GOOD EVENING.

With this number commences the publication of The Daily Evening News, a clean, live newspaper, having for its aim the upbuilding of the interests of the city of Roseburg, so far as lies within its power, and the advancement of the cause of the citizens of Douglas county. These interests and this cause will be ever considered paramount to any other consideration and they will receive The News' undivided support against any and all opposition whether it develops at home or abroad.

It proposes to be an evening newspaper, such as is desired by the business men and other readers in this city, and whose welcome is evidenced by the paper's well filled advertising columns and its large subscription list with its first issue. It is its aim to pursue a just and firm course in all matters where concern is the only remedy for a public wrong, and it will find every energy it possesses to the promotion of any and every measure having for its purpose the promotion of the public welfare and the conserving of the community's best interests. Properly conducted a newspaper realizes at the outset that its own interests and those of the city in which it grows and prospers are identically the same, and it will labor with and for those who are putting forth their money and measures to make a greater and more glorious city. To do otherwise is to assume that the newspaper is greater than is the city from which it draws its life and energy, and soon it must go the way of all things, "unwept, unnumbered and unsworn." Such should be the downfall of any creation that arrogantly grows greater than its creator. The News wishes to take its place in the ranks of the workers and add them in the building of the greater city that is now certain of a lasting prosperity and 10,000 population inside of two years.

Politically The Evening News will be Republican, and while claiming this right for itself it is willing that all men shall have the privilege of voting as they deem best, and it glories in the thought of being of a nation and a flag that guarantees to us all this right. It is hardly necessary to say much more. The evening paper reaches its patrons every day, bringing the latest intelligence from home and abroad. It has an opportunity every twenty-four hours to be in touch with its readers in ideas and opinions. Tomorrow and the day after and so on as the years pass, it will come again, and its management hopes, with every succeeding issue, it will receive a heartier welcome until it will come to be regarded as one of the essentials to a prosperous lifetime.

With the publication of the Daily Evening News will commence an improvement in the semi-weekly Umpqua Valley News. There will be more and later reading matter hereafter in the twice-a-week edition, and the daily will bring this about. Subscribers will soon mark the improvement, and there is no doubt that there will be many additions to the Umpqua Valley News' subscription list.

This being the first issue of the evening paper there will doubtless be some crudities about it, but they will pass when things smooth off, and The Evening News will continue to be as it is now, the best daily newspaper in Southern Oregon.

Norman E. Mack, chairman of the National Democratic Committee, declares it to be his opinion that Bryan will not be the next Democratic candidate for President. It may be his opinion, but just the same when the time comes it will be found that Bryan will have a good deal to say whether he runs or not.

The Myrtle Point Enterprise kindly says: The Roseburg News announces that it will begin the publication of a daily evening paper next Monday, publishing six evenings of the week. Roseburg should support a live daily paper very comfortably and the evidence the publisher of the News has furnished in his semi-weekly edition goes to prove that he can supply the field very effectively.

Health Officer Houck, in a semi-official statement gives some very interesting facts for the public. He declares there is no bad milk in Douglas county, for the reason there are not the conditions which bring disease-breeding milk into existence. There are no dairies after the fashion of those of larger cities, hence no unsanitary stables, no diseased cows and no dirty milk. Perhaps owing to the fact that the cows are principally pasture fed, and there are but few of them in a stable, we have no diseases that can be traced to milk. There is not a single case of typhoid fever in the city, and there has not been one in the county in the past ten years. The last cases of typhoid were two in the neighborhood of Canyonville and two at Yoncalla. The good showing of the county's bill of health is further added to by a record showing there were not to exceed twenty cases of malarial fever in ten years. The reason for the absence of typhoid germs is to be attributed to the absence of bad milk and well water; the non-existence of typhoid to the absence of severe frosts, and the non-prevalence of malarial fever to our delightful climate year in and year out. There is no malarial in the atmosphere.

THREE OF ONE OPINION.

The Sentinel, The News and The Coos Bay Harbor Want News, but Loyal.

Those who have interested themselves in the Coos Bay and Inland Electric Railway are at a loss to understand the delay in getting the promised bond which Messrs. Haas and Kuetner said they would furnish. While we believe these men really mean business it is no more than right that the people be kept informed as to the progress of all details. This delay without apparent reason and no explanation does the cause an injury. People along the proposed right of way should be informed of the reason for delay if there be any. It is encouraging to note the willingness in which the people of Coos and Douglas counties take hold of the proposition, and now that everything is in readiness for immediate action, it is hoped that they will not become discouraged at the vital moment.—Harbor.

THINGS WE THINK.

Poetry with large feet isn't always written in Chicago.

A person who has the blues isn't necessarily a colored person.

A sucker is born every minute, we are told, but who ever heard of one dying.

Bank deposits guaranteed to stand wear and tear would be mighty popular with the people.

It takes a legislature to change a man's name, but most anyone can change a woman's.

The banks refused to pay the express on silver dollars sent from the U. S. Treasury. Uncle Sam, no doubt, will find others willing to pay the freight.

Dr. Clara Scott has risen to fame by declaring that in the near future kissing will be confined to the lower classes. Clara will be away down in the list.

The government faces a deficit of 5 millions of dollars. Surely Uncle Sam must be pretty well to do when such a statement causes not a ripple of excitement.

The reason that there seems to be so much badness in the world is because the good is so common that it passes without comment while crimes are scarce-headed to the world.

Scientists are now making India rubber out of skim milk. Pretty soon they will discover a brand of the lactical fluid that will manufacture its own mackintosh and shed water.

A Philadelphia woman recently bought thirty-two shirt waists in one batch, probably believing that the present style covers so little that it would take a combination of about that many to make a respectable head dress.

A news item informs us that Massachusetts school teachers receive an average salary of $550 a year. This is less than $1.75 a day for work that requires years of expensive preparation, while the most ignorant Montenegrin fresh from Europe commands more than that salary for shoveling dirt. An education is not always a paying financial investment.

When a father comes home tired from work there is nothing so refreshing as to have a disinfectant like the reproduction of his mother come racing out to meet him with outstretched arms, the glowing face enshrouded with curls, and tiny lips puckering for a kiss. The welcome is so sincere and effusive that daily cares are forgotten in its enjoyment.

LOOTED CHURCH VAULT TWO ROBBERS CAUGHT

(Special to The Evening News) SEATTLE, Nov. 1.—Detected a few minutes after they had looted the vault of the First Presbyterian church of more than $500 in gold and silver checks, three men fought a pistol duel with Sergeant William West at the entrance of the church early this morning. Six shots were fired at the officer who returned the fire, and the trio escaped. A few minutes later, Patrolman Ballard found William Williams, a prowling burglar, who fired twice at the officer, but he was arrested. When secured surrendered a revolver. In an hour Fred Newmarch was arrested. It is thought the third member is in possession of the loot.

FINE PICTURE.

A Photograph of the Excursion Train to Sutherlin.

The News is indebted to M. C. Miller, secretary of the Sutherlin Land & Water Co., for a handsome large photograph showing Sutherlin on the occasion of the late visit of the excursion train of inspection of the town, with the Pullman car "Luseland" in the foreground. The photo conveys at a glance the great amount of labor and money that have been expended in developing the town and valley, and was a happy thought of whoever suggested it.

GETTING UP IN THE WORLD

is a harder job for some folks than getting up in the morning. We'll guarantee that you'll get up on time from that good, sound, refreshing sleep if one of our alarm clocks is in hearing distance. The market is full of cheap makes—we saw one the other day with lead pivot—but we don't keep that kind. There's only a few cents difference in the price, and the satisfaction we do up with the clock doesn't cost you a cent.

CLINGENPEEL, THE JEWELER.

As some authors has said, children are the link between heaven and man, and no home can be forever happy without those little cherubs—those whose lips lip the cute little things we like to tell the neighbors.

PETTY THIEVES IN NORTH ROSEBURG

The petty thieves now infesting the northern part of the city are becoming quite audacious in their operations. There is no fault to be charged against the present police force for this, since all that can be done by two men is being done by City Marshal Huffman and his assistant.

But the smile is on the City Marshal all the same. The petty thieves have not missed his residence while speaking about for something where with to fill their stomachs. Probably they know where good things to eat are kept.

At any rate they sneaked into his house several nights ago and carried off as a part of their plunder twenty-four jars of preserved fruits and jellies; afterward they effected an entrance into the house of Professor Robinson, and were frightened away by the occupants of the house before they had accomplished anything. They have since given the occupants of Herman Marsters home a scare, but it is not known or not whether they secured any pelf at the last place.

The fact that they took only preserved fruits and jellies from the City Marshal's home would indicate that the thieves are either boys or men who are "bachelors" for a boy's penchant for sweets is proverbial, and whoever heard of a bachelor "putting up" fruit for winter use. The News' informant declares that if this petty thieving is persisted in there will be somebody shot full of holes some of these nights.

SNOW IN MOUNTAINS.

Deer Driven to Foothills and Valley, and Pivotal Now.

Fritz Adam came out from the United States surveying party that is working between Carrit and North Myrtle Creeks Monday, and tomorrow he and Leslie Perdue will take out to their trapping camps of last winter their bear and cougar traps for the coming winter's work. Mr. Adam found three inches of slash snow on Old Baldy, something unusual at this season of the year, and reports snow on all the high mountains. This snow has driven the deer to the foothills, and there is plenty of them now.
