CALIFORNIA LEMONS.

Four Million Dollars Wasted in Growing and Curing.

The Principal Growers Had to Send Experts to Spain and Italy to Learn the Business Properly.

"The prejudice which existed until quite recently in this country against the domestic grown lemon is fust disappearing and American consumers of the fruit are beginning to appreciate the fact that as fine lemons can now be obtained from southern California as ever came from Mediterranean ports," remarked a wholesale fruit merchant in New York to a Washington Star writer the other day. "Indeed, as far as shape, size, pungency and good keep-ing qualities are concerned the Califour years become a dangerous rival of the best Italian and Spanish fruit. The sunnal consumption of lemons in the United States amounts to about 5,000,000 boxes. In 1896 Italy and Spain supplied us with 4,700,000 boxes of lemons and 300,000 boxes were grown in California. Last year there were imported from Mediterranean countries 3,800,000 boxes of lemons and 1,200,000 boxes of the fruit came from the Pacific coast. This year the importation of lemons will be considerably smaller than ever before, and, providing the present high standard of the California fruit is maintained, the growers of the state will in the course of a few scanons succeed in driving the Mediterganean lemons from our markets, just as they Mabel-"Harry compared me with sparkling wine last night." Clarahave driven out the foreign prunes

> "While lemons have been grown in southern California for over a hundred years, the cultivation of the fruit as a commercial industry dates only from 1882. In that year the first grove was started on a large scale at Riverside with the intention of producing fruit to compete in the eastern markets with that imported from Italy and Spain. The zeal for lemon growing soon spread to Pomona valley, to Santa Barbara, Ventura, Ontario and Pasadena, where the growers, in trying to make the cultivation of the fruit a profitable industry, met with a great many discouragements and failures for the first half dozen years.

"The trees grew and bore some excellent fruit, but while it was found that a shapely, thin-skinned and juicy lemon could be produced on the trees, it was found a difficult task to cure the fruit so that it would not only not rot and show blemishes, but would retain its pungency and oiliness of peel, as well as its full acid juiciness, from the picking season in winter until the following summer, when it was wanted by the consumer.

"The art of curing lemons was only properly learned by the Californians in 1897, when the principal lemon growers clubbed together and sent experts over to Italy and Spain to learn the business, and now they are producing excellent results. To make the lemons sour they are picked before they begin to turn yellow. The News from School.

The second quarter of the fall term closes this week. With the close of the quarter come the examinations upon the work done during the last four weeks. In the high school we have a new rule under which all pupils whose class standing is ninety-five per cent or over may be excused from examination.

The scarlet fever, which had almost become an epidemic, has been greatly circumscribed by the action of the city council regarding quarantine regulations. The regulations of the council were fully endorsed by the school board, and strong efforts are being made by the teachers to carry them out. Though there are a number of pupils out of schoot now on account of the disease, it is hoped that by this close attention to quarantine rules the fever may be stopped.

Wednesday a gentleman representing the military school at San Rafael called at school looking for prospective students. This reminds us that with the school facilities of today, preparing for all professions and vocations in life, no one need be without at least a rudimentary education. Military officers of high rank speak of this school at San Rafael as one of the best of the kind in the United States.

On Wednesday morning eample ballots were distributed to each pupil of the high school so that we might see how the voters of Oregon cast the ballot for president on Tuesday, and Prof. Landers announced that though it was a little late to be counted in, we might hold an election by the Australian plan of balloting when we have time and wate for electors for president and vicep esident.

Twelve boys from the high school have organized a glee club as an adjunct of the literay society. The hearty encore they received at their first appearance on Friday afternoon has entice every other day at close of school.

The eighth grade was invited to the society exercises last Friday. These, with the visitors, filled the assembly with that country to the necessity of registering their trade-marks in Denmark.

"Nature" notes a remarkable fact in connection with the West Indian pears that before the hurricane one of the tamest and commonest birds on the island of St. Vincent was a small humming bird, but none of these birds have been seen since September, 1898.

American inventive genius is more active than that of all other countries combined, and for the year ending July, 1900, has been more in evidence than ever, patents granted for the period number 26,540, or more than 5,000 over those of previous years.

Last year's output of manganess was the largest on record, 860,000 tons, divided as follows: Russia, 369,000 tons; Spain and Portugal, 140,000 tons; India, 77,000 tons; Brazil, 62,-000 tons; Turkey and Greece, 54,000 tons; Chill, 37,000 tons; France, 28,-000 tons; Cuba, 15,000 tons; Japan, 5,000 tons; other countries, 10,000 tons. The annual consumption in Europe is about 600,000 tons and that of the United States 200,000 tons.

Among some remarkable lunar photographs made by Messrs. Loewy and Puiseaux, of the University of Paris, is a stereoscopic image of the whole hemisphere of the moon, the direction of light giving relief and showing very strikingly the details of craters and mountainous regions. The picture was obtained by taking a plate of the moon at ten days and another at 20 days, enlarging these 60 times, and carefully placing side by side.

According to Herr Reinmann, there is no relation between rancid paste and the odor of butter and the quantity of free acid found in it. The greater the amount of caseine and of milk sugar in hutter, the more quickly does it become raneid. It does not appear that light and air exercise any direct influence upon the process. Butter made from sterilized cream will rarely become rancid, but if brought into contact with rancid butter it will turn in a few days.

FAMILY LIVES IN A TREE.

New Jersey Man Who Has Built Him self a Home Well Above Ground.

John Rausch, of Haledon, N. J., and his family live up a tree. A more unique habitation cannot be imagined. In the branches of a big oak he has built his home. It is perched among the leaves and over the top of the queer abode towers the top of the tree, forming its chief roof.

Rausch, says a letter to the St. Louis Republic, is a German laborer who has worked around Haledon for five years. He has seldom earned more than a dollar a day. He grew tired of paying rent and, with the German's love of owning a home of his own, he tried to buy some property from the real estate dealer of the place, William Buschman. The latter owns hearly all the land in that vicinity, and is anxious to have the property improved. He told Rausch he would give him a nice lot for little money if he would build a house. True the lot was far away from the road, but it was dry and well situated. It was covered with fine trees, and an especially majestic oak grew in the center.

After paying for the lot Rausch found he hadn't money enough to start the house he had promised to build, His wife and three small children ate up his meager earnings. Buschman told him he would have to give up the lot if he didn't begin the house.

Rausch thereupon secured a number of hig boxes. He had conceived the idea of making the branches of the tree serve for uprights and timbers.

The nails in the boxes were sufficient. On the strong lower branches he crossed and recrossed the boards. It made a very uneven floor, but the branches were strong and the boards would not slip. The house is circular, but very irregular.

Above all there is a smaller structure that Rausch calls his garret. When the wind blows the whole structure shakes and swings like a hammock, yet the whole family live there.

fruit is then put in a curing house where it is kept at a temperature of about 50 degrees for some 20 days, which 'sweats out' all the sugar. It is then removed to another temper. anewered. ature for 60 days more before it is ready for the market. Thus the highest degree of acid and the largest de gree of juice is obtained. One of the curious effects of this 'sweating process is to reduce the thickness of the skin. It originally grows thick and tough, but the acid seems to eat it up. Rough estimates put the capital invested in California in growing and curing lemons with all the appurtenances at $4,500,000.

"The person whose knowledge of lemons is limited to an occasional purchase of a dozen will be surprised to learn that there are 17 distinct varieties grown in California and Florida. These differ in size, shape, quality and skin and in keeping qualities! But there are only four varieties that have any popularity in California and in eastern markets. These are the Eureka, Lisbon, Villa France and Bonnie Brae."

Secret Intact Four Centuries. Chinese porcelain was common in Europe for 400 years before a German potter succeeded in finding out the process of making it. The Chinese pottery is scattered all over the world. and everywhere valued; but nowhere was the distribution more curious than in western Canada. Early in the century a Chinese junk was cast away on the Pacific coast of America just south of Vancouver island, and its cargo, of willow-pattern plates fell into the hands of the Hudson Bay company's officers. Still in the remotest trading posts of the fur traders a few fine specimens remain.-Cincinnati Inquirer.
