CHINESE EXCLUSION.

Said the San Francisco Chronicie of a week ago: "The frantic efforts of our democratic contemporary to drag the question of Chinese exclusion into the recent campaign failed signally, as it was right it should. There never was the slightest merit in the assumption that the republican party contemplated breakthe Asiatic horde. The attempt to make an issue of the subject failed because everybody knows that the exclusion of the Chinese is a nonparties are not only committed to it, but public sentiment is unanimous against letting down the bars. No venture to take any other stand on the question, and when the time comes for the re-enactment of the exclusion act it will be found that a republican congress will be true to the party record on the subject of Chinese immigration. The election now over, and the result shows that the frenzy of our democratic contemporary in forcing the Chinese it. It acted as a boomerang."
