Rainor has it that Dr. Ray Logan is thinking of leaving Shaniko and locating in Moro.

Wheat has dropped three cents during the past three days and now stands at 47 cents for No. 1.

Charlie Denton brought to town this morning, from his Mill creek ranch, twelve boxes of big ripe strawberries, that were every way as fine looking as the ordinary run of the June crop.

Mr. E. W. Lewis and Miss Florence Davidson were united in marriage at 9 o'clock last evening, October 16th, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Meins, this city, Rev. D. V. Poling officiating.

A complaint was filed in the county clerk's office yesterday, by Attorney John Leland Henderson, of Hood River, in an action for divorce instituted by Edward J. Jukes and Nellie Millicent Jukes.

At the first annual session of the Inland Empire Clinical Society, held in Spokane last Thursday night, President James Sutherland, formerly of this city, made the statement in his address as retiring president that Spokane alone had thirty men and women, styling themselves doctors, who have neither a legal nor a moral right to practice medicine or surgery in any form.

The sheriff asks us to say that notwithstanding the utmost care on his part and on that of the clerks who made out the delinquent tax list, it is possible that errors may have crept into the published delinquent tax list and that some names may be on the list that ought not to be. If any errors of this kind are detected he requests the parties interested to give him notice and the error will be promptly corrected.

Colonel H. E. Dorch, secretary of the State Board of Horticulture, says Oregon apples are likely to bring as good prices as Oregon hops, prunes and other products are already doing. Late reports from the East show that there is a partial crop failure in the principal apple belts, which will prove a surprise to Oregonians, who have been led to believe by previous reports that the crop all over the United States was greatly in excess of the average.

From last night's Telegram we learn that the boat Klickitat, belonging to the Paul Mohr Company, was sold by the sheriff of Multnomah county yesterday to James Glason, who represented a number of creditors, for $6,500. The labor liens against the boat amount to something like $4,800, and there are other attachments which amount to over $20,000, and total claims of all kinds amounting to $25,654.92.

Thursday's Daily.

After all, the republicans of The Dalles never had a political speaker inflicted on them quite so bad as Cyclone Davis.

William L. Wilson, author of the "free trade" Wilson bill, died suddenly at 10 o'clock yesterday, Oct. 17th, in Lexington, Ky.

Captain Blowers sends word from Hood River that everybody down that way is going to vote for McKinley except Bent Rand and even Bent is doubtful.

The editor of the Shaniko Leader says that everybody he has seen speaks in the highest terms of The Dalles carnival and says it was far beyond his or her expectation.

The appointment of Hon. C. W. Fulton, of Astoria, to speak at Antelope on the 23d has been canceled and the Republican announces that Hon. C. B. Moores, of Oregon City, will speak there Nov. 3d.

Of the 235 street-car men who will vote in Portland next month, sixty per cent are for McKinley, five per cent for Bryan, five per cent for Woolley and thirty per cent are non-committal, according to a poll of eighty-eight of them make by an Oregonian reporter yesterday afternoon. Six were encountered who did not expect to vote on account of lack of registration.

This morning Hudson & Brownhill closed a deal with Mr. McDonald, of Sherman county, for the sale of the Teague residence on Alford avenue. The price of the house and lot is $1000. Mr. McDonald will move his family here in the near future.

Captain W. W. Harts, United States engineer, reports the completion of the survey for the proposed government canal between The Dalles and Celilo. The length of the proposed canal is thirteen miles. The work of survey has been in progress nearly three months.

Rex Harvey was arrested here Tuesday night by Nightwatchman Alesky, charged with larceny of a watch and chain from Clyde Beach, of Portland, in July last. It is alleged that while riding on a Portland street car Harvey extracted the watch from his friend's pocket. Harvey was taken to Portland yesterday afternoon by a Portland detective.

The ladies of St. Paul's Guild announce a very pleasing entertainment for the pleasure-seeking people of The Dalles. Next week Miss Margaret Jenkins, the talented young elocutionist of Portland, will give a complimentary benefit to the church building fund. Miss Jenkins has already gained favor with a Dalles audience and proved herself an artist of merit.

If you have city or country property to sell why don't you list it with Hudson & Brownhill? They are the only up-to-date real estate agents in the city. They sold a fine residence property today. They also sold a farm in Klickitat county, Wash., which is evidence that they do not confine their operations to this vicinity. They have a large list of property and are not afraid to advertise it.

The Dalles Distilling Company, A. M. Stringer and T. S. Kennerly proprietors, filed their bonds of $10,000 yesterday. They have 48,000 gallons of prunes in mash. The still and twenty-two mash tubs arrived here yesterday and were unloaded from the cars today. The distillery building is nearly inclosed, and operations will commence as soon as formalities of the revenue office will permit.

Superintendent S. B. Ormsby, of the Cascade forest reserve, has announced that forty-five of the forest rangers, employed on the reserve, have been mustered out for the season. Five men were still left on duty and would remain at work until November 1st. The men retained are stationed at the following places: One each at the Summit house on the Barlow road; at the Breitenbush hot springs; at Sisters, on the east side, at the Bohemia mines and at Pelican bay.

A more than average crazy anti-imperialist says it is the republican program to form five state constitutions in the Philippines, and with ten Malays in the senate and fifty in the house control congress in the interest of the "great syndicate who had furnished the money to produce such results." It will be seen, then, that the republicans are not going to enslave the Filipinos after all, but are going to boost them, at once into the senate and house. It is suggested that unless this anti-imperialism plague recedes very soon we shall have to enlarge our insane asylums.—Salem Statesman.

The fair at Antelope opened Tuesday with a large crowd of people in attendance from all parts of the country, says the Shaniko Leader. The number of horses in training far exceeds those at any prior meeting. The pavilion is filling up rapidly, and there is a creditable display. Quite a number of different kinds of stock are on the grounds, with more coming. From the indications at the opening, the fair and all its exhibits, as well as the attendance, will far exceed any previous meeting. The weather is all that the most ardent could ask for. Friday and Saturday will probably be the banner days, and we advise all our readers that can possibly do so to attend.

Through third parties, says the New York Commercial of October 12th, Mayor James K. McGuire and Frederick Gibbs have bet $500 on the proposition of a republican majority of 100,000 in the state above the Bronx. The former bet against such a result and the latter that it would eventuate. Mr. Gibbs says there is plenty more money to be had on the same terms. Offers of four to one on McKinley went begging on the stock exchange yesterday, and Edward Wasserman offered $3000 to $1000 that Illinois would go republican. Other republican offers were: Fifty to 20 on California, 100 to 70 on Maryland and even money on Kentucky.

The remains of Mrs. Sauer, of Hood River, on which Coroner Butte held an inquest last week and which were stolen from the morgue at Hood River by the brother and son of the deceased, were not buried at last accounts, that is to say not buried to hurt, notwithstanding the promise of the dead woman's brother to the coroner. It has been found that a little trench was dug near the cabin of the deceased, just deep enough so that the coffin was not above ground, and over the coffin was placed a lot of brush. As the coroner judges it to be the intention of the woman's brother to move from Hood River in the near future and take the corpse along, the authorities will not interfere further in the matter.

The first shipment of mahogany from the Philippines to the United States has been received by a New York piano manufacturer, who has christened it "Luzon wood" and made it into a piano case, which he will sell at an exceedingly high price. The wood is simply a fine piece of mahogany, and is held to have an unusual value simply on account of its advertising qualities. The belief of eastern newspapers that the woods of the Philippines will not have an extensive sale in this country on account of the high cost of shipping seems to be subject to contradiction as it is a well known fact that the wood in its log form can be laid down on the Pacific coast at a shipping expense of only $20 per 1000 feet. It will not be long until its use will not be uncommon.

The boat Klickitat, that was sold the other day in Portland for $6,500 to satisfy a number of claims for labor against the Paul Mohr portage road, has been purchased by the O. R. & N. Co.

County Superintendent C. L. Gilbert returned today from visiting the school at Five Mile, Eight Mile, Enderbury, Fairfield, Dufur, Kingsley, Tygh, Wapinitia, Victor, Wanic and Smoek. Next week he will visit those in the eastern and northeastern part of the county.

Sheriff Kelly this afternoon turned over to County Treasurer Hampshire the sum of $20,011.97, the amount of taxes collected during sixteen days of the present month. Of this sum $3,306.38 belongs to the public schools of the county, $2,605.10 to The Dalles public schools and $1,673.98 to Dalles City.

One thousand boxes of apples and a shipment of prunes will leave on the next steamer for the orient, says the Telegram. This, together with the partial apple crop failure in the East, will serve to stiffen the local market for apples, which is already quite firm. Apples now bring from 75 cents to $1.25 per box in the Portland market.

The Dalles street fair and carnival was a complete success in every way and does great credit to the enterprising citizens having the matter in charge. The splendid fruit exhibit alone was well worth the time and money it took to make the trip to see it. It was a splendid advertisement of the rich resources of the country immediately tributary to the Gateway city and is greatly appreciated by the good citizens of that territory.—Wasco News.

The fair and carnival held last week at The Dalles was the greatest advertising medium that place has ever had, as everyone we heard speaking of it seemed to be more than pleased. One thing we noticed—and this cannot be said of some other places—the hotels and restaurants did not raise their usual prices, nor could we detect any difference in the stores. Some places take advantage at these times and think because there are a great many people in town they can charge what they want to.—Skamania County Pioneer.

Ex-Sheriff George C. Sears, of Portland, filed suit against Sheriff William Frazier to recover $18,000, being the amount of salary of the sheriff from July 2, 1896, to July 2, 1900. The basis of the action is that Mr. Frazier was not a citizen when he was elected sheriff in June, 1895, and had no legal capacity to receive the votes cast for him, and that he, Sears, was wrongfully ousted from the office, and is entitled to all of the compensation since. Mr. Frazier came to the United States with his parents when he was 7 years old, and to Oregon when he was 14 years of age.

Prof. I. S. Davis, of The Dalles, a professor collector of fossils, and V. C. Osmond, Berkeley, a graduate of the University of California, were in the city Sunday and paid the Grant County News office a pleasant call, says that paper. These gentlemen left California five months ago with Prof. Merriam's party and have been studying the geology of this county and collecting fossils, most of their work being done in the vicinity of Monument. Messrs. Davis and Osmond did not return with the party, but are still engaged in gathering fossils for the University of Munich and the University of California. They have now gone down the river in the vicinity of Dayville, where they will be engaged for about a month, and then return home by the way of The Dalles.

The editor of the Condon Globe says "The Dalles carnival and street fair, held last week, was quite successful. The writer had the pleasure of visiting the fair on Friday and is constrained to say that the display of fruits, etc., was the finest he ever saw in any country. Hood river and Mill creek valleys fill themselves proud, and Wasco county and The Dalles have nothing to be ashamed of so far as the fair is concerned. A 125-pound pumpkin was one of Hood River's attractions, and all Missourians and other eastern pilgrims lifted their hats reverently when they stopped to admire it. The Midway was the same old Midway, but it seemed to catch the dimes just the same as of yore. The Dalles people are royal entertainers, and visitors to the carnival were given the best the city afforded.

The case of J. Harvey Smith, of Grass Valley, affords another striking instance of the value of the waters of the hot springs near Collins' Landing as a cure for rheumatism. Mr. Smith called at this office two weeks ago. He was on crutches, with limbs stiffened and inflexible from rheumatism that he contracted years ago when camping out in all kinds of weather with his sheep. From here he went to St. Martin's Springs, where he took daily baths in its waters till last night when he came here on the Regulator. He left his crutches at the springs, and when asked how he felt he answered by kicking his right foot nearly as high as his head. After a short trip to Portland Mr. Smith will spend another week at the springs, when he expects to be as free from rheumatism as he was when a child.

A bright little farce comedy, "A Wise Guy," opened a week's engagement last evening at the Third Avenue. A packed house greeted the company. Every seat was filled before the curtain rose, and the full allowance of standing room was also taken. "A Wise Guy," while not remarkable for depth of plot, has a thread of a story sufficient to sustain a large number of excellent specialties and to serve as the vehicles for a large number of jokes, which have more than the usual flavor of youth. The part of Spike Hennessy, the wise guy, was ably played by William Sellery, who interpreted the part in a way that was a delight to persons who have had an opportunity of seeing in real life the character he represented. In the West the type of Spike Hennessy is unknown, but in eastern cities he is a familiar figure, and the presentation last evening was true to the smallest detail. Hennessy has the merit of being a new character, and he made an instantaneous hit. The specialties are, without exception, good, and taken throughout the play is very good of its class.—Seattle Post-Intelligencer. At the Vogt Monday, Oct. 29th.

STAND BY THE OLD FLAG.

Nine-Tenths of the "Grizzled Veterans" Will Support Comrade McKinley.

HOOD RIVER, Oct. 18, 1900.

EDITOR CHRONICLE: The old soldiers here have not as yet called a meeting for an expression of sentiment as to how they stand on the question now; but I will say for nine-tenths of them they will stand by the old flag and their old comrade, William McKinley.

Abraham Lincoln taught the American people some lessons that they have not forgotten, and we who lived in his time and knew him best are not deceived by the catch phrases and garbled extracts from his speeches, with which the Demo-Pop. leaders are trying to deceive the people today. They quote Lincoln hoping to catch republican votes; but it will not win. The younger generation read history, and we old soldiers, who helped to make it, remember too well that the same party raised the same cry and abused Abraham Lincoln in 1864 just as they are doing now. Baboon, monkey, tyrant, usurper, murderer, were common expressions in their public utterances when speaking of Lincoln during the campaign of 1864, and it is the same party, led by many of the same men today, who are repeating a great many of their old sayings and applying them to McKinley, who leads the same old party with the same old principles that Lincoln gave his life for.

Again I say they can't fool the old soldier. We do not consider it a matter of politics now since we see that Bryan is attempting to array one class against another; but we know what it means and feel that every patriotic citizen should vote against the Nebraskan, regardless of politics, to save our country from anarchy, which is sure to come if Bryan is elected and carries out what he is daily talking of. Stand by the old flag, boys, and vote for McKinley. A. S. BLOWERS.

RIPPED UP THE BACK.

A "Grizzled Veteran" Reads Our Contemporary a Lesson on His Fraternal Use of Truth.

NOTICE CHRONICLES:

Sir:—The Mountaineer man seems to be greatly troubled about the soldiers' meeting held here on the 8th. His final growl in the issue of the 13th stamps him as a worthy partner of Bryan & Co., who have a monopoly in the line of pro-variation and downright falsehood. He wants a list of the old and young soldiers attending that meeting. He wants to count them. The call for the meeting was published, I think, three or four times in THE CHRONICLE. The public were invited to attend as spectators merely. Why did not the gentleman attend? He is a newspaper man and would have been welcome. We do not use any dark lanterns and are not keeping in the shadows. If our light is worth anything we want everyone to see it.

I think, Mr. Editor, your report said about thirty soldiers took part in the meeting. To the best of my belief there was just about that number there; not any less nor few over.

The assertion of the editor of the Mountaineer that the resolutions unanimously passed by that meeting were made up by outside parties is ridiculously absurd. Had the Mountaineer editor lived a few thousand years ago, he might have died suddenly of failure to tell the truth, or possibly been turned into a table relish commonly used to preserve fresh and green articles.

He calls us "grizzled veterans." We are getting gray, but will not be dead for a time yet. There are a few of us above the ground, and after the election in November the Mountaineer will not be large enough to publish a list of old soldiers in Wasco and Sherman counties voting for McKinley, and its editor will need a microscope to see the name of those who vote for the wind bag of the Platte.

ONE OF THE "GRIZZLED VETERANS."

Paul Mohr Gives Up.

The Telegram says Paul Mohr has told his creditors, or rather the creditors of the portage road at the dalles, that he cannot raise the money he had expected to find. It will be remembered at a recent meeting of the creditors Mr. Mohr was present and promised to raise $200,000 in ninety days' time in which to pay off the obligations of the road, if the creditors would allow him that margin. The majority of the creditors agreed to give him time.

Now, however, he admits that he will not be able to raise the amount, and has frankly admitted as much to the creditors. The steamer Klickitat, which is in a partly finished condition, was sold in Portland yesterday to satisfy some of the debts which have been piling up against the company since it ran short of funds.

In view of the present entanglements, the future of the road looks very dark. The Klickitat did not bring one-third enough to satisfy the claims. The company has two more steamers, against which liens have been filed, and it now looks as though the property of the company will go in piecemeal to satisfy the claims of these creditors. The amount of debts is not known definitely, but to judge from suits already filed, will aggregate $80,000.

Say! Read the account of the Jeffersonian dinner at "812 a plate, exclusive of the wines," that Candidate Bryan ate at the Hoffman House, New York, yesterday evening, seated between Dick Crocker, the boss of the most corrupt political institution on the footstool of the Almighty, and Mayor Van Wyck, a leading stockholder in the New York Ice trust. You will find it in another column. If it doesn't convince you that Bryan is the friend of the pure and meek and lowly you wouldn't be convinced if Jefferson should rise from the dead and tell you so.

Baptist Ministers' Conference.

The Oregon Baptist Ministerial Conference, composed of the Baptist ministers of Oregon, met at Calvary Baptist church, in this city, Tuesday night at 7:30 o'clock. After devotional exercises, conducted by Rev. N. S. Holcroft, of Montavilla, the introductory sermon was preached by Rev. Ray Palmer, of Portland. It was an eloquent discussion of the "Great Commission," listened to with close attention by the large audience for one hour and twenty minutes. Committees on nominations and on enrollment were appointed by the president.

This morning, after breakfast in the basement of the new building, the conference convened at 9:30. Devotional exercises led by Rev. S. A. Douglass, of Roseburg.

The regular program was then taken up. First topic: "Exegetical Study of the Great Commission," by Rev. A. J. Sturtevant, of Albany. The address was carefully prepared, well delivered, and held the attention of the audience.

The speaker characterized the commission as being first, world-wide; second, age-long; third, perpetual. General discussion followed, led by Rev. A. J. Hunsaker, in which a number participated. A difference of opinion was introduced concerning the question of miracles, whether or not they were discontinued with the apostolic age.

Rev. U. F. Hawk, of The Dalles Methodist church, was introduced to the conference by Pastor Clifton.

Rev. A. Blackburn, D. D., C. A. Woody, D. D., and James Edmunds, all of Portland, came in on the noon train.
