach the sermon.

Yesterday morning Henry Teague, who had come into the city from his place on Dutch Flat Saturday, went up to Morgan's barn, near the fair grounds, to feed his team. Lifting a sack of grain he wrenched his back, which had been injured before, and fell to the floor. Being unable to assist himself, he lay for about four hours, when he was discovered and taken to the home of his brother, Robert Teague. He is somewhat better today, and it is thought will be able to be about in a few days.

In speaking of the proposed railroad up Des Chutes and on to Prineville, the Crook county News says: "The traffic to and from this section has always passed through The Dalles, its natural outlet, and only its indifference has caused the loss which it is now almost certain to sustain by the building of the C. S. railway. If, however, the efforts to retain its trade shall be the means of affording us suitable transportation facilities, we can say with Jeremiah, 'It is an ill wind that blows anybody no good' or words to that effect."

It is probably not generally known that the Filipino boy, Manuel Robles, who was brought home by the Second Oregon boys from the Philippines, is now a student of the Indian training school near Salem. The little fellow was without a home after his arrival in Oregon, and so Mr. Whitney, of Woodburn, a kind and generous man, took charge of him and gave him a home. Superintendent Patter, of the Indian training school, was solicited to take charge of the boy and give him an education, and he has undertaken to do so, without any particular authority from the department at Washington.

St. Paul's church is to lose a good and able rector and the community a splendid citizen, Rev. Jos. De Forest having decided to accept a call to the St. Peter's church in Denver. For some time he has been undecided regarding the course to take, but the result of his deliberations concerning the matter was made known last night, when he preached his farewell sermon to his parish here. In words of counsel and regret at leaving he expressed his farewell. Having been rector here for two years and a half, it is with regret that they part with him. He will leave Wednesday for Denver, taking with him the good will of the community.

We ask again why it is that our city ordinance in regard to the treatment of dumb animals, particularly horses, cannot be enforced. The residents of the city are becoming indignant over the state of affairs in this regard. Yesterday nearly the whole day long a horse was tied in front of Michelbach's saloon, tightly cinched, with the rain pelting down on him continuously, while no doubt its owner was spending the time in a debauch. A kind hearted citizen took pity on the animal and took him to his own barn, where the saddle was taken off and the poor, shivering animal fed. He left word if the fellow wanted his horse where he could find it, and although the animal was there when he went to bed, it was taken away before morning. The officers should not only take charge of such animals and make their owners pay for their care, but arrest the inhuman owners and punish them.

Another Dalles young man (for so we will always claim him) today left the ranks of single blessedness, and G. W. Phelps made Miss Cora Hart, now of Hilgard, but formerly of Heppner, his wife. The wedding took place at the home of Hon. W. K. Ellis in Heppner. Many of Bert's friends have been aware that he was contemplating matrimony, and upon his recent visit to this city he did not deny that he would soon "pass away," but received congratulations with all the grace of one who was happy in the prospect. From reports given by those who are acquainted with the bride, we feel satisfied Bert has chosen as a companion one of whom any young man might well be proud, and Dalles people can speak assuredly concerning the worth of the groom. We hasten to extend our congratulations and wish them the heartiest of good wishes. We understand the bride and groom passed through the city on No. 1 this afternoon.

Quong, the Chinaman who was implicated in the First National bank robbery here, and was arrested Wednesday in Walla Walla for stealing a diamond, was tried and held to answer at the next grand jury in the sum of $500. He had been employed at the residence of E. D. Crocker for eighteen months. Mrs. O'Neil, a sister of Mrs. Crocker, lost the diamond setting from a ring nearly a year ago and the cook was suspected as being interested in its disappearance. The matter passed for months and nothing could be ascertained positively. The officers kept watch over Wong Quong and his friends and lately were satisfied that he had the stone secreted, being afraid to offer to dispose of it. A day or two ago he was arrested and searched. Quite a sum of money was found upon him, and his waist was girdled with a belt securely sewed. This was removed and in its folds was discovered the little jewel neatly wrapped in tissue paper. Beside this 490 in gold was also abstracted from the belt.

Some one reported yesterday that they are having a dust famine in Sherman county. What about Wasco county, with 1.32 inches of rain in The Dalles last Saturday night until this morning? The young ladies; in fact, all who are to take part in the Jubilee carnival, are requested to be at the Vogt opera house Friday evening for rehearsal. It has been decided to give the carnival on the night of the 11th at the Vogt.

Engineer Brown has moved the East End cart and hose down to the engine house and is busily engaged in drying it out and otherwise refitting it. The old racing cart has been taken to the East End house in case of its being needed.

There is talk among the property owners along Tenth street regarding the grading of the street from the High school to Wakefield's property, near the old fair ground. This would be all right, for while it is the best road in the city, the west end of it might be improved by grading the part mentioned.

Yesterday afternoon while at James Simonson's place on 3-Mile, John Parrott suffered a painful accident. He slipped and fell full weight on the right hand, splitting open a wound between the thumb and first finger, which had been sewed up some years since. The cut is a bad one and had to be re-sewed, so that he will not be able to use it for some time.

A telegram was received by G. T. Parr this morning announcing the death of D. V. B. Henarie, president and second largest stockholder in the Eastern Oregon Land Company. He was an elderly gentleman and had been ailing for some time at his home in San Francisco. He died this morning. His loss will be keenly felt by every branch of the company wherever found.

Word received this morning from Portland stated that the funeral of Robert Hunter and L. D. Miller will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. All employees of the company who may desire transportation to Portland to attend the obsequies have been provided for, also their wives. No doubt many from this city will be present, at least as many as can be well spared.

Miss Katherine Brogan closed a successful term of school in Lower Antelope District November 24th, and mailed to the county superintendent contributions to the Boys' and Girls' Aid Society as follows: T. Brogan's children, $1.50; Grace Kinsey, 50 cents; Charles Reese, 25 cents; Miss Brogan, $1. The Wamie school contributed 45 cents. Miss Hester Kent, of this city, closed her first term of school November 24th in district No. 25, at Dutch Flat.

A chiropodist by the name of McPherson, who was doing the city yesterday, got mixed up with the wrong kind of foot and got hold of tangled instead of "corns, bunions and ingrown toenails." Phirman ran across him and when he attempted to take him he didn't use a razor, but struck the officer with a valise. He lodged in the jail and today was fined $10 for being drunk and disorderly, in default of which he languisheth and will no doubt work on feet of earth for a few days.

Pease & Mays' force certainly has not one artist, but many among its number from the appearance of the show windows at present. Taken as a whole, the most beautiful display of goods we have yet seen is that which now is contained therein. Even the articles which in themselves alone have no particular beauty, are so arranged as to produce a handsome fleet. From the plain white shirts and cuffs and collars in the clothing department to the most beautiful silks of the dry goods department, all are gracefully draped and festooned so as to attract the eye. They surely have some professional window dressers among their clerks.

There is a shortage of bacon and lard all over Eastern Oregon. Why this should be there is no explanation, save the sloth and want of enterprise and industry on the part of Oregon farmers. Oregon can never expect to be permanently prosperous so long as it is continually sending out of the country large sums of money for bacon and lard and butter and other such food products, all of which should be produced at home. To depend altogether upon one crop, and that crop wheat, means constant uncertainty, with ever recurring periods of prosperity and depression, with plenty one year and a hard to month existence another.—W. W. Statesman.
