SOMEBODY STUFFED HIM.

The Times-Mountaineer last Friday published a short editorial on "Moody or McCamant" that perhaps deserves a passing notice.

This is all a dream; a dream, however, that the Democrats would like to be true. Mr. McCamant is not in the race.

Nor is there any better ground for the assertion that the Multnomah Republicans want to name the candidate for congress because they have the most votes.

This man Gerlinger, who claims to represent the Columbia Valley railroad, may be all right but he has a queer way of doing business.

The first paragraph on the first page of Herron's first issue of the Topeka Capital is a vow, the very thing Christ warns his disciples to avoid.

The first number of Herron's Topeka Capital has reached this office through the courtesy of a friend.

This is the season when the press teems with little paragraphs like this: "Mr. John Jones having been earnestly pressed by his numerous friends to allow his name to be presented to the coming county convention has at last reluctantly consented and placed himself in the hands of his friends."

Now that H. B. Miller has resigned the office of president of the State Board of Horticulture we suggest the name of Hon. E. L. Smith, of Hood River, as his successor.

Judge Lowell, of Pendleton, publishes in the Heppner Gazette an address to the Republican voters of the Sixth Judicial District, announcing that while he is not a candidate for United States senator and will not be one, in the sense of seeking the office, he would deem it a distinguished honor to represent his adopted state, and should those who are known to be candidates fail of election and a new man be selected he would be gratified to receive the preferment. In plain United States the judge's lightning rod points vertical to the stars and Barks is willing to sacrifice himself on the altar of his country.

The Albany Democrat's estimate of the flamboyant "Poet of the Sierras" is very much in line with ours, and is as follows: "It is strange that men with his ability would lose their balance wheel and fly off into long hair, freak cabins and strange personal maneuvers.

There were nine inches of snow on the streets of New York yesterday and still more over in New Jersey. Seven thousand men battled with the "congealed element" in the big city in the effort to keep the streets clear for traffic but, in spite of all they could do, business was partly paralyzed and traffic over the Brooklyn bridge for a time completely blocked.

This man Gerlinger, who claims to represent the Columbia Valley railroad, may be all right but he has a queer way of doing business. He seems to have an impression that The Dalles has $50,000 worth of bonds that she is just aching to give away to somebody who will promise to bridge the Columbia in some indefinite or remote future.

tion, as far as Wasco county is concerned. Those who have taken special interest in the result are confident that a solid Moody delegation will attend the state and district conventions from Wasco county.

The editor of a Portland exchange, who has the misfortune to be a Democrat and a widower at the same time, has adopted a very unique method of dunning delinquent subscribers. In last week's paper he tells his readers a sober tale of an Iowa editor who eloped with another man's wife and whom the people of the town caught and wanted to lynch.

Among the names of the country delegates elected to the Republican county convention last Saturday we note a number who were pronounced Bryan men four years ago and still silverites, if less pronounced, two years later.

This is a "Billion Dollar Country" sure enough. Our foreign commerce is over two billions a year; our money in circulation over two billions and our deposits in savings banks a long way over two billions, while our per capita wealth and per capita money circulation is greater than it ever was in our national history.

Before the Astorians have been able to agree upon a plan of campaign against rats, because of their supposed liability to introduce the dreaded bubonic plague, their fellow-townsmen, Dr. August Kinney, seriously urges the common council to suggest some appropriate legislation against fleas.

Walla Walla is wrestling with the problem of how to dispose of her sewerage. The Dalles is wrestling with the problem how to put in a sewer system without bankrupting the property-holders.

Wasco county Republicans have set an example to The Old Sod in the way they can celebrate St. Patrick's day and hold Republican primaries at the same time without having a shindy.

A SLAP IN THE FACE.

The Oregonian has done a grave wrong both to the friends of Senator McBride and to those of Mr. Moody. Mr. McBride's friends frankly and quietly conceded a solid Wasco county delegation to Mr. Moody.

The native modesty of the present editor of this paper has hitherto kept him from publishing any of the kind things his old newspaper friends have lately been saying about him; but, he is compelled for once to forgo his natural bashfulness and blushingly submit the following from the Goldendale Agriculturalist:

"We are pleased to learn that Hugh Goulay, well known in this city, has taken editorial charge of The Dalles Chronicle. He is a veteran journalist, none better on the coast, and the Chronicle under his administration will now take its position as one of the leading newspapers of the great Inland Empire, an able champion of the republican party, the gold standard, and expansion, and all things that make the United States the leading nation on the globe.

You observe that the gist of this handsome (if extravagant) compliment lies in the penultimate sentence; but hard indeed must the heart of an editor be who would refuse a brother item-stealer a request presented with so much delicacy and urged with so great diplomatic courtesy. Brother Story will get the daily.

A Good Woman Gone.

We have to chronicle the passing away of Fannie Sargent Hunsaker, beloved daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. N. Sargent, at the home of her father this morning, at 2 o'clock.

She had spent the last two weeks with her parents, and feeling unusually well last evening she met a few of her friends, and not until within a couple of hours of her death was it realized that the end was so near.

Fannie Sargent was born at Mineral Point, Wisconsin, July 3, 1856 and crossed the plains with her parents in 1862. She was married at her home in Mitchell, Nov. 4, 1880 to Mr. Frank Hunsaker, by whom she had two sons, who have now reached maturity.

DESCRIBES LUZON LIFE. Portland Veterinary Surgeon Tells of Aparri—Women Dress in Loose Sacks and Smoke Strong Grogars. F. J. Knepper, veterinary surgeon, U. S. A., from Aparri, Luzon, to his wife in Portland, under date of January 17, says: "Aparri is situated on the north coast of Luzon, and is considered the coolest and healthiest spot of the island. It has good drainage, sandy soil, and is surrounded by a most beautiful and productive country. The climate is far from being a hot sun is not too warm of nights to sleep under blankets. It rains about every other night but soon dries off.
