At Hartland, Wash., Thursday, July 26th, to the wife of William Walker, a son. In this city, Friday, July 27th, to the wife of Gus Guinther, a son. Escaped From Peking. LONDON, July 27.—The Shanghai correspondent of the Daily Telegraph, telegraphing yesterday, says: "Li Hung Chang now states that some of the members of the legations have already left Peking, and may be expected shortly. He is becoming angry at the skepticism of the consuls. The impression is gaining ground here that the ministers of the powers to China has applied for mediation may be still alive. The representatives of France, Japan, Russia and the United States have visited Li Hung Chang, but the others still keep aloof. Meanwhile active preparations in the Yangtze region for war are in progress, not for war against the rebels, but against foreign powers. Junkloads of Chinese soldiers and Boxers, disguised as coolies, are arriving here daily. The arsenal is full of arms, and supplies are constantly coming in." The Hong Kong correspondent of the Daily Express wires as follows under yesterday's date: "An Italian priest has just arrived here from Hen Sin Fu, southern Honan, where the Italian bishop and three priests have been massacred, after revolting torture. This took place July 4. Six hundred converts were massacred after the women had been subjected to hideous brutalities. Six other priests fled to the hills, where they were probably killed. The priest who escaped made a perilous journey to Hong Kong. He hid in a coffin on board a river boat for seventeen days." Can Protect No Longer. NEW YORK, July 26.—A special to the Journal and Advertiser from Hong Kong says: Consul-General Wildman has been informed that the Chinese governor of the island of Hai Nan has served notice on the consuls that he is unable to protect the foreigners any longer. The American missions have appealed to Consul Wildman to send a warship to Hoi How to bring away the foreigners. It is believed that three men, three women and three children, belonging to the American Presbyterian Boards mission at Nodoo, Hai Nan, have been murdered by Chinese Imperial troops. The latest news from there was dated July 12, at which time they repelled the attack of the Boxers. Hong Kong is full of refugees. An outbreak is expected on the West River. Gold Standard in Peru. WASHINGTON, July 25.—Mr. Roberts, director of the mint, has been advised by the United States minister at Peru that the latter country adopted the single gold standard and has issued a gold coin known as the libra, or Peruvian pound, being identical in weight and fineness with the English pound sterling. The libra and the silver sol are now received on equal terms by the banks of the country and circulated concurrently. The coinage of the former is free and silver is used only in a subsidiary capacity. Cuban Convention. HAVANA, July 25.—The decree calling for a constitutional convention and providing for the election of delegates will be held the third Saturday in September, and the convention will meet in Havana the first Monday in November. The convention, according to the terms of the decree, is called in conformity with the spirit of the joint resolution of congress and part of its duty will be to agree upon the relations that are to exist between the government of the United States and the government of Cuba. Americans Land at Taku. SHANGHAI, Tuesday, July 24.—Two thousand American troops have arrived at Taku, as well as eight transports filled with British troops. Both detachments are deficient in artillery. A cable steamer has started to lay a cable from Wei Hai Wei to Che Foo and Taku. The Dalles Markets. Wheat—No. 1, 50 cents. Barley—$14 a ton. AN ODD HONEYMOON. A Texas Congressman's Bridal Tour by Wagon. Aided in His Education by His Bride While Performing the Offices of a Backwoods Pedagogue. There are a few men in the present congress whose early histories are linked with what they still call the "good old days" when they shaped and carved their own careers. The one whose story follows has 6 1/2 lines about himself in the congressional directory, says the Washington Star. He was in his room the other night reading Cesar's Commentaries when interrupted by a visitor, a politician. When the business talk was over the visitor went out and met an acquaintance, to whom he said: "I called on a Texas congressman awhile ago and found him reading Latin. I didn't know he was a college man." The visitor's inference was correct from where he stands, for he is one of the present generation. But 30 years ago no one was suspected of being college-bred simply because he could translate Latin. The Texas representative of this story is not only tolerably well up in classics. He is so proficient in the higher branches of mathematics that few college men could puzzle him. He is a lawyer and was a soldier in the civil war. When he married 33 years ago, he could read and write. Beyond that he claimed nothing. He knew little of the history of his country. His honeymoon journey was made in a two-horse wagon from his home to South Carolina to what was then a remote settlement in Texas. He started on the day of his wedding. He reached his destination, which has been his home ever since, on Christmas eve. There were more Indians in the settlement than whites. The rifle and shotgun were as necessary as the plow. After the young South Carolinian had cast about for a means of livelihood, some of the neighbors suggested that he "take up school." That was the way it was expressed then, and the expression is adhered to still in some parts of the south. He went home and told his bride. He knew she was capable of teaching, and the proposition was made to her. She dissented and told her husband to accept. He realized his inability as an instructor. His wife urged him to take it. "It will help you," she said. He became a backwoods pedagogue, and the first few weeks had no trouble in his work. His pupils were nearly all of the kindergarten class, or would be so considered at this time. Later older and more advanced pupils came into the school, and the young pedagogue was troubled in mind. He assigned the lessons for the advanced pupils a day ahead, and at night he, with his wife's assistance, labored late over the problems for the next day. He heard these classes first while the lessons were fresh in his mind. But occasionally an "overly smart boy," as he said, "would want to know something I hadn't thought of, and I would be floored. But I knew it would never do to show my ignorance, and that is where I learned my first lesson in whatever diplomacy I may have. I was always on the alert for the smart scholar who knew more than I knew, and when he asked me a stump-er I had some excuse ready and put him off until the next day. Then when I went home my wife and I would tackle the smart boy's poser, and maybe we would work on it until quite late. But we always mastered it, and when I called school next day I expatiated learnedly on the question. "But to this there was a serious objection, for my learned disquisition nearly always aroused the latent curiosity of some other boy, and he would come to me with a proposition which I would have to sidetrack until the next day. "Preparing lessons in Texas in those days had its dangers. The Indians did their mischief most generally in the night, and in consequence most whites were afraid to have lighted candles. The lights attracted the Indians, and they would come and demand admittance. If the house was darkened they were less liable to annoy. Many a night my wife has darkened the windows with what few clothes we could spare and we prepared our lesson by the light in the fireplace." In this way the young pedagogue worked until by his own exertion and the assistance of his wife he was further advanced than the average public school pupil of to-day in his third year. In time he was ahead of his pupils and no longer dodged problems from one day until the next. He studied law and was admitted to the bar. He was successful. The civil war interrupted him in his work. He enlisted as a private in the Confederate cause. He was reelected to the Forty-eighth congress and reelected four times in succession. Then he declined, but two years later was elected again, and has been reelected twice since. Bismarck's Iron Nerve Was the result of his splendid health. Indomitable will and tremendous energy are not found where stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels are out of order. If you want these qualities and the success they bring, use Dr. King's New Life Pills. They develop every power of brain and body. Only 25c at Blakeley & Houghton's drugstore. 6 Subscribe for The Chronicle.

FASHION'S FANCIES. Bright Colors Are Favored in Millinery—Popular Notions in Hosiery. No woman need think that she cannot have a handkerchief waist simply because some handkerchiefs cost five dollars apiece and entire waists $20. There are others, and pretty waists too, that sell in some of the best department stores for $5.75, says the New York Times. The small girl is to be as brilliant as a humming bird this season. She is wearing all kinds of bright sashes in flowered and bright-colored ribbons and red is one of the colors most often seen in her hats just now. Red seems to be popular anyway, and cherries and currants vie with red poppies. A flower hat entirely of poppies, and a big hat at that, is a brilliant affair, and a black velvet bow accentuates its brilliance. The hats vary from those with rather stiff rims and high crowns to low flats and these latter frequently have, after the hat is trimmed, a covering of tulle put over, enveloping them like a veil. Shaded layers of chiffon, one overlapping the other cover the rims of spring and summer hats as they have those of the winter. The crowns are of the chiffon. Green or white grapes are the one form of decoration all milliners of all degrees seem to agree upon this year. They are to be seen everywhere a bad prospect for the staying qualities usually. There are many of the chiffon and other thin material roses, and the woman who makes her bonnets at home will find them a boon, for they are pretty and effective. They come at 50 cents, and sometimes less, and from that up to two or three dollars, and are almost as big as cabbages. All sorts of openwork stockings are to be seen in all patterns and colors. Many of the stockings are figured or embroidered just over the instep where the work will show with low shoes. There are stripes that run lengthwise and others that run the other way, and there are polka dots of course, and some figures, but mostly confined to the instep. One pretty style of stocking has stripes separated by lace stitches, and an alternate stripes is the effect of feather stitching one in one color and one in another. Pretty underwear which will delight people inclined to plumpness, who can afford to wear it, the silk jersey trimmed with silk lace. It comes in sets, the three undergarments, but the pieces can be bought separately. They are several dollars each. The underwaists, which gather in at the waist and do not basque below, are from $2.50 up. The chemise is one of the prettiest of the garments when embroidered with the French bowknots. Savory Poached Eggs. Break an egg very carefully into a coffee cup and sprinkle it lightly with salt and pepper. Have ready a small steppan containing some boiling beef tea which has been nicely seasoned; carefully slip the egg into the pan and poach it in the usual way. When it is done, place it on a rather thick round of buttered toast; thicken a small quantity of beef tea quickly with a little corn flour and pour it over the egg. Another way of serving a poached egg is as follows: Break a new-laid egg into a buttered teacup, season it with salt and pepper and place the cup in a steppan containing sufficient boiling water to reach to rather more than half way up the cup; as soon as the egg is set turn it carefully on to a piece of hot buttered toast. During the time the egg is cooking boil a small quantity of cream in a saucepan, season it with a little celery salt and pepper and add a teaspoonful of chopped parsley to it; pour the cream over the egg and serve at once. A small hot-water plate, with a cover, should be used for all hot dishes sent to an invalid's room, and remember that the cover should be heated as well as the plate. —Washington Star. The Best Remedy for Stomach and Bowel Troubles. "I have been in the drug business for twenty years and have sold most all of the proprietary medicines of any note. Among the entire list I have never found anything to equal Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for all stomach and bowel troubles," says O. W. Wakefield, of Columbus, Ga. "This remedy cured two severe cases of cholera morbus in my family and I have recommended and sold hundreds of bottles of it to my customers to their entire satisfaction. It affords a quick and sure cure in a pleasant form." For sale by Blakeley & Houghton. Nasal Catarrh quickly yields to treatment by Ely's Cream Balm, which is agreeably aromatic. It is received through the nostrils, cleanses and heals the whole surface over which it diffuses itself. Druggists sell the 50c size; Trial size by mail, 10 cents. Test it and you are sure to continue the treatment. Announcement. To accommodate those who are partial to the use of atomizers in applying liquids into the nasal passages for catarrhs of the nose, the proprietors prepare Cream Balm in liquid form, which will be known as Ely's Liquid Cream Balm. Price including the spraying tube is 75 cents. Druggists or by mail. The liquid form embodies the medicinal properties of the solid preparation. Dissolution Notice. The copartnership business heretofore conducted at 175 Second street, under the firm name and style of Blakeley & Houghton, is this day dissolved by mutual consent, F. L. Houghton retiring from said firm. The business will be conducted in the future by Geo. C. Blakeley, at the old stand. F. L. Houghton will collect all accounts and pay all liabilities of said firm. The Dalles, Oregon, July 2, 1900. GEO. C. BLAKELEY, F. L. HOUGHTON.

ONE MAN'S ODD SUPERSTITION. A Chicagoan Who Walks, Rain or Shine, Rather Than Ride Through a Tunnel. "Nearly every man has his superstition," remarked a La Salle street broker to a friend as they boarded a car, according to the Chicago Inter Ocean. "I came across a little story the other day on that line. Every morning, year in and year out, with the exception of Sundays, a prominent North side business man gets on the Clark street cable car at Fullerton avenue, rides to Illinois and Clark streets, then alights and walks to his office, which is within a stone's throw of La Salle and Randolph streets. "The other day a gentleman who was visiting this man's house rode downtown with him, and on arriving at the corner of Illinois and Clark streets expressed his surprise when the Chicago man, with an apologetic tone, asked him to meet him at his office, as he always walked from this place across the bridge and thence to the office. The visitor, rather fancying the walk himself, swung off the car with his friend. "What's your idea in walking every morning?" he asked the Chicago man. "Like the exercise, I suppose?" "No, not particularly," rejoined the other. "Superstition, I reckon. Some ten years ago I was riding through the tunnel with a friend and we occupied a seat on the grip car. The car was very crowded, passengers standing upon the foot board of the grip. The movement of one of these passengers accidentally brushed my friend's hat from his head. In making a frantic attempt to recover it he pitched forward between the tunnel walls and the car. In spite of frenzied efforts upon the part of myself and others to drag him out, he was crushed to death before the car could be stopped. "Since that time I have always had a premonition that should I ever ride again through the tunnel my end would be the same. You may think me foolish and attribute this to superstition, but I have never been through that tunnel since. I walk to Illinois and Clark street in the evening and take a car; in the morning I always alight at that corner, rain or shine, and walk to my office. If I accompany my wife to the theater I leave her on the car at this corner and walk to the theater. I would not go through that tunnel again for $5,000. The strange part of all this is that the other tunnels possess no terrors for me. I frequently ride through the Washington and Van Buren street tunnels without a thought of danger, but the La Salle street—never." Apple and Celery Salad. A delicious salad may be made from apples and celery. First, chill them in cold water. After they are diced mix equal parts of both together. Salt to taste and blend thoroughly with mayonnaise dressing. Serve on lettuce leaves. —Cincinnati Enquirer. Sour Cream Cake. Mix one cupful of cream, one cupful of sugar, one cupful of flour into which a tablespoonful of soda has been sifted, one-half of a teaspoonful of salt and one-half a small nutmeg. —Brooklyn Eagle. CASTORIA For Infants and Children. The Kind You Have Always Bought Bears the Signature of J. C. H. PITCHER A Good Cough Medicine. Many thousands have been restored to health and happiness by the use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. If afflicted with any throat or lung trouble, give it a trial for it is certain to prove beneficial.
