

PARADISE FOR TRAMPS.

Larrikin Rules the Cities of Australia and Hobbes Terrorize the Country Districts.

For several reasons Australia may be regarded as the ideal abode of the hobo and the tramp, or, as the former is designated in the cities, the larrikin.

The larrikin, like the kangaroo, is peculiar to the Australian continent. In no other country, certainly not in the United States, would he even be permitted to exist.

In appearance, says the Boston Globe, he is undersized in stature, slight in build and sallow in complexion, probably owing to an early excessive use of cigarettes. His attire is unique and unmistakable. He wears a narrow brim felt hat on one side of his head, a short jacket revealing to the hips, pants very tight about the waist to the knees, but spreading out bell-shaped at the ankles to the tips of his shoes. The latter are invariably with high heels.

Singly a desperate coward, but in packs or gangs as he perambulates the sidewalks of Melbourne or Sydney, he becomes a terror to women and children and a menace to anyone he fancies he can insult with impunity. He rarely does any work and is never found out of the cities.

The Australian tramp much resembles the same species in America, only instead of "looking for work," he generally adopts the guise of a prospector. With "billy" or kettle in hand he trudges from one sheep station to another, enforcing hospitality by the fear that if such is not accorded a barn will be found ignited on his departure.

In no country in the world are the unemployed treated with so much consideration by the authorities as in Australia. As the labor vote controls the balance of political parties, and the floating population of unemployed are "workingmen," in that respect officials are chary of saying no to a deputation of this class of citizens.

For instance, as has more than once happened, if a body of unemployed should wait upon the minister of the interior with a request for free transportation on the government railroads to some remote district, where they assert work is to be found, the minister, particularly if an election is at hand, has no other recourse but to issue the tickets.

Then, if, when the place is reached, climatic or other conditions are not found to be as conjectured, a pressing request for return passage does not often meet with refusal.

Distilled Iron Will Not Rust.

Distilling various metals, Kahlbaum, of Basle, has found that a number of them that usually rust quickly—like iron or copper—are so purified that it becomes difficult to oxidize them. Iron is a beautiful silver-white metal that does not tarnish in the air. Tin proves to be the most difficult of the common metals to distill, as in a vacuum it does not begin to pass over until a temperature of 2912 degrees is reached.—Invention.

Missed the Combination.

Smythe—It won't work. Brown—What won't work? Smythe—Hypnotism. Tried it on the butcher. Looked at him fixedly until I had his undivided attention, then I said, very slowly and with emphasis: "That—billy—is—paid." Brown—And what did the butcher do? Smythe—He said: "You're a liar!" —Stray Stories.

Glorious News.

Comes from Dr. D. B. Cargile, of Washita, I. T. He writes: "Four bottles of Electric Bitters has cured Mrs. Brewer of scrofula, which had tormented her great suffering for years. Terrible sores would break out on her head and face, and the best doctors could give no help; but her cure is complete and her health is excellent." This shows what thousands have proved,—that Electric Bitters is the best blood purifier known. It's the supreme remedy for eczema, tetter, salt rheum, ulcers, boils and running sores. It stimulates liver, kidneys and bowels, expels poisons, helps digestion and builds up the strength. Only 50 cents. Sold by Blakeley Druggist. Guaranteed.

Dissolution of Partnership.

The partnership heretofore existing between A. M. Stringer and T. S. Kennerly, under the style of The Dalles Distillery Company, has this day been dissolved by mutual consent. A. M. Stringer retiring and T. S. Kennerly continuing the business and paying all debts and collecting all bills.

The Appetite of a Goat.

Is envied by all poor dyspeptics whose stomach and liver are out of order. All such should know that Dr. King's New Life Pills, the wonderful stomach and liver remedy, gives a splendid appetite, sound digestion and a regular bodily habit that insures perfect health and great energy. Only 25 cents at the Blakeley drug store.

Elements of Chinese Disturbance.

Long travel through many countries has made it clear to my mind that there are three things which have wrought ruin in those foreign lands wherein honest trade could be built up by honest men. These are whisky, an enforced civilization, and a false use of the Bible. By whisky, I mean the introduction into such countries as China, Japan and the South Sea Islands, of the manufacture of rum and its insidious, fascinating and ruinous effects on the natives. By civilization, I mean the introduction of such methods as are wholly unnecessary to an already civilized people, such as a change in dress, fashions, and other hybrid social customs. By the Bible—and I would say nothing against the good book—I mean the introduction of cant by unprincipled hypocrites, whose only aim in attempting to spread the Gospel has been their personal gain.—Robert Mackay, in Success.

Dog's Name Has Many Syllables.

Tou-Hsi, the name of the Chinese empress dowager, is not her full name, but merely an abbreviation. Among the numerous distinctions enjoyed by the extraordinary lady is that of possessor of the most lengthy nomenclature of any Chinese woman, as her true name runs to no less than 14 syllables. When she signs it in full, as she does on exceptional occasions, it reads, Tsou-Hsiyu - k'ang - yi - chao - yu - chuang - ch'eng - shou - kun - ching - hsien - ch'ung - usi.

Didn't Like Ingratitude.

At Freeport, L. I., a hen laid an egg every day in a kennel and the dog ate it. She stayed longer than usual one day and he shook her. Since then she has kept away from the kennel and the dog has given up his egg diet.

Off to Frisco!

But before we go every article we possess, every Piano and Organ must go. Gilbert & Jones Co., who are to become our successors in Portland, have not bought a single Piano or Organ from us. They have paid us a big sum of money simply to become our successors, for our reputation, for our good will, and for our agencies, so as to control hereafter the sale of the Knabe, Hardman, Steck, Fisher, Ludwig and other Pianos, and under the contract with them we are obliged to get out of Portland in the very near future so as to let them operate in the field which we must relinquish. We have no time to waste, and have therefore instructed our Agent,

I. C. NICKELSEN, The Dalles, Oregon, to close out all Pianos and Organs on hand at a great sacrifice. We are now closing up our business preparatory to our removal to San Francisco, where will be our headquarters hereafter. If you ever intend buying a Piano or Organ now is the time. Address,
