The man Lindley, who was injured a couple of nights ago by being crushed by the cars against the platform of the Wasco warehouse, was sent this afternoon to the Good Samaritan hospital.

Melville precinct, in Clatsop county, gave McKinley twenty votes to one for Bryan. Shoe Fly precinct, in Grant county, gave McKinley seventy-seven votes to two for Bryan, and Idea precinct, in Gilliam county, cast every vote it had for McKinley.

The empress of Germany confines her attention to her home and family of six sons and one daughter. The court chaplain was once impressing one of the little princes with the doctrine that all men are sinners. "Well, exclaimed the boy with fire, 'father may be a sinner, but I know mother isn't.'" The empress was married when 22.

The county clerk received a letter this morning addressed to the "Horrible County Court." The letter was from one of the road supervisors of the county and its contents showed that the address was written in good faith and without the least intention of insult or reflection on the court or any one connected with it. It contained a bill for a "Balens dew" of $34.30.

James Lane died at about 6 o'clock this morning at his home near the Fourth street bridge on the west side of Mill creek, aged about 27 years. The cause of death was inflammation of the kidneys, from which he had suffered more or less since he received a severe kick of a horse about a year ago. The deceased was a hard-working, industrious man. About a month before his death he bought out Bob Hood and went into the express business. He leaves a wife, one child and two step-children.

The Shaniko Leader says: Engineers Anderson and Redfield, who have been in the employ of The Dalles Southern Railway Co. during the past summer, arrived in Shaniko with their respective crews last Friday. It is the intention of the company to again take up the work in the spring, and complete their line of survey and location from The Dalles to the southern boundary of the state. This road when completed will open up a vast country that only wants means of transportation to aid and assist in its development.

A Portland tough went into C. J. Stubling's wholesale liquor store last night and, while Mr. Stubling was temporarily engaged at a distance in the store, abstracted a bottle of Green River whiskey and made off with it. Nightwatchman Like happened to see the theft but before he could get his hands on the thief the fellow started on a run west, where Nightwatchman Alisky happened to be, and ran into Alisky's arms. Like landed him in the city jail where he is at this writing.

A striking illustration as to how some men get rich was related the other day at Jacksonville. Mr. Cantral, a young man 28 years of age, worked hard up to three years ago and by close economy had saved $1,000. He purchased a cattle ranch for $10,000, paying $1,000 cash and balance on easy terms. He worked hard and managed well. Last week he sold out for $17,000 cash, besides having saved out of the sale of cattle $5,000, leaving a net profit for the past three years' labor the snug sum of $12,000.

The first fatal case of scarlet fever, during the present epidemic, occurred at 3 o'clock this (Saturday) morning when Geneva Fritz, the 8-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louie Fritz, succumbed to it after an illness of about two weeks. Geneva was an unusually sweet and lovable child, and her death leaves a sad blank in the family. She is said to have contracted the disease from a schoolmate who was allowed to attend school during the sealing off period. A younger child in the Fritz family is reported ill with the same disease.

The Hood River Glacier says Mrs. E. J. Hershey, of that town, is surviving about two dozen dressed Belgian hares for the market every Saturday. For a time she could not supply the demand. She has sold as high as fifty dressed hares in one week. The Walla Walla Statesman says that in not a few homes of the city of Walla Walla—judging from the advance preparations and the remarks of market men—the traditional Thanksgiving turkey is going to be largely Belgian hare; easily carved; four drumsticks instead of the feathered fowl's two; weight from five to eight pounds, and price about $1. The Statesman adds that it is almost impossible to get a hare any day on the market, although they are sold every day, and they must be spoken for in advance.

Clarie Simmons, a girl of 14 years, and her brother, Archie, a boy of 9 years, were committed today to the care of the Boys and Girls Aid Society, of Portland, by Judge Blakeley, on the showing that the children were destitute. The mother, who was forsaken by her husband years ago, is an inmate of the Good Samaritan hospital in Portland, where she is a charge on this county. She is suffering from consumption with no possible hope of recovery. The children were taken to the home this afternoon by Superintendent Gardner.

Scarlet fever must be spreading in spite of recent precautions. One physician informed THE CHRONICLE this morning that he had fourteen cases under his care, and new cases are reported almost every day. The residence of Mr. Gifford, the photographer, was quarantined this morning on account of the disease having attacked his little son, and several recent cases are reported up in the pines. The conditions are sufficiently alarming to demand the strictest enforcement of the quarantine laws, and to call for the earnest cooperation with the authorities of the relatives and inmates of the affected.

A marriage license was issued this morning to Richard Darnall and Sarah Crabtree.

J. W. Whalley, the well-known Portland lawyer, died suddenly of heart disease Saturday.

Circuit court opened here this morning. The day was devoted to routine business and the jurors were excused till tomorrow morning.

Found—An embroidered center-piece. Owner can have the same by calling at Mrs. A. J. Tolmie's, on West Fourth street, and paying for this notice.

We have a few good houses for rent at reasonable rates; also money to loan and the best bargains in real property in the city. Give us a call. Hudson & Brownhill.

Portland is getting ready for a Pacific Coast and Oriental Exposition to be held here in 1902. The success of the recent street fair has confirmed previously entertained opinions that an industrial exposition on a large scale could be made a success.

At an adjourned meeting of the common council, held Saturday night, the marshal was ordered to proceed with the construction of the Union street sewer, between Seventh and Tenth streets. When completed this will give a continuous sewer from the reservoir to Seventh street.

L. Evans, P. Henningsen, M. Dichtenmuller and — Godbersen, of Mosier, this morning shipped a carload of dried prunes to Minneapolis, Minn. The car contained 22 tons and was shipped on commission, the shippers obtaining an advance of $1500 on the car or 3 1/2 cents a pound.

Dr. J. Hudson, of this city, and Dr. O. C. Hollister, of Portland, yesterday removed a large tumor from the breast of C. W. Barzee, of Laughlin's Bluff Addition. The operation was quite successful and today Mr. Barzee was getting along nicely. The tumor was the growth of three or four years.

John Hays says they can't run a bluff on him. A man stepped up and offered to bet his socks that McKinley and Roosevelt would be elected. John says "I'll go you one on that proposition," and proceeded to take off his No. 11 shoes and produced the socks, the other man took a new pair of socks from his pocket and the bet was on, and John went around with "cold feet." We feel just a little sorry for the stakeholder.—Graess Valley Journal.

Mutton and wool come high in Klickitat. Charles McAllister, of Glenwood, recently sold to Charles McAllister, Sr., of North Yakima, 600 head of lambs at $4 per head, 400 ewes at the fabulous price of $6 per head, and the balance of the flock, 700 head, at $4 per head, and 20 head of fine French Merino bucks at $25 per head. They were taken to North Yakima to add to Mr. McAllister's flock of blooded sheep.

Parties having business with B. A. Gifford, the photographer, need have no hesitation in meeting him on account of scarlet fever in his family. Mr. Gifford was away from home when his little boy took ill and when he returned and found his house quarantined, as his presence in the house was not necessary, the attack being of a very mild nature, he thought it best to room down town till all danger from infection is over.

The dance given Friday night by the ladies of The Dalles to their gentlemen friends was, by all accounts, a most enjoyable affair. The dancing room and refreshment room were handsomely decorated with bunting, Japanese umbrellas and lanterns, potted plants, and in the latter room a profusion of flowers, many of which were tastefully arranged about the wall in Indian baskets. The dressing rooms were also made comfortable with rugs, easy chairs, etc. The windows of the dancing room were fitted up into inviting cozy corners. In one corner of the hall lemonade was served, while during the entire evening ice cream and cake were dispensed in the refreshment room. The Birgfeld orchestra discoursed the most tempting music, and dancing, which commenced at 9:30, was continued until 1 o'clock. In true leap year style the ladies chose their partners, and in all respects acted as the gentlemen are supposed to do in all fin de siecle affairs of the kind, only with far greater success in every respect than the gentlemen could ever hope to achieve.

A Chicagoian just returned from a tour of the far West saw the following location notice on a mining claim in the Grand Encampment, Wyoming: "We found it, and we claim it by the right of founding it. It's our'n. It's 750 feet in every direction, except southwest and northeast, and there is 300 feet on each side of this writin'. It's called the Bay Horse, and we claim the spurs, and we don't want nobody jumping on this Bay Horse—that's what these trees is around here for, and we've got the same piece of rope that we had down in old Missouri."

An inquest was held this morning over the remains of Michael McAllister, who died in a room back of the Germania saloon at 9 o'clock Sunday morning. McAllister was a stranger here. He entered the saloon Saturday and passing into a back room sat down in a chair. About an hour after he was found lying on the floor suffering intensely. A doctor was called in and prescribed for him, but remarked to some of the inmates of the saloon that he had never had a similar case that did not prove fatal. The man continued suffering without intermission till death came to his relief. There was no evidence that he had been drinking. He appeared to be something of a tramp. He claimed to have a wife and mother in North Dakota, but at what place in that state could not be learned. The evidence of the attending physician showed that the man had died from asthma, and the jury returned a verdict to that effect. McAllister was about 45 years of age.

"The general result in this state is no more than was expected with the single exception of the governor," said National Committeeman G. H. Baker, of Goldendale, who is in Walla Walla attending United States court, to a Union reporter: "There has been a great deal of talk in the fusion press about Hanna carrying the election with money. I want to say that Washington was carried for McKinley without any financial assistance from Mr. Hanna or the national committee. I notice also that Mr. Bryan remarks that there was coercion and intimidation and that voters were purchased. Mr. Bryan never was right. He has always had the faculty of getting on the wrong side of every subject he tackled. Washington voters were neither bought, intimidated nor traded. They voted as they thought and the result was the biggest republican victory the state has ever known. The fact is the people here grown tired of Mr. Bryan's tiresome tales of troubles to come.

Considerable complaint has been made at various times, and especially since the scarlet fever epidemic began, of the condition of the closets, or rather cess pools, of the brick school house on Court street. In justice to the directors it is proper to say that they have again and again had the matter of connection with the city sewers under consideration, but were deterred only because the expense involved in any adequate improvement was more than they felt justified in imposing on the taxpayers. Not long ago they had an estimate made by a competent architect as to the cost of putting in patent closets that would be frost-proof, which meant that they must be put in a frost-proof building. The estimate was so far beyond their reach at that time that the project had to be temporarily abandoned. Since then time has been used freely and everything done that could be done to maintain good sanitary conditions short of the abandonment of the cesspools and the adoption of patent closets. The directors now feel that the time has come when they must act. They have under consideration the erection of a brick addition to the school building on the south side, to have its entrance from the inside. This is regarded as the only feasible plan within a reasonable limit of expense. They assure THE CHRONICLE that the improvement will be pushed to completion as fast as men and money can do it.

Council Meeting.

An adjourned regular monthly meeting of the common council was held last night, at which the following business was transacted.

The residents of the second ward petitioned that F. H. Wakefield be appointed councilman, vice A. A. Jayne resigned. The prayer of the petition was granted and Mr. Wakefield appointed by a unanimous vote.

The matter of construction of the Union street sewer was laid over till the next meeting of the council.

The following bills were allowed and warrants ordered drawn for their payment:

MARK TWAIN'S LATEST JOKE

Overlooked a Banquet Held in His Honor Given at the Lotus Club.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Mark Twain was the guest of honor at a dinner to-night given at the Lotus Club. There were 200 persons present, among them Thomas Bailey Aldrich, William Dean Howells, Senator Depew, Thomas B. Reed, Augustus Thomas, John Kendrick Bangs, St. Clair McElway, Booker T. Washington, Chester S. Lord, General Stewart L. Woodford, Randolph Guggenheimer, Miles M. O'Brien, William Brookfield and William Berry. The dinner was held in the drawing-room and cafe made into one room for the occasion. It was hardly sufficient in capacity.

The guest of the evening gave the guests a little bit of worry by not appearing until some minutes after 8 o'clock, and then only after he had been called up by telephone. Mr. Clemens explained that the dinner had quite slipped his memory, and he made apologies. In his speech he said:

"I thank you all for this fraternal welcome; it is really too fine, too magnificent, for a poor Missourian far away from his native haunts, and my modesty is fortified as I see at this festive board other great men from Missouri; there is St. Clair McElway, and that greatest of all Missourians, Tom Reed. "Since I left this country we have fought a righteous war. A righteous war is so rare in history as to be practically unknown. We have set Cuba free and given her a place among the two or three real free nations that exist. We started to free the Philippines, but it seems that the righteous purpose miscarried somehow. I am glad, however, we made a creditable record in China through the sound-headedness of our administration. What yellow peril is threatening the world today we do not know, but we can say that this government has done nothing to evoke it.

"We have done our best to nurse free silver. We have watched by its cradle and done our best to raise the child. But these pestiferous republicans have been trying to give it the measles, and I am afraid we will never be able to raise it now. We have a president who was criticised up and down and found fault with for four years, and now we have re-elected him, and with votes to spare to elect another.

"Now I am back from my exile, young again, ready to begin life anew. Your welcome puts the finishing touches to my renewed youth, and makes it something more than a dream that will vanish with the morning."

Mr. Reed and Mr. Howells also made felicitous remarks, and Governor-elect Odell, Mr. Elway, Senator Depew, Mr. Bangs and Mr. Aldrich also spoke.

Unionism.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—H. W. Steinbiess, of St. Louis, president of the National Building Trades Council, today testified before the Industrial Commission concerning labor organizations, arbitration, strikes and other matters. He said that in 1894 he had framed a paragraph in the constitution of the national council declaring that experience showed that strikes were failures, but he had since changed his view and the constitution accordingly had been changed. As amended, it made strikes a last resort. He contended that strikes were successful in accomplishing the ends aimed at.

Labor organization, he said, is progressing in this country. This has resulted in raising the rates of wages and shortening working hours, though as much work is accomplished and it is of a better class than before. He concedes that this makes building more expensive but he does not believe it prevents the construction of any buildings. He said the council had a membership of 250,000. Mr. Steinbiess denounced agreements that contractors are said to have with employes that the latter shall work for none but members of the contractors' organization and alleged collusion of the furnishers of materials with contractors. He said this policy of the contractors is dangerous and tends to create a trust to squeeze the public.

Mr. Steinbiess was asked "Is not organized labor looked upon as a trust?" "Yes," he answered, "and I acknowledge that it is a trust. But it is a trust that benefits mankind."

He did not think the trusts had union labor, as a member of the commission suggested.

Cotton Mill Owners Alarmed.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Forty-five cotton mill owners in the South, fearing that the recent war will seriously change the trade conditions between this country and China, have prepared a petition which they are sending the secretary of state. They are afraid Russia will obtain possession of Manchuria and will impose such heavy duties on American goods as to render a withdrawal of American interests from that country necessary.

The petition expresses approval of the "open door" policy and expresses the hope that the administration will take such action as it may deem proper to maintain the protection and perpetuity of the existing commercial relations with China, especially as regards Manchuria. This petition is signed by eighteen mill-owners in North Carolina, twenty-one in South Carolina, four in Alabama, one in Georgia and one in Maryland. The total capital invested in their mills is $14,364,500. The total number of looms is 31,089, and the total number of spindles is 1,072,654.

How Filipinos View It.

MANILA, Nov. 11.—The results of the elections in the United States have been quietly received here. So far as the Filipinos are concerned, no noticeable change in the situation has resulted, nor is any likely to occur in the immediate future. They are for the greater part non-committal. News of the outcome will slowly work its way through the country to the armed insurgents, where the assurances of the leaders that Mr. Bryan would certainly be elected must first be overcome.

Last week's scouting resulted in several minor engagements, with what the official reports described as "small casualties," namely, four Americans killed and ten wounded.

Robbed the Grave.

A startling incident, of which Mr. John Oliver of Philadelphia, was the subject, is narrated by him as follows: "I was in a most dreadful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides, no appetite—gradually growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Fortunately, a friend advised 'Electric Bitters'; and to my great joy and surprise, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks, and am now a well man. I know they saved my life, and robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50c, guaranteed, at Blakeley's drug store.
