About seventy pocket knives were stolen from a case in the front end of W. A. Johnston's store Monday night. The thief must have been a boy as he obtained access to the store through a small aperture in a back window. Seven of the knives were accidentally found on the railroad track near Peters' mill. No trace of the thief has yet been found, That he was an amateur is evidenced by the fact that a case of razors, much more valuable than the knives, lay close by but were left untouched.
