HOW PLANTS GAIN WEIGHT.

Their Growth in Avordupols Comes Wholly from Gas in the Air. 23

As far as is known the first botanical xperiment ever performed was conducted by a Dutchman. He placed in a pot 200 pounds of dried earth, and in it he planted a willow branch which weighed five pounds. He kept the whole covered up and daily watered the earth with rain water. After five years growth the willow was again weighed and was found to have gained 164 pounds. The earth in the pot was cried and weighed and had lost only two ounces

The experimentalist, therefore, looked upon this experiment as supporting the theory that plants required no food but water. But he was wrong. Later it was discovered that much of the increase in weight of plants was derived from carbonic acid gas-in the air.

Vegetable cells contain a fiquid known as "cell sap." which is water holding in solution various materials which have been taken up from without by the roots and leaves. Thus it is in the living cells of the plant that those "digestive" processes are carried on which were once believed to occur in the soll.

"For three days and nights I suffered agony untold from an attack of cholera morbus brought on by eating cucumbers," says M. E. Lowther, clerk of the district court, Centerviile, Iows. "I thought I should sarely die, and tried a dozen different medicines but all of no purpose. I sent for a bottle of Chamberlain's Colle, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy ant three doses relieved me entirely." This remely for sale by Blakeley, the druggist.

man stays up nights and steals irriga- A tion water from his neighbors; alfalfa is most ready to cut; strawberries have been shipped; mulberries are nearly ripe; summer will soon be here, and the Phoenix summer bedroom will soon be a necessity, says the Arizona Graphie.

Phoenix sleeps out of doors in the summer, and the bedroom is born of that necessity. It is on stilts, is built of wire screen of fine mesh, for the Phoenix mosquito is microscopic in size. It is furnished, according to the taste of the occupant, with interior curtains, to keep out the morning sun. the gaze of the curious and the sand storm

The bed is a cot of canvas or woven wire, covered perhaps with a sheet, but even a sheet feels li, e a feather bed on a Phoenix summer night. The bed covering is the roof of the bedroom and careless folks who consult their comfort only don't wear night shirts.

Phoenix is proud of its elimate during eight months of the year, but it doesn't talk much in public about its midsummer. It is a right warm day when the government weather bureau doesn't know what the sun temperature is, and is unable to determine it. and that is how hot it gets in Phoenix. I called on Observer Burns one day last July and asked him what the "official" temperature was in the sun He said he did not know, and that the government coulde't afford to experiment to that end. He said he had attempted to catch the sun temperature during the summer of 1898, and had broken a three-dollar thermometer in the attempt. To please my curiosity he hung a thermometer in the sun, watched it until it registered 136 degrees, and then took it in, fear ing it would break.

The dryness of the atmosphere relieves this great heat of any ter rors to all living things except womer and cats. There is a saying in Phoenis that in summer women and cats are nervously prostrated, while men and dogs thrive and grow fat. There is a luxury in quenching one's thirst dur ing the summer heat that is possible nowhere this side of the hereafter, and nothing will quench it so well as olle water. The average mortal can drink a gallon of water per day during the heated time, and apparently every drog of it comes out through the pores of the skin.

Acker's English Remedy will stops cough at any time, and will cure the worst cold in twelve hours, or money refunded. 25 cts. and 50 cts. Blakeley the druggists.
