ROASTED TO A TURN. In Bryan's Own Town Hanna Brands Him as a Slanderer and Hurts Deference in His Teeth.

"A man who knowingly or unknowingly will circulate slanders about another man is not fit to be a constable," said Senator Hanna in his speech at the Oliver House in Lincoln last night, in referring to Bryan.

When Senator Hanna was introduced, he was received with a roar of applause. Senator Hanna spoke at some length, taking up the silver and anti-imperialism issues, and finally referred to the charges, which, he said, had recently been made by Mr. Bryan that the republican campaign manager had entered upon extensive bribery in order to secure the election of the republican ticket.

"In regard to that statement," Senator Hanna said, "before an audience in Lincoln I want to hurl it back in his teeth and tell him it is as false as hell. When it comes down to personalities, I am willing to stand before the American people on my record as a business man, and let him stand on his. I have been in business forty years; I am employing 6000 men, pay the highest wages, treat them like men, and they all respect me, and when Mr. Bryan, or any other man, charges me—and I am willing to appropriate it all, as I am chairman of the board of managers of this republican campaign—with any such methods as those, I propose, as I said, to hurl it back and denounce him as a demagogue in his own town."

Senator Hanna then referred to Mr. Bryan's alleged reference to him as a "labor crusher," made first during his senatorial campaign in 1897, and continued: "I want to remind every man that a man who will ring an honorable name into the mire for the sake of making votes is not worthy to be considered for the high office of the president of the United States. And I believe that there are thousands of people in the state of Nebraska who resent it as an insult to their intelligence and their ideas of fair play and justice; because, when a man has an opportunity through newspapers or through the public rostrum to make charges too trifling to be denied and those charges go undenied and enter into the minds of the people whom the man so charged has no opportunity to convince, any man who will use these tactics to further his own selfish ambition, is not fit to be constable."

BRYANISM IN THE PHILIPPINES.

A Soldier There Says the Bryan Platform Will Cost the Lives of 1000 American Soldiers.

During a speech delivered by Governor Roosevelt at Baltimore, Md., last Saturday the governor read the following letter from Captain Claude E. Sawyer, now serving in the Philippines, to Senator John T. McClarin. The letter is dated Luzon, August 13, 1900, and was published in the Columbia, S. C., Daily Record. Captain Sawyer wrote:

"I have just seen a Filipino paper printed in Spanish and published in Manila, containing the democratic platform and some cablegrams from London, giving some utterances of Mr. Bryan, which indicate to me that the American people are going crazy. I notice in the democratic platform that they make three pledges in reference to the Philippines. First, to give them 'a stable government;' second, to 'give them independence;' and third, to 'protect them against all foreign powers.' Can this be correct? Is this possible? What have all these good men like Lawton died for? What have we all suffered for? Did we give Spain $20,000,000 for these islands to turn around and present them to the treacherous Aguinaldo, who sold out his people and then refused to stand by his bargain? Do you know that the democratic platform will cost at least 1000 lives of American soldiers here? A leader said yesterday that they were fighting to hold out until Bryan is elected, and then all will be well with them. Every speech he makes is cabled over here, translated and sent broadcast."

Archbishop Ireland's Vote. New York, Oct. 20.—Archbishop Ireland today gave out the following personal statement as to his attitude in the political campaign:

"It cannot at first sight seem more or less impertinent for any citizen to tell the public how he intends to vote. In voting, each citizen obeys the dictates of his own sense of civil duty; he should simply do this and leave the others to do likewise. However, since a certain number of newspapers have undertaken to say how I intend to vote, and in so doing have misinterpreted my intention, and have not been unwilling to make political capital out of my supposed vote, I will give to the question—how I intend to vote—a categorical and unmistakable reply. I intend to vote for William McKinley and Theodore Roosevelt. In giving my vote for the candidates of the republican party I am satisfied, in my own conscience, that I serve the best interests of the country at home and abroad; that I contribute to the maintenance of the country's material prosperity and of peace and good-will between the several classes of its population; that I aid the country in bringing about the safest and most honorable solutions of the complex problems which confront it as the result of the late war, and in retaining for itself the exalted position which it holds at present, commercially and diplomatically, before other nations of the world."

The Nation's Peril. PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 20.—Commemoration day exercises of the 154th year of the founding of Princeton University were held in Alexander Hall today before a very large audience.

Bishop Satterlee delivered an address on the "Ethics of American Civilization," in which he denied that the government had developed imperialistic tendencies.

"The Nation," he said, has less greed for territory today than when Jefferson bought Louisiana or Monroe Florida or Seward Alaska, and far less than when the annexation of Texas brought on the Mexican war. We had no thought whatever of territorial aggrandizement when we went to war with Spain, and now before we had time to realize the full meaning of passing events, certain islands, as the result of that war, have become de-facto, an actual part of us. We cannot go back if we would from these new responsibilities which have been thrust upon us.

"The greatest danger of all is the peril of an arrested development. Whatever has life must grow, or it must decay. If, on the other hand there is danger of departing from the original ideal of civilization, on the other hand, there is equal imminent danger of becoming short-sighted in our views of our country's future, or failing to read the signs of the times and to realize the historic situation as it stands today."

Sherman is Dying. WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—The condition of ex-Secretary Sherman showed a decided change for the worse today, and it is not believed he will survive the night. Last night was a very bad one for him, and he failed to recover any of his strength during the early hours of the morning, which was characteristic of the period of the critical stage of his sickness. His naturally extremely enfeebled condition refuses to yield to treatment, and he is sinking gradually. However, he shows extraordinary vitality for a man of his age, and because of this it is possible he may live through the night, though early in the evening his physician thought this hardly likely. Dr. W. Johnston came to the home early in the evening and is constantly in attendance to relieve the needs of the dying man. A number of relatives gathered at the house on K street, opposite Franklin Square, during the evening, some of the more intimate of whom remained at the bedside of the distinguished patient.

Republicans to Have a Dollar Dinner. CHICAGO, Oct. 19.—Arrangements have nearly been perfected by the Marquette Club for its harvest home prosperity feast, which is to be held next Wednesday evening at the Coliseum. The vast hall is to be tastefully decorated with grain and farm products of all kinds. Ears of corn and sheaves of wheat and oats will hang from the gallery and will also be arranged about the sides of the interior of the structure. A second and no less important idea of the meeting is to make it a grand reception for Senator Hanna upon his return from his speech-making tour of the western states. Members of the Marquette Club call it the dollar dinner meeting. Covers will be laid for 3000 persons.

Mark Hanna, J. C. Burrows and J. K. Cullerton, United States senators from Ohio, Michigan and Kansas respectively, will be among those who will address the meeting.
