In a Peck of Trouble.

Thursday's Daily.

The financial troubles of the Central Navigation Company continue to multiply. This morning the Dalles office of the company was attacked by Sheriff Kelly on an execution issued at the suit of J. T. Peters & Co. for supplies, amounting to $900, and of S. J. Brown, for team work, amounting to $300. Justice Rorick, of Grand Dalles, today qualified as assignee on behalf of labor claims and the claims of certain merchants of The Dalles for sums amounting to some five or six thousand dollars. Winters & Chapman, contractors, have filed liens on the road bed across the river for $24,497.72. The Oregon Lumber Company has filed a lien on the same property for $1,804.09. Mays & Crowe, of this city, have attached the company's boat, now in course of construction at Portland, on a claim for supplies amounting to some $3,800 and a party left here today to attach the wrecked Billings up at Quinns. The impression is quite prevalent in these parts that the troubles of the company have their origin in a Kilkenny cat fight over the management. That all claimants will be ultimately paid in full is confidently asserted by parties who claim to have inside information.

Wasco County Teachers' Institute.

The first session of the annual institute of Wasco county began at 10 o'clock Wednesday at Hood River, with an attendance of about seventy-five teachers. Prof. Landers, superintendent of the Dalles schools, led the institute in singing. After a brief, but hearty welcome to the teachers, Supt. Gilbert read a short sketch of the history of institute work in Wasco county during the past four years. Prof. Robinson, school superintendent of Multnomah county, discussed the subject of numbers in primary grades. He is very practical, and his work is much appreciated by the many young teachers in attendance.

The afternoon session was attended by eighty-five persons. Supt. Robinson conducted the work in primary reading and President Hawley, of Willamette University, told the teachers why we

The Wheat Market.

The Portland Commercial Review of August 30th says:

"The local wheat market has moved within narrow limits throughout the week, though the volume of business has been larger. A more active movement from the interior is noted, and we may consider that hereafter daily receipts will show steadily increasing proportions. Tonnage is beginning to arrive, and altogether we may witness a good September shipping trade. Harvesting is well advanced, and in many places they are finished and farmers are turning their attention to selling. Walla Walla club is quoted nominally at $5.50 per bushel on track here, and Valley 57c. Bismuth, 58@59c. The strong position of freights still operates to a greater or less extent against wheat, but it is very difficult at present to see how freights can come down with scarcity of tonnage and good prices ship-owners are receiving from the west coast of South America. The en route list is small, not enough to carry away over fifteen per cent of the crop. Most of the tonnage listed, chartered, is for loading before December 31st. Interior warehouses are beginning to fill up with wheat, and farmers seem to be housing their crop as soon as harvested. Reports from the valley show some improvement, and it may be possible that the crop will be larger than that first calculated. Reports from other parts of the state are very conflicting, and it will take yet three weeks before a definite idea of the size of the crop can be made. Exporters are not bothering themselves about the size of the crop, but would like to have more ships to move the same. The only disengaged vessel here is asking 48@53. With the price of cargoes in London, wheat would be worth here about 50c per bushel."

His Life Was Saved.

Mr. J. E. Lilly, a prominent citizen of Hannibal, Mo., lately had a wonderful deliverance from a frightful death. In telling of it he says: "I was taken with Typhoid fever, that ran into Pneumonia. My lungs became hardened. I was so weak I couldn't even sit up in bed. Nothing helped me. I expected to soon die of Consumption, when I heard of Dr. King's New Discovery. One bottle gave great relief. I continued to use it, and now am well and strong. I can't say too much in its praise. This marvellous medicine is the surest and quickest cure in the world for all Throat and Lung Trouble. Regular size 50 cents and $1.00. Trial bottles free at Blakeley's drug store; every bottle guaranteed."

Saloon Burned at Long Beach.

LONG BEACH, Aug. 30.—A fire at 4:30 this morning destroyed Jeff Nye's place on the railroad near the station. The house was completely destroyed and all Long Beach turned out with buckets to bail water and prevent the sparks from firing the other houses adjoining. All bar fixtures, tables, furniture and a costly mirror were destroyed, a small stock of liquors being saved. When the blaze was first discovered a puff of wind threatened to carry the fire into the Pratt cottage on the east. By hard work the goods in the confection store and Dr. Park's store were saved by the bucket brigade. The origin of the blaze is a mystery, but it is thought to have been spread by the explosion of a can of gasoline in a rear room. Messrs. Grove, Johnson and Farrell were the first to enter the building after the alarm sounded, and the entire upper part of the place was then enveloped in flames. The amount of loss is uncertain, and there is believed to be no insurance.

MAKING BOYS' CLOTHES.

Good Judgment of Mothers Adds to the Happiness of the Youngsters.

Boys are not generally supposed to know or care a great deal about fashion, but they would be saved from much mortification if their mothers would exercise greater judgment in the selection or making of their apparel. The small girl is usually a dainty enough object in her fluffy skirts to satisfy the soul of the most exigent. It's not so with the lads, however, most of them being atrociously dressed, not to put too fine a point on it. The average mother seems to regard her long, lanky, thin-legged, freckled and tanned son as a thing of beauty that needs only adornment to call down upon his head the bravos of an admiring world. Therefore she puts on him a white duck blouse, very short trousers and white socks, that display to much advantage his scrawliness, and adorns his cropped hair with a broad-brimmed hat with ribbons that would suit a chubby Cupid-like child of four, but is absolutely unfitted to the boy who has attained the magnificent age of eight or ten, says a domestic exchange.

The average small boy regards his fauntleroy costume with absolute loathing when he begins to think about clothes at all. He longs with intense yearning for a collar that stands up stiffly and proudly and for a pair of stockings that do not leave so much to be desired.

They do these things better in England. There the lad of ten has his stiff shirt and collar and hat, his long trousers and Eton jacket. He's done with ribbons by eight and he's not expected unblushingly to face the world and display his mosquito-bitten legs, to his endless embarrassment, after he's acquired the dignity of having his hair cut close.

Tomato Jelly Salad.

Let simmer together for 15 minutes one pint of steved tomatoes, four cloves, one bay leaf, one blade of mace, one-half teaspoonful of salt, one-fourth teaspoonful of paprika, and ten drops of onion juice. Press through a fine sieve, and add one-third of a box of gelatine which has been soaked for one hour in one-third of a cupful of cold water. Stir until dissolved, add two tablespoonfuls of tarragon vinegar, and pour into wet individual molds. When firm turn out on lettuce leaves, and garnish with mayonnaise.—Home Magazine.

The New Vells.

The new vells are very clear and have quite small spots, not too closely set. Fine white and flesh pink tulle is strewn with small black spots, and the all-white veillings are exceedingly thin and the spots small. They're stilled beneath the chin, the old fashion of wearing them only to the lips not having found many admirers. On toques the veil is cut only to the required length and not turned in at all, so as to be barely noticeable over the brim.—Washington Star.
