LOCAL BRIEVITIES.

Saturday's Daily.

Dr. Sanders, rooms 1 and 2, Chapman block.
Rev. Frank Spaulding is being congratulated upon the arrival of a girl at his house. He is the happy father of seven boys and one girl.—Glacier.

Word received today from Dr. Giesz, who is attending Miss Elizabeth Schooling at the Good Samaritan hospital in Portland, is encouraging and the doctor says she is improving.

Mr. Jasper Wyman, of Albany, has accepted a position in the drug store of M. Z. Donnell. Mr. Wyman comes with the best of recommendations and the firm is fortunate in securing his services.

C. W. Moore, who has lived in Sherman county for the past 17 years, informs the Grass Valley Journal that he estimates the grain yield of Sherman county for this year at three million bushels.

Work on the Baptist church is progressing slowly on account of lack of carpenters. It is hoped, however, to get a portion of it in a condition to be used during the convention, which convenes here on the 16th.

About fifty of Portland's business men passed through the city on the 9:15 passenger last night on their way to visit the fruit fair at Walla Walla. A stop of twenty minutes was made at Hood River to enable them to view the exhibit at that place.

Mrs. J. C. Forwood, of The Dalles is up enjoying a visit with her mother, Mrs. T. W. Ayers. Mrs. Forwood's health had been very poor, but the brief stay in Heppner's invigorating atmosphere has already benefited her wonderfully.—Times.

E. C. Pease and F. L. Houghton, who returned from Shaniko today noon, inform us that their clerks there are all busy invoicing goods and they now discover more goods were saved from the fire than they anticipated. Business will be resumed by both firms at once, buildings having been procured until they can rebuild.

The local G. A. R. post has issued a call for a meeting of all soldiers who have ever fought for the American flag to meet in Fraternity Hall at 8 o'clock Monday night to give expression to what opinions they may hold on the question of expansion and the policy of the administration in relation to the Philippine Islands. The general public will be welcome.

Upon inquiry concerning the condition of the scarlet fever cases in the family of F. T. Sampson, we learn that Frankie has almost entirely recovered, Miss Florence is much better and about the house, while Miss Clara, who has a more serious case, is getting along fairly well, but being constitutionally weaker will have a more difficult siege than the rest.

Portland has at last struck something which pays better than the time-worn exposition, and will go in for street fairs. The final report of the committee shows that the Elks' lodge netted $6000 on the venture. The total receipts, including subscriptions amounted to $43,777. The indirect benefit to the city cannot be estimated. Nothing of a like character has ever attracted so large a crowd to that city as did the carnival.

Yesterday water was again struck in the artesian well near the reservoir. This is the fourth time water has been struck and at this time under a thick layer of rock, so hard that the ponderous machine, a sharp five-pointed hard steel drill weighing 1500 pounds, and falling a distance of three or four feet, at the rate of about forty times per minute, only went through it a foot in a day, for almost a month; this last water being reached at a depth of 445 feet.

The editor of THE CHRONICLE is paying a visit to our neighboring town of Hood River today and taking in the horticultural exhibit there. The pleasant rivalry which the Glacier man and Mr. Gourlay have kept up for the past few months regarding the merits of the fruit of the two sections, has perhaps awakened an unusual interest in this particular exhibit, although the CHRONICLE man goes down not with any intention of criticising or making comparison, but to share in the pride of the Hood Riverites over the superior quality of fruit which Wasco county can boast. Besides this is his first visit to that section in eight years.

All persons having in their possession mineral samples are requested to participate in the exhibit to be given at the carnival. And will kindly leave them at the office of N. Wheelon on Monday the 8th inst., with the assurance that they will be returned to them after the carnival closes; also bring all cereals samples to Mr. Parr's office not later than Monday noon. By request of Parr and Wheelon, committee on serials and minerals.

Mrs. Langille moved down from Cloud Cap Inn last Saturday, and that famous resort is closed till another season. Tourist travel to the Inn was very light during the season, the Inn not paying expenses. The absence of forest fires during the summer left the atmosphere clear of smoke, and the trip to the mountains was never more desirable. Sept. 22d a severe rain and wind storm raged at the Inn. The wind was terrific and if the building had not been anchored to the mountain with strong cables it must have been blown away. Sept. 23d it snowed and a drift four feet high gathered in the rear of the hotel. Col. Pat. Donnan, the writer of boom articles for the O. R. & N., visited the Inn in August. He said the O. R. & N., would send 5,000 tourists to the mountains next summer and build hotel room for their accommodation, and that before two years an electric railroad will be built from the town of Hood River to Cloud Cap Inn.—Glacier.

Last night a man by the name of William Hendron, was arrested by Nightwatchman Like at the Umatilla House, charged with robbing a man at McMinnville recently during the fair. Description of him had been forwarded to this city, and officers were on the lookout for him, as he was said to be following up the various carnivals and fairs and running bunco games. Hendron is not a stranger in The Dalles, having been employed by Mays & Crowe a few years since and he was recently an employe of S. Walters in Goldendale. Meeting F. Cervling, from the latter place, last evening he endeavored to induce him to introduce him to some comrades who had brought over wheat yesterday, with a view of taking them into a saloon nearby and drugging them. Discovering his little game, Cervling followed him up intending to inform an officer at the first opportunity; but Like was ahead of him and recognizing his man, nabbed him. The sheriff of Yamhill county will arrive on tonight's train and take Hendron to McMinnville tomorrow.

Monday's Daily.

Yesterday morning seven homing pigeons belonging to Sam Wilkinson, of this city, were sent up the road and turned loose at Pendleton. In two hours and a half two of them were back home.

Some contemptible miscreant yesterday afternoon went into the new Wakefield house back of the M. E. church and practically ruined the fresh plaster of the hall and room on the upper floor by scratching and tearing it with a rough stick.

We all know who is queen of the carnival but Rex is a mystery hidden in the brain of the carnival committee. And the worst of it is his majesty's identity promises to remain concealed till Friday night's ball at the Vogt opera house, when he will unmask.

J. M. Davis, a prosperous sheep man, who for a number of years has resided south of the Deschates river, has moved to Dufur. We understand that Mr. Davis has sold his stock and land across the river and intends locating in this vicinity.—Dufur Dispatch.

Dr. P. G. Dant, well known among the people of this city as an optician and refractologist of pronounced ability, is again in The Dalles and will remain among us till the balance of this year. Dr. Dant has secured as offices, rooms 11 and 12, Vogt block, over postoffice.

The Antelope Herald says the management of the Fair Association have completed arrangements with The Dalles brass band, whereby the latter will play at Antelope during the entire race meeting, from the 16th to the 20th. They will also bring with them an orchestra, which will render sweet music at the pavilion during the evenings.

Tomorrow C. J. Stubling & Company will open a new saloon in the building immediately east of the First National Bank. It will be known as the Bank Cafe. The opening of this place in no wise effects the wholesale and retail business of Stubling & Co., which was opened in the Schanno building a few months ago and which will be continued under the personal management of Mr. Stubling.

The local G. A. R. post has issued a call for a meeting of all soldiers who have ever fought for the American flag to meet in Fraternity hall, at 8 o'clock tonight, to give expression to what opinions they may hold on the question of expansion and the policy of the administration in relation to the Philippine Islands. The general public will be welcome, and, after the soldiers have voted, a number of short speeches are expected from prominent local speakers.

The public schools of the city will be closed all day tomorrow in order to give the pupils an opportunity to attend the parade. Friday afternoon they will be again closed for a half holiday to give the children an opportunity to attend the carnival, when they will be admitted to the grounds free of charge on the condition that each class shall be accompanied by its teacher, who shall look for the pupils.

Miss Lang, whose collection of Indian baskets is acknowledged to be the finest in the Northwest, has kindly consented to throw the collection open to the public from Tuesday to Saturday of this week, for an admission fee of 25 cents, the proceeds of Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday to go to the public library and those of Friday and Saturday to St. Paul's Guild. The collection will be found at the Lang residence, corner of Fourth and Liberty streets, and the time for exhibit will be the afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock.

We have a farm of 240 acres, well improved in the famous Kikkitat valley, three miles from Goldendale. Large creek of never-failing pure cold water, fed by springs running through the place; young bearing orchard of 127 fruit trees, forty-three grape vines and fifty blackberries; good six-roomed house; barn 40x62; cellar 12x14; seventy-two acres in fall wheat. Will sell cheap and on easy terms. Hudson & Brownhill.

Colonel John E. Remington, a former respected resident of Thompson's addition and well-known to many residents of this city, died suddenly Sunday morning and was buried today beside the remains of his wife on the ranch of his son-in-law, Mr. Davis, who lives in the neighborhood of Ten Mile. The Colonel was a veteran of the civil war and was quartermaster of the Fourteenth Army Corps when he was brevetted for saving the corps train after the general commanding had given it up. He was an honored member of the local G. A. R. post. His wife died about five years ago. His age was 84 years.

The store of E. J. Collins & Co. was robbed Saturday evening of a lot of gent's clothing by a tramp who entered the store and carried off his booty while no one was watching. Charley Laner arrested him while he was trying to sell some of the stuff to a Japanese. Part of the stolen goods was afterwards found cashed under an East End warehouse. After his arrest an old man, a stranger here, accused the prisoner of stealing from him a new suit of clothes, which the prisoner had perused the old man, while in his cups, to doff in exchange for his old clothes, when the prisoner ran off with them and afterwards sold them at the second-hand store in the East End. He will answer for his crime before Justice Brownhill tomorrow afternoon.

One of the most wonderful things that will appear in the carnival exhibit is a petrified egg, owned by Theodore Prinz, of the firm of Prinz & Nitschke. It was found a few miles south of this city and has been in Mr. Prinz's possession since 1894. It is as perfect in contour as the day it was dropped, and the bird that laid it must have been a whopper for it measures 31 1/2 inches around the longest circumference and weighs 37 pounds avoirdupois. Mr. Prinz, who is a skilled ornithologist, (although, possibly, you'd never suspect him of it) says the bird that laid it lived away back in the permain period of the carboniferous age and has a Latin name so long that it would exhaust the whole English alphabet to put it in cold type. He says the Smithsonian Institute offered him $5000 for it, but he spurned the offer as he did that of a rich brewer who offered him a half interest in his brewery if he would part with it. Mr. Prinz has this wonderful egg resting in a handsome case made to represent a genuine nest and will have it on exhibition in the Prinz & Nitschke booth at the carnival, where it may be seen free of charge.

Tuesday's Daily.

THE CHRONICLE is indebted to the courtesy of the Eastern Oregon District Agricultural Society for a season ticket.

J. M. Davis, of Sherar's Bridge, has purchased the Wingfield ranch, on Eight Mile, and will make it his future home.

Wednesday the ladies of the Catholic society will have on sale at Maier & Benton's store, pies, cakes and all kinds of pastry.

All parties having rooms to rent during the carnival will oblige by reporting the same to Messrs. Butts and Dietzel at carnival headquarters in the Gates building.

Grand Rex ball Friday night at the Vogt opera house. Don't fail to attend, for Rex will then disclose his identity. Grand marched, led by the king and queen, at 10 p. m. sharp.

The American Market has an exhibit of its own in the form of four feet of Tokay grape vine that contains bunches of grapes that aggregate thirty pounds. Four feet of vine with thirty pounds of grapes is hard to beat in any country.

During the carnival the ladies of the Lothern church will serve meals in the Masonic building, corner of Court and Third streets. Dinner from one to 3. Supper from 4 to 7. All the best of home cooking. Meals 25 cents.

The young ladies of the Epworth League will serve coffee, cake and sandwiches during the entire fair week at the Stadelman commission house. They will serve Closset & Devers' Blend coffee, which is claimed to be the best in the world. Coffee cake and sandwiches 10 cents.

The Yakima Herald chronicles the instance of Coffin Bros. of that place, in a deal with an Indian, receiving one of the old bullion issues of the early days of California, when government coin was scarce. These coins were made in the 50s, and many of them did not resemble coins, but were made in bars. The one mentioned bears on the side occupied by the face of liberty the mark

"Kellog 1883," and on the other side "California 20 D." There is a big premium on them.

W. Summers, an old-time resident of The Dalles, and as good a boy as ever broke the world's bread, has bought out J. W. Blakeney's interest in the American Market and will henceforth be found in company with Mr. Carnaby, catering to Dalles folks with the very best in the green grocery line that this market affords.

A Burns editor, who knows all about it, soliloquizes thusly: "Sing a song of penitence, a fellow full of rye, four and twenty serpents dancing in his eye; when his eye was opened he shouted for his life; wasn't he a pretty chump to go before his wife? He had was in the parlor underneath a chair, his boots were in the hallway, his coat was on the stair, his trousers in the kitchen, his collar on the shelf, but he hasn't any notion where he was himself. When the morn was breaking, some one heard him call, his head was in the ice box, which was the best of all."

Dispatches from New York indicate the placing by the Imperial German government in this country of an order for 30,000 cavalry, ambulance and artillery horses, together with a practically unlimited commission for high class officers' chargers. The order is chiefly for the grade of horses that is now deemed best for mounting infantry for rapid transportation from point to point in war. The German emperor has already four representatives in the United States purchasing horses, but additional agents are to be dispatched immediately to assist in getting together the larger number provided satisfactory assurances are forthcoming that so great a lot can be collected within a reasonable time. These horses could be obtained in the four leading western markets in six weeks, if the agents would pay the price.

Reception of the Queen.

Her majesty, Queen Cora (the First, arrived here this morning on the steamer Iralda and was met at the Regulator dock by Hon. R. B. Sinnott, chairman of the carnival committee, who escorted her majesty to a platform near the landing and crowned her queen of the carnival. F. W. Wilson, as representing Mayor Dufur, presented the queen with the keys of the city. The queen then joined the cavalcade, which was headed by T. H. Ward as grand marshal, followed by Queen Cora and her maids of honor, followed by The Dalles brass band, the local militia company, the members of the Grand Army of the Republic, members of Camp 59, Woodmen of the World, then Louis Comini's goat, in appropriate costume, followed by The Dalles fire engine, Columbia, No. 2, East End and South Side hose companies. These were followed by a procession of Warm Spring Indians in native costume, then an innumerable multitude of Dalles school children of the male persuasion, who made the air hideous with cat-calls and all manner of noise. They were followed by two stalwarts bearing a big sign with the legend of Williams & Company, then by two handsome floats representing the lumber, saw mill and building material interests of Joseph T. Peters & Company, Russell & Co., of Portland, followed with a handsome traction engine and separator, which will cut an important figure in the agricultural exhibit. Among the private conveyances that of Harry Mahear, of Eight Mile, deserves special mention. It was decorated with all manner of vegetables and flowers, from pumpkins that would "beat the band" to onions that would scent a province. The procession appropriately closed with an express in which were Judd Fish, the boss hotel man, and Tom Kelly, the author of the famous amber cocktail.

CARNIVAL NOTES.

Everything Rooming at the Grounds—Accommodations Will Not Be Lacking—Other Notes.

Saturday's Daily.

The committee now finds it difficult to provide all with space within the grounds, having more requests than room.

Monday an office will be fitted up just within the entrance to the grounds, where all exhibits will be received and business transacted.

What about the baby show at the fair? Such is the question asked by many mothers, all of whom are anxious that the babies be given a chance at the carnival.

The matrimonial committee has run up against a snag. They are now besieged by a young boy who is desirous of being married at the fair, but will have none other than the queen herself.

Tuesday morning all shopping must be done previous to 9 o'clock, as from that time till 12 all business—the butcher, the baker, the candlestick maker—will be closed till 12, or during the parade.

While our people were particularly happy in their choice of a queen, and could not have made a better selection, no doubt the young lady who has been given the honor already feels that "uneasy lies the head that wears the crown" for in spite of the assistance of her committee, the duties attending the preparation for such a position are arduous. She, however, may rest assured that she has the hearty good will of the entire community, and that she need have no fears that the unjust criticism which was so prevalent in Portland concerning the queen will be thought of in The Dalles, where she is greatly admired.

If any had doubts in their minds when the street fair was projected as to its success and the benefit which would be derived there by, they are fast disappearing as the work progresses and our city is already alive with interest concerning it. Already we are informed that the capacity of the city for accommodating visitors will be taxed; but as many of our people are preparing to open their homes that all may be made comfortable, any inconvenience will be obviated. There is one side of this question, however, which should be considered and a mistake which has caused much unfavorable comment concerning Portland averted. We refer to the undue advantage which is often taken of visitors and the exorbitant prices charged for accommodations. It is the intention of our people to afford a diversion for our visitors from the country and surrounding towns, and to give them as much enjoyment as possible for the least remuneration. It is hoped no deviation will be made from this rule, but that all, whether directly interested in the success of the undertaking or not, will bear it in mind.

Last Night's Concert.

Saturday's Daily.

The visit of Mrs. Klein to our city has furnished music-lovers a treat which has been greatly appreciated. While here she has not only kindly given the attendants at each of our churches an opportunity to enjoy her beautiful voice, but the public in general have had the privilege of listening to two entertainments in which her singing has been the principal attraction. The last one was given last night at the Methodist church, and while not being so largely attended as the merits of the program deserved, there was a good-sized audience present.

The ease with which Mrs. Klein renders the most difficult selections makes the pleasure of hearing her the more pronounced and each number received a hearty encore, which she generously answered with what may be termed the "old songs," but are ever new, and by most of the listeners the more enjoyed from that fact.

The program opened with a piano duet by Prof. Birgfeld and Miss Schmidt, and if there were any in the audience whose tastes are not educated to classic instrumental selections and do not usually appreciate them, last night was an exception, for the rendition was not only faultless but the musicians especially happy in their selection.

The quartet by Mrs. Groat, Misses Michell and Willerton and Prof. Landers and Dr. Eshelman was so well appreciated and pleasing that they were compelled to answer to an encore. Although having been persuaded with difficulty to repeat the duet which has twice before been given by them, Misses Michell and Bonn certainly felt that it was none the less enjoyed from the hearty applause and encore given.

Miss Jenkins, while a stranger here, won for herself many admirers by her rendition of "The Whistling Regiment," and the encore which followed and was of an entirely different character gave proof of her versatility as an elocutionist of merit.

Obituary.

Colonel J. E. Remington, a veteran of the civil war, died in the city of The Dalles, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. D. O. Davis, Oct. 7, 1900. Deceased was born in Troy, N. Y., Sept. 26, 1819. By occupation he was a painter. In 1855 he removed to Dixon, Ill. Entering the Union army in 1861, he served his country faithfully to the close of the war, holding various positions of honorable importance. First, as quartermaster of the 75th Illinois volunteers, next as major, and lastly he was promoted to the rank of lieutenant-colonel by brevet and quartermaster of the 15th army corps, following Gen. W. T. Sherman to close of war.

Colonel Remington came to Oregon in the year 1876, and has resided continuously in this state since that time. He was highly respected by all good people who knew him. A patriot, soldier, and an excellent citizen, his life and influence as a benediction rests upon his descendants and neighbors.

He leaves three generations of children to mourn his loss. His wife died several years since, and his remains were laid to rest by the side of hers in the family cemetery.

Odd Fellows' Visit to Moro.

At 5 p. m. last Saturday the degree team and members of Columbia lodge No. 5, I. O. O. F., accompanied by delegates from lodges at Hood River and Dufur, numbering fifty-eight in all, left The Dalles on a special train for Moro, arriving there at 9 o'clock. They were met at the Moro station by the Moro brass band and a crowd that seemed large enough to comprise the whole town. Headed by the band and Louis Comini's goat, which had been fitly decorated for the occasion with the ensignia of the order, the delegates marched to the lodge room of the Moro brethren, where they found about a hundred Odd Fellows awaiting their coming.

The work of initiating six candidates and conferring upon them all the degrees lasted till midnight, when an elegant banquet was tendered the assembled Odd Fellows by the ladies of the town. While the brethren were refreshing the inner man the band and a select orchestra catered to their musical appetites with a choice selection of music.

The visitors have nothing but words of praise for the right royal reception and entertainment they received at Moro, and, in expressing their gratitude, they desire to give special credit to the ladies. Not an incident marred the pleasure of a visit that will long be remembered with exceeding pleasure.
