LOCAL BRIEVITIES.

Saturday's Daily.

Dr. Sanders, rooms 1 and 2, Chapman block.

Hon. W. H. H. Dufur informs the Dufur Dispatch that the forest ranges on the Cascade reserve will all be called in on the 15th instant.

Too much credit cannot be given to the cereal exhibit which was collected and fitted up by G. T. Parr, of the Eastern Oregon Land Company. In beauty of design there was nothing to exceed it on the carnival grounds.

Among the apple exhibitors at the carnival whose names were not published in the list of last Thursday are C. H. Garrison, C. H. Smith and I. Matney, who brought some very beautiful apples from the upper Mill Creek country.

The Vogt opera house never presented a more brilliant appearance than it did at 10 o'clock last night when the grand Rex hall opened. The big room was handsomely decorated with no end of American flags and bunting, Japanese umbrellas, and Chinese lanterns lighted by electricity. This was the work of Mr. Stringer for which he is entitled to great credit. The attendance at the ball was very large and the floor was crowded till 2 o'clock this morning. The music was excellent—all that might be expected when Mr. Birgfeld is leader. The one disappointment was the non-appearance of Rex owing to a failure of the royal robes to arrive in time.

Three or four farmers were gathered yesterday at Cross' grocery corner and their conversation turned on the issues of the pending campaign. Among them was Mike Stacher, who years ago used to act as nightwatchman at the company's shops before they were removed to Albina. Mike has been a life long democrat and, German that he is, in spite of German opposition to free silver he was loyal to his party four years ago and voted for Bryan. Here is Mike's contribution to the conversation yesterday, as overheard by a bystander: "Well, gentlemen, I have been a democrat all my life and I voted for Bryan four years, but I'll never do it again. Times are good as one could reasonably ask them to be. Money is plenty and interest is lower than it ever was. Four years ago I could not borrow a dollar to save my soul. Now people are actually running after me and others to get us to borrow. I have made up my mind to take no chances on a change and I am going to vote to let well enough alone."

The pigeon cotes of F. J. Bonn and H. F. Zeigler were greatly admired at the fair, and either of the gentlemen was sure of an audience as long as he stood in front of the cotes and explained the character and habits of the birds. Mr. Zeigler, by the way, has some remarkable birds in his collection of homing or carrier pigeons. He has a hen that took the first prize at the world's fair in a race from Chicago to Milwaukee, a distance of 300 miles. This bird has a long distance record of 700 miles. Another bird, "Joe," has a record of 32,800 miles of travel in twenty-seven trips, between England and Belgium. Another, "Blue Boy," won first prize three times in a 500-mile race between a station in Georgia and Trenton, N. J. A blue checkered hen has a record of 450 miles at an average speed of 1500 yards a minute. Another, "Henry Z," made the distance between Seattle and The Dalles in two hours and a half. Another won a 450 mile race between San Francisco and Los Angeles and came home shot in both wings and permanently disabled. And still six others have each a 500-mile record between Bourdeaux, France, and Antwerp, Belgium. One of Mr. Zeigler's birds is 22 years old. He says homing pigeons live for fifty years.

THE CHRONICLE notes the following among the "biggest" things in the carnival horticultural exhibit. The biggest apples were from Hood River. Not that individual samples from other places did not equal individual samples from Hood River, but comparing the varieties all around, Hood River is entitled to the honors. Indeed surprisingly large and beautiful as the carnival apple exhibit, confessedly is the late Hood River exhibit was nearly twice as large and almost correspondingly beautiful. Perhaps the largest and most complete box of apples was that of William Ehrck of Hood River. They are the Hydes King of the West variety. The biggest squash belongs to S. F. Blythe, editor of the Hood River Glacier. It weighs 120 lbs. The biggest cabbage by Harry Mehear. The biggest watermelon by Robert Cooper. The largest Hubbard squash by G. W. Fligg. The biggest carrot by A. P. Vance. The biggest pumpkin by Hans Hansen. The biggest potatoes by Jack Daley of Sherman county. Of these last it may be said that others were as large or nearly so but there is this in favor of Mr. Daley's "Irish Rattlers," they were by odds the handsomest potatoes in the show and they were raised without a drop of irrigation in the driest portion of Sherman county.

Monday's Daily.

Judge Fulton, of Sherman county, was in town today.

E. P. Ash, of the firm of Ash & Black, has been appointed postmaster at Cascade Locks.

While in town Saturday J. B. Havelly, of Boyd, sold 320 sacks of potatoes at fifty cents a sack.

One of Mr. and Mrs. Al Bettingen's children had the misfortune to break its leg today while playing in one of the rooms of the residence.

Sheriff Kelly has collected $19,500 of taxes during the present month. The delinquent tax list will be published in the WEEKLY CHRONICLE Wednesday.

Mr. Smead's splendid exhibit of dried prunes from the Mosier evaporator reminds us that if a reasonable inducement is given to that gentleman, he offers to put in a big drier at this place in time for and sufficient to handle next year's crop.

The Antelope Republican says: "At present cattle of every description are in good demand. Men who raise them here get at the ranch 3½ cents a pound for steers and 3 cents for dry cows. Cows with calves bring $30 to $40, and yearling steers sell at from $20 to $25."

L. Gerlinger, president of the Columbia Valley Railroad Company, informs a correspondent of the Spokesman-Review that maps of location and survey of the Columbia valley line, extending from Wallula down the north side of the Columbia river to tide water, have been accepted by the U. S. land office at Vancouver. Gerlinger refused to say anything concerning the intentions of the company regarding commencement of construction, but it is generally believed that the company is getting ready to commence work in the near future. Surveying parties have recently been over the line in the vicinity of Vancouver, setting grade stakes, and are now understood to be proceeding eastward. The greater portion of the right of way of the line between Vancouver and Wallula has been purchased. The general understanding in the former city is that the Northern Pacific Railroad Company is behind the enterprise.

Dr. D. Siddall returned yesterday from Cape Nome, whither he went last May. He looks rugged and hearty and enjoyed the best of health all the time of his absence. He acquired several claims that are valuable property were it not for the middle over the title. A New York syndicate, by some infamous species of graft, claims title to the best of the beach claims, and by some kind of jugglery with the courts has succeeded in compelling miners who use machinery to suspend operations till the courts have settled the question of title. By that time most of the miners holding disputed claims will have become discouraged and left the syndicate in undisputed possession. The syndicate's method of operation is to file counter claims on any claim that shows gold in paying quantities. The miner is ordered to suspend operations and on refusal is arrested or driven off by the soldiery. In spite of these discouragements the doctor was fortunate enough to hold his own, but that is all. He will probably return next spring if he cannot dispose of his claims and machinery meanwhile to advantage.

General Clark E. Carr, of Illinois, ex-minister to Denmark, will speak at the Vogt opera house next Wednesday night in the interest of McKinley and prosperity. This will be the first republican speech of the campaign in Wasco county and the citizens of The Dalles are to be complimented that one of the most brilliant campaign orators in the United States has been sent here. General Carr spoke in San Francisco last Friday night, and in his speech, a synopsis of which appears in Saturday's San Francisco Chronicle, is any indication of what we may expect here, we can assure our readers that The Dalles people who fail to hear General Carr will miss a great treat. The county executive committee, having accidentally heard that Hon. E. L. Smith, of Hood River, had made the acquaintance of General Carr when he was doing his first campaign work back in Illinois and Mr. Smith was attending college, have requested Mr. Smith to act as chairman of Wednesday night's meeting and that gentleman has telephoned his consent.

Tuesday's Daily.

A marriage license was issued yesterday to J. E. Ramus and Annie Hutson, both of Boyd.

The O. R. & N. Co. have entered suit against W. T. McClure for the condemnation of land for right of way through the McClure premises near Mosier.

Yesterday afternoon Dr. Eshelman, assisted by Miss Taliaferro, performed an operation upon Miss Gertie Egbert of this city. The patient is doing well this morning.

The lumber used to fence the carnival grounds and for the construction of the booth of the executive committee was sold to A. R. Thompson last night at $4.50 a thousand.

The quarantine for scarlet fever has been raised from the residence of C. W. Dietzel, and after a siege of two weeks Mr. Dietzel appeared on the streets for the first time today.

We regret to learn that L. J. Dayenport had his left arm fractured in a runaway last Friday, besides sustaining painful bruises about the head. He is under the care of Dr. Watts, of Hood River.

The work of laying the new water main across Mill creek to "McGinty avenue" is finished and another connecting main is being laid on Washington street between Fifth street and the alley south of Fifth.

Dr. Leavens, of Cascade Locks, has retired from business and sold out his stock in trade to Ash & Black of that place. The doctor deserves the rest that should follow a long and honorable business career.

The opening services of the Oregon Baptist State Convention will be held at the Calvary Baptist church tonight at 7:30 o'clock. Rev. Ray Palmer, of Portland, will preach. About sixty delegates will arrive on the Regulator this evening.

Sunday night some parties, apparently out of wanton mischief, broke open the large doors of the side entrance of the Vogt opera house, using force sufficient to smash the heavy iron hinges. Some glass was smashed in another part of the building but nothing is known to have been carried off.

Foley Bros. & Larsen are using on the

O. R. & N. improvements near Mosier a eighty-horse power donkey engine and an endless cable invention of Pat Welch in the work of handling dirt for the grading. The invention handles five cars, and has proved a great saver of time and labor.

A. M. Stringer, who is a partner in the distillery soon to be started at the Mission gardens, says the company has a quantity of prunes now in the mash and the work of distilling will commence within the next ten days.

Real estate men claim that there is a great demand for residence property in this city, a demand far exceeding the supply. And this is in spite of the fact that a considerable number of houses were built during the summer and a considerable number is in course of erection now. There is a real lack of houses that rent at from $15 to $25.

Report has it that Curg Cates has struck it rich down at the locks. Besides a profitable drug business at the locks he acquired timber lands in the neighborhood of Stevenson that he lately refused an offer of $12,000 for, believing that he can get more out of the lands by holding on to them and selling the timber. He contracted with Morse Brothers to get out logs and has 250,000 feet at this time in the Columbia river.

Rumor has it that the O. R. & N. Co. have in contemplation the straightening of the road bed between here and Crate's Point, so as to do away with the big curve near the Anderson place. The change contemplates the track running through the company's yards and making as straight a line as possible for the Point. It is said the work will commence next spring, or as soon as the improvements now in progress near Mosier are completed.

General Clark E. Carr, who speaks here tomorrow night, addressed an immense audience at Ashland last night. A dispatch to the Oregonian says the general's hearers were more than delighted with his shrewd and homely wit and his telling points in support of McKinley and prosperity rule. He covered most of the important questions of the campaign, including militarism and imperialism as advanced by the Bryan party; discussed in a practical style the subjects of trusts and closed his address with a tribute to the possibilities opened up to the Pacific states by the latest expansion of the United States.

Today's Oregonian says that negotiations for an amicable adjustment of the affairs of the Central Navigation & Construction Company have failed, and Paul F. Mohr's transportation enterprise is again embarrassed. The construction company has failed to perform its contract with the parent corporation. Mr. Mohr says he expects to refinance the construction company in five or six weeks—after the election shall be settled—and then all will move forward serenely again. The trouble comes, he says, from the fact that the company had not sufficient capital to carry through the work it undertook. Its authorized capital was only $250,000. Mr. Mohr proposes to file supplementary articles increasing this capitalization to about $450,000, which, he says, will be ample for all the purposes in view.

THE CARNIVAL AT AN END.
It Has Proved the Most Successful Enterprise of the Kind The Dalles Ever Engaged In.

Monday's Daily.

The fair is over, the booths are deserted, the big crowds have gone their way, and in a few hours nothing will remain of The Dalles Harvest Carnival and Street Fair but a memory. But it is a memory of one of the most successful enterprises of the kind The Dalles has ever had anything to do with. And best of all, our visitors carried away with them the kindest recollections of a day they were treated by their hosts of The Dalles. It is to the credit of the hotels and restaurants that no case has been reported where more than ordinary rates were asked or demanded for meals or sleeping accommodation, and big as the crowd was part of the time, there were ample accommodations for all.

It was a subject of common remark that more orderly crowds of people were never seen. There was no rowdiness, no disorder, no drunken brawls. The visitors had plenty of money, which they spent royally and good naturedly. Most of the business houses did a rushing trade, and all did well.

The fair closed Saturday night in a blaze of glory. At 8 o'clock, the hour when Rex was expected to appear, the grounds from the Washington entrance to Federal street were packed like sardines. It was nearly 9 when Rex entered the grounds, heralded by an imported Chinese band. If Rex—who was none other than Mr. Strainer, dressed in a horridly fantastic garb, with a mask with eyes that blinked fearfully and were as large as an ordinary apple—ever revealed himself, it was later on in the night.

The wedding followed at a little after 9. The bridegroom, Mr. Shirley Parker, and bride, Miss Laura D. White, a handsome and modest young couple from Wapinitia, were admitted at a side entrance and escorted by A. E. Lake, S. Bolton and a number of young ladies to the band stand, where the marriage ceremony was promptly performed by Rev. U. F. Hawk. After the congratulations of the minister and those immediately present, Mr. Hawk introduced Mr. and Mrs. Parker to the assembled thousands, who responded with hearty cheers.

The following is the list of the wedding presents and their donors. Maier & Benton, heating stove; A. M. Williams & Co., one pair of blankets and two pillows; Prinz & Nitschke, hardwood dining table; Pease & Mays, mattress, bedding, etc.; H. Herbring, bed spread; L. Rorden & Co., toilet set; W. A. Johnston, lamp; Mays & Crowe, cook stove; Jos T. Peters, copper wash boiler; Great Northern Furniture Co., rocker and one chair; Diamond Rolling Mills, barrel of flour, sack of whole wheat, sack of germ meal, sack of Graham; New York Cash Store, one comfort; Umatilla House, set of tinware; J. M. Toomey, Columbia Hotel, carving set and knives and forks; J. Bour, of the Midway, a bed room set; J. E. Adcox & Co., an alarm clock; editor CHRONICLE, a year's subscription to the paper.

The following citizens contributed $1 each, $15 in all, towards a present of dishes: A. Buchler, Ben Wilson, Dan Baker, Obarr Hotel, Wm. Marders, Jacobsen Book & Music Co, Clarke & Falk, I. C. Nickelsen, G. C. Blakeley, M. Z. Donnell, Charley Frank, Johnansen, F. Lemke, Nelson & Keyes, Chas. Michelbach; James Falt & Co.

THE FOOTBALL GAME.

Heppner Carried Off the Honors in a Hotly-Contested Game.

When the Dalles team lined up against the Heppner team last Saturday afternoon the general expectation was that the visiting team would sit through the home team's line at will, and go off the field with a score of at least 20 to 0 in their favor. After five minutes of play it was very apparent to everyone that the game was to be close and very fiercely contested.

Heppner got the kick-off and the ball was run in by Mays. A guards' back play was tried; the ball fumbled, and within ten minutes after play commenced Heppner sent right half Natter around the right end for a touch-down, from which Spaulding kicked a pretty goal, making the score 6-0 in Heppner's favor. The ball was kept in Heppner's territory during the remainder of the half, and time was called with the ball on their ten-yard line.

In the second half the ball was carried up and down the field, neither goal being in danger, until within a few minutes of the call of time. Natter was sent around the end for a gain of forty yards, being the prettiest run of the day. The next down Heppner fumbled and The Dalles got the ball, probably preventing another touch-down. Time was called with the ball on The Dalles' twenty-yard line.

The boys of the visiting team played a good, clean and gentlemanly game, their playing at all times being very conspicuous on account of the absence of any attempt at fouling or bruising. The best playing on the visiting team was done by Capt. Clark, Spaulding, Young and Natter.

The Dalles team was an impromptu organization, captained by Max J. Bartell, of Manila, P. I., and played like fury, the distinguishing features being the defensive work by Fisher, Mays and Ward and the line bucking of Cooper. The three center men played a good steady game, especially Brown, whose passing was always sure. Both teams showed a decided lack of organized team work.

The line up was as follows:

HEPPNER	THE DALLES
Beal	r. g. T. Smiley
Cowan	l. g. E. Smiley
Anderson	r. t. Zirka
Matlock	l. t. Hagan
Bisbee	r. e. Groebler
Ball	l. e. Ward
Spaulding	q. b. Capt. Bartell
Natter	r. h. Cooper
Capt. Clark	l. h. Mays
Young	full. Fisher
Saling	c. Brown

Officials: Umpire Emerson and Referee Seymour gave general satisfaction.

We have been instructed to sell that elegant little home, consisting of nicely finished house of six rooms, bath room, closets, barn and wood-shed, fine lawn, surrounded by beautiful shade trees, good lot 50x100 in a very desirable residence district. This property will be sold on very reasonable terms; in fact we will sell on monthly installments little larger than actual rent. For further particulars call on or address Hudson & Brownhill, The Dalles, Or.

Stray Notice.

Came to my place about a month ago a red mooley cow, with white hind feet, branded on left hip with three lines meeting at a point, under-crop off right ear. Owner can have her by paying charges. PETER GODFREY, The Dalles.
