In a private dispatch received here yesterday Mr. Moody said: "The bill prepared by the wagon road settlers, if introduced, would prejudice or defeat ultimate relief. The interior department has repeatedly reported against such measures. Through the sundry civil bill I hope to secure authorization of an investigation for relief along the line of congressional precedent." Mr. Moody Las adopted the policy of the shrewd business man that he is. The settlers referred to have been deeply wronged, but the title of the road company is absolute and no relief from the government is possible on the ground of legal right. If relief is ever obtained, and THE CHEONICLE devontly hopes it may, it will be along the lines on which Mesers. McBride and Moody
