LOCAL BREVITIES.

Wednesday's Daily.

Dr. Eshelman, Homeopathic physician and surgeon, is now located permanently in the city. Chronic and obscure diseases a specialty. Office, Vogt building. Telephone, office 193; residence, 194.

John is no longer "monarch of all he surveys," although he holds his head higher, for a young man called at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Weigel this morning to claim a life interest in the firm. We congratulate them on the new arrival.

About 10 o'clock this morning a defective flue in the residence of H. Gordon, on Eleventh street, caused a slight blaze and at the alarm of fire everybody was on the streets in a moment's time. The Columbias made their way to the hill, but were soon informed that their services would not be needed as the fire was out.

A fellow is working Spokane with a new racket. He calls at a residence, claims to be an inspector of sewing machines for some agency, asks to examine the machine, "finds" a broken spring, sees it and demands from $1 to $3 for doing the job. The agents pronounce him a bilk, and the police are trying to nab him. He may visit The Dalles. Look out for him.

Among the many magazines which come to our table, we find one which although not an old one is one of the most entertaining. It is aptly termed "Everybody's Magazine," for it interests all. Not being filled with long treatises on weighty subjects which tire those whose thoughts are busy the live long day, it, however, has the best of reading and that which is calculated to make the leisure hours pass pleasantly.

The past few days have been busy ones for the teachers in the high school; much busier than usual, and that's saying a great deal. The promotion of classes for the new term has caused a surplus in the higher rooms, 113 pupils in the high school department, and fifty-nine in the 8th B and 8th A, with others reciting in the latter. Thus the instructors are put to their wit's end to preserve order and do their duty by the pupils.

"The Columbia river hot springs at St. Martin's place are just as good in winter as summer," says H. Glenn and J. P. McInerney, who just returned, having had a good soaking therein. There is never a time when a half dozen guests are not there testing their healing properties. When asked if they thought any improvement would be made in the accommodations before next summer, they seemed confident there would. The hotel will not doubt be enlarged and new bath tubs put in, which would be a needed improvement.

It was noised about town yesterday that a family from Sherman county, who had scarcely recovered from the smallpox, was visiting friends on the hill, who also have children, and that the authorities should look into the matter. We have learned nothing further concerning the matter, but such carelessness should merit a just share of punishment. Criminal carelessness started the disease at Wamie and in other places, and if people are so selfish as not to consider the rights of others, the law should take their cases in hand.

The past few days have been bad ones so far as fires are concerned in every part of the state. Troutdale is the last heard from, fire having broken out in J. Klipper's saloon this morning about 2 o'clock, completely destroying the building and contents. Branham's meat market was burned, but everything of value was saved. Mickey's hotel also went, but everything had been carried out. Only by the most persistent work and the fact that the wind shifted in their favor was the Luck block saved. The wind had blown fiercely to the east, but suddenly veered toward the south and thus saved that block, and perhaps many others.

Hugh Brown, one of the desperadoes who is now confined in the county jail, "got gay" this morning and just after breakfast when they were in the corridor, finding that the other Brown was "in town," he began grabbing at him and finally tied his hands behind him and attempted to carry him into a cell. At first "Windy" thought he was joking, but at length concluding he was doing the crazy act, began defending himself, and with the assistance of the other prisoners got him in the cell, when the jailer was called. It is thought Brown was playing crazy; but he'll not fool Fitzgerald, who is on the lookout for the likes of him.

Theater-goers in The Dalles will be disappointed to learn that Clara Thropp, who so delighted them in the "Doll House" about a year ago, cancelled an engagement here for Saturday night. On account of the smallpox scare throughout the upper country all her engagements in Eastern Oregon and Washington were cancelled. We are, however, promised a series of first-class plays in the near future at the Vogt. On the 8th, 9th and 10th of February "The Cyrene" will be played; on the 15th, Barries "Little Minister" which is said to be presented by one of the best companies on the road; on the 24th of March "City of New York" company, which carries a carload of such scenery as has never been seen in The Dalles, and on April 21, Daniel Sully will appear. Everybody is aware of the reputation which he bears as an actor.

Sumpter, Granite and all these mining centers of which we hear so much may be all right, we doubt not; but it would not be a great surprise to many if the country in the vicinity of The Dalles developed into one of the largest mining sections of Oregon ere long. For some time past prospecting has been carried on to a certain extent in the Mt. Hood district, thirty-five miles from here. A company composed of Wakefield, Adams, Fredenberger, Currie and others, have been doing some lively work in their silver mines; but not long since they discovered a rich ledge of free milling gold ore, the croppings of which Mr. Fredenberger says run $22.50 to the ton. The ledge is a large one and runs north and south. Mr. Fredenberger brought the news down to his partners and returned today. More extensive work will soon be commenced and in the spring they expect to see a rush to that section.

Referring to the new D. P. & A. N. steamer, the Telegram says: "The frame is all up and the boat will probably be ready for commission by the middle of March. The new boat will be 150 feet in length and it is expected that she will develop a speed of eighteen knots. She will probably be used as an exclusive passenger boat between Portland and The Dalles. The steamer Dalles City, which has been undergoing repairs at Olsen's yard, was launched this afternoon and will be taken to the dock at the Willamette Iron Works, where extensive repairs will be made to her machinery. It is the intention to put in new pistons and piston-rods and to place larger bolts in the cylinder heads. The engines will be strengthened so as to permit the carrying of 250 pounds of steam. The boiler is sufficiently strong to stand the pressure, but the engines will have to be strengthened before the inspectors will permit the carrying of so much steam."

Thursday's Daily.

The bill boards today are not very flattering, but meet all eyes with the same greeting—"A Cheerful Lie." One of our most self-respecting expressmen is also riding about with the same sign posted on his wagon just where his name is supposed to be painted.

The saloons at least must be receiving their share of patronage from the workmen on the construction of the portage road, judging from the number of drunks who are arrested and claim to be employed there. Last night Hughes ran in another of their number, Matson, by name, who was discharged this morning.

The people of Baldwin precinct, near Hood River, can't even cross the bridge when they get to it, for the recent swell of Hood river washed away the bridge over the east fork. During the summer travel to Mt. Hood a toll bridge, which was placed there by a private company, spans the river, but in the fall it is removed, and now that the settlers' bridge is a thing of the past, the residents have to find some other means of crossing.

At a meeting of the council not long since it will be remembered that the city was authorized to purchase a gasoline street lamp that its merits might be tested. The lamp arrived yesterday and will be hung from the Bettington building on the corner of Second and Court streets, reaching out into the square. It is a 450 candle power lamp and it is said the cost of this light will be but a half cent an hour. No doubt it will be placed in by tonight.

This afternoon about 3 o'clock E. J. Collins received a telegram from Rev. U. F. Hawk informing him that the operation on his little son, which took place this morning at St. Vincent's hospital in Portland, was very successful, and that Raymond stood it remarkably well for one of his strength. If no unforeseen complications arise, Mr. Hawk will return home tomorrow night. The news will be gratifying to their friends, who have felt extremely anxious concerning the shock to the nervous system of the little invalid.

"Taps" sounded somewhat out of their usual hour today, and several times residents were startled at the clang of the fire alarm. It proved, however, to be but the result of a trial of the new alarm boxes, which are being put in. The same thing will occur for the next two or three days and need not cause alarm, unless the bell rings vigorously. The boxes will be placed as follows: On Second and Taylor, Second and Madison, Second and Laughlin, Second and Washington, Third and Lincoln, First and Union, and at the city engine house.

Tuesday the CHRONICLE mentioned the fact that the body of a woman and babe had been found in a spring near Condon. Though no minute details of the affair have been obtained, the body of the woman is that of Mrs. Laura Kelsay, wife of Charles Kelsay, of Athena. Investigation proved that she drowned herself and at the same time her small baby. She was married to Charles Kelsay in Pendleton a year or two ago. Whether any domestic trouble gave rise to the terrible deed could not be learned, although a report says she had been in Condon for the past few months.

The will of Perry Gordon Barrett, who died three weeks ago at Hood River, has been admitted to probate. The estate valued at $12,000, is bequeathed to his wife, Almada Hodge Barrett, and at her death reverts to their two grandsons, who have been adopted by them, and the will signifies a desire that the names of the boys be changed from Howell to Barrett. A gold watch is bequeathed to Edward, the eldest, and a silver-headed ebony cane, on which are engraved the date and names of the battles of the rebellion to Edwin. The document bears date of September, 17, 1899.

The immigration bureau in Portland is constantly receiving requests for Oregon literature, with assurances that a desire to find homes in the West prompts the request. No doubt the meeting of the National Press Association in that city has had much to do with increasing the number of inquiries. The editors who came here from all over the middle West, from the East and South, are yet singing Oregon's praises. Another move to advertise our state is on hand by the delegates to the association, which meets in New Orleans in March. A beautiful souvenir is being prepared to be given out in that city during the Mardi Gras, when people from all over the United States are congregated there. This will be one of the best advertisements ever given any state, and every city and town of any note will be represented. An opportunity is offered The Dalles to be included among that number and should not be slighted. It will cost but a small sum and there is no discount on the benefits which will be derived thereby.

There was a warm time in the county jail this morning. It was an "off" time rather for one of the prisoners—Hugh Brown, who was spoken of yesterday as having attacked the "other Brown" in a vicious manner. He again began his tantrums early this morning and proved unmanageable, tearing about his cell like a mad man and attacked everyone who came near. Finally Deputy Sheriff Sexton and Jailer Fitzgerald braved the lion in his den and placed handcuffs on him, locking him up so securely that he can injure no one, where he lies in the corner of his cell sullenly. There is a diversity of opinion among the officers as to his sanity. If he is feigning insanity he is a splendid actor; but it is just such a trick as a man of his stamp will resort to. If considered necessary an examination will soon be made; but the officers desire to move cautiously in the matter. Brown will be remembered as the desperado captured with Wilson by Dell Howell a month or two ago, and wanted on several charges throughout the state.

Friday's Daily.

"Crazy" Brown is still in chains in his cell at the county jail, and the officers think a generous dose of shackles will do much toward curing him of the insanity fever.

While we have had quite a little frost the past few nights, it is said no damage has been done the fruit so far, and that none may be expected until the thermometer gets down about zero.

The Astoria bowling team will arrive in the city tomorrow evening and at 8 o'clock the contest game with the club team will take place. The ladies are especially invited to be present and witness the games.

At the last club dancing party a good umbrella was left in the gentlemen's dressing room. "Tom" has taken good care of it, and brought it to this office for advertising. The owner can have it by calling and paying for this ad.

Tonight is the date for Dr. Geisen-dorff's lecture on "Bacteriology" before the Students' Literary Club. They extend an invitation to all to be present, as it will no doubt interest everyone. Music has also been prepared for the occasion.

Monday evening a lively temperance rally will take place at the Methodist church, in which the different churches will participate. The occasion is the visit of Mrs. Mattie Graves, state president of the Washington W. C. T. U. It is intended to make the meeting one of great interest to all, and the public is most cordially invited to be present.

A large number of our K. of P. boys attended The Dalles lodge last Monday night, and visited with the grand officers and members from other lodges who were present. A royal good time reported, and every one of the Hood River boys came home satisfied that the trip paid them well.—Sun.

It was, to say the least, unkind, but the following conversation was heard on Second street today: "When are you going out home?" "O, tomorrow. I want to stay over and see 'A Cheerful Lie' tonight." "Well, I declare! Why don't you buy a mirror and take it along, so you can enjoy a continued engagement?" And the speaker darted into a store near by.

Last night the water commissioners met to put the finishing touches on the water bond question by considering the matter of floating the bonds. A form of advertisement was introduced by Moore and on motion of Fish was adopted. On motion of Moore the matter of advertising for bids for sale of bonds was placed in the hands of the president and secretary. No further business was considered.

A three-year-old boy, son of Engineer Evans of the motor line between Albina and St. John's climbed on, the motor, in the absence of his father, and made a six mile run to Albina without accident Wednesday. Luck of steam and a heavy grade caused the engine to slow down before the end of the track was reached and a motorman succeeded in boarding the engine and stopping it within a few feet of the terminus.

Prof. S. P. Barrett, of Salt Lake, brother to the late Dr. P. G. Barrett, has been here since the funeral but expects to visit a daughter in North Yakima before returning to Utah. He has followed his profession as teacher for forty-two years. He taught at The Dalles four years, and at Baker City eight years. Late he has been sojourning with a daughter in Salt Lake, where he went for his health, and which he seems to have entirely regained.—Glacier.

A gentleman who arrived in the city yesterday from Sumpter reports a great deal of sickness in the famous little town. Smallpox is very numerous and many are leaving on that account, while there are many severe and fatal cases of pneumonia. Smallpox is also prevalent at Baker City. And yet the papers are mum on the question. The Spokesman-Review of Spokane has adopted the right course in giving the exact truth in regard to the disease in that city, and aptly says "it is the unknown that strikes terror to the human heart," and to tell the truth is the best policy.

Like their leader, the bimetalists who were so badly beaten in a debate recently at the Students' Literary Club, refuse to be downed, and now bob up serenely, claiming that it "wasn't fair," and that they were not given time enough, so they took their "dollar rage and went home." They also deeply regret that Mr. Gourlay declined to accept the challenge of Mr. Flood to debate the money question on another date. Mr. Gourlay claims that not an argument which he advanced was met by the opposition on the former occasion, then why should they again desire to be downed. It would be a useless waste of the society's time.

That a bad penny always returns has been verified by the experience of the officers at the city headquarters yesterday. Carl Matson, the drunk who was discharged on a promise of reformation, was brought back by Phirman last night and fined $10 worth of work at the wood pile. Sam Severson is another miscreant who returned, and is now working out his $2 fine on the sewer. Tim Kealey was also arrested for vagrancy and discharged. John Ryan's whiskey must have been very sour, for he went into the I. X. L. restaurant and began drinking his coffee out of a sugar bowl; when the manager objected he proceeded to sweeten the entire room by sprinkling the room with the sweet substance. Phirman appeared on the scene and took him where sugar is minus. This morning he paid his $2 fine.

U. OF O. NOTES.

What Oregon's Students Are Doing at the University.

EDITOR CHRONICLE:

The most important event of the week was the Glee Club reception given by President and Mrs. Strong and the local alumni, at Villard Hall. A large number of the alumni, student body and friends of the university were present. Prof. McAllister, '90, spoke of the alumni and its relation to the university. Dr. Strong spoke of the Glee Club, and its relation and benefit to the university. Prof. Glen gave an account of the club's holiday tour and its Eastern Oregon reception. The Glee Club then sang and of course were encored. The Treble-clef club gave a well rendered selection, refusing to respond to the encore. The rough house quartet, composed of Messrs. Goodrich, as leader, Pat McArthur, singing higher basso and Blythe and Whittiesy, furnishing the discord, sang a "rooster's song" with variations, accentuations, etc. Its discordant harmony was execrable.

At the weekly assembly the student body listened to a well prepared address by Mr. H. H. Hopkins, '93, on the necessity of a thorough education. Rev. G. F. Hall, of Illinois, also made a few appropriate remarks.

The Philologist society had an installation of officers Friday evening. Its new officers are: President, W. L. Whittiesy; vice president, M. L. Applegate; secretary, Arthur L. Gumper; librarian, W. G. V. Hughes; censor, A. B. Waltz; treasurer, G. O. Russell; sergeant-at-arms, C. E. Gray. After the installation the society listened to Prof. F. L. Washburn, who told of his trip through Spain in 1882. The lecture was illustrated with stereopticon views. The professor showed and described the horrors of the bull ring, the architectural grace of the Alhambra and the beauties of old Spain. The lecture was one of the most interesting given before the society this year.

The Laurean Society was favored with some fine selections by the "Varsity" mandolin club, after which they debated the question: "Resolved, That it is now time for the United States to discard the protective tariff policy." The burden of proof was presented by the affirmative, who were given the decision.

Saturday evening the Freshmen defeated the Eugene High School in a game of basket ball, score 19 to 9.

STUDENT.

BURIED AT ARLINGTON.

The Remains of Sidney Hawson Taken to His Home Yesterday.

Further particulars concerning the suicide of Sidney Hawson at Portland Monday, are to the effect that Hawson had been drinking heavily for a week, but on the fatal day was perfectly sober, and was led to the rash act by melancholy over the divorce proceedings and the circumstances which led up to it. He coolly shot himself at his room in the Edmond hotel, leaving two letters, one to his wife and the other to his brother at Arlington.

The letter to his wife was as follows: "PORTLAND, Jan. 22, 1900.—My Dear Wife: That justice may be done to you and the children, I send this letter first to Judge Cleland, to read and make known to the world. I also inclose a letter I wrote from England in 1895, which will explain Harburt's being in your room during your sickness at that date. The same is also true of Lucile Hawson. She is mine.

"Now, how and why did I do what I have done? I cannot tell, only that old Sydney is gone. Whiskey took him away; but he got back today, and is going to stay as he was in 1891.

"Do not let the children know what was the manner of my death. Just tell them that I have gone (I hope) to heaven, and will look down upon them.

"Forgive me, if you can, the wrong I have done you. I trust and I know that you will do your duty by the boy and bring him up a man. All my papers are in my grip in my room.

"I cannot stand not to do my duty in the matter, for it is a sin to put a stain on you, and I wish you had been a little more firm, and at the same time shown some pity when I asked you a month ago. Your husband,

"SYDNEY G. HAWSON.

"Most of my troubles can be put of late years to the Wasco warehouse, and F. T. Harburt fighting me and ruining me."

A. C. Hawson, the brother, arrived in Portland yesterday morning, in company with Mayor Barsley and W. H. Caldwell, prominent Knights of Arlington, and A. A. Jayne, of this city, who was his attorney. They passed through this city last night with the body, and the funeral took place today at Arlington under the auspices of the K. of P. and Masonic orders.

The Bond Question Settled.

Mayor Kuck presided at a special meeting of the council last night with Councilmen Keller, Clough, Stephens, Guening, Shackelford, Wilson and Johnston present.

The mayor at once announced that the object of the meeting was to consider the mayor's veto to ordinance 318, which provided for the issuance of $20,000 worth of water bonds. The ordinance was then placed on final passage over the mayor's veto; but was lost.

Gunning then introduced special ordinance No. 319, providing for the issuance of $25,000 worth of water bonds, or if the full sum is found not necessary for the refunding of said bonds, by reason of the water commission concluding and determining before the sale thereof that said bonds shall contribute the sum of $5000 toward the payment of said bonds, then the city shall only issue $20,000 worth of bonds. A vote being taken the ordinance passed.

On motion of Wilson, the matter of strengthening the floor of the engine house was referred to the committee on fire and water, with power to act.
