The Irish Ex-Convicts.

NEW YORK, June 21.—Joseph Mullet and James Fitzharris were today taken from Ellis island to the immigration station in the barge office and officially notified to prepare for deportation. The men angrily declared that they had been treated worse by the United States government than during any time of their incarceration in English prisons. Commissioner Mcweeney said that the men today had received telegrams from "Rocky Mountain" O'Brien and ex-Judge Curtis, their counsel. It is thought that Judge Curtis may ask for papers in habeas corpus so as to delay the deportation, which, otherwise, will take place Saturday on the Cunard liner Servia.

TYGH VALLEY, OR., June 18, 1900. EDITOR CHRONICLE: I hand you herewith a notice to horse owners that I hope you will publish at the earliest opportunity, for I deem the matter of very great importance to every owner of a horse in the county.

Anyone can readily see that if this disease should get well scattered among the work and saddle horses of the county, and the infection got into the public and private stables, it would be a task of giant proportions to ever get entirely rid of it again.

I would request that every person knowing of cases of this disease would at once inform me confidentially of its whereabouts and who the owners of the horses are, or what brands they carry.

OWNERS OF HORSES TAKE NOTICE. Information having been filed in my office that numerous cases of mange among horses now exist in Wasco county, I hereby notify all persons buying horses so afflicted to immediately remove said horses from the public range and to keep them separate and apart from all other horses not so afflicted, and to immediately treat said afflicted horses for a cure of said disease.
