GETTING UP IN THE WORLD

Is a harder job for some folks than getting up in the morning. We'll guarantee that you'll get up on time from that good, sound, refreshing sleep if one of our alarm clocks is in hearing distance. The market is full of cheap makes—we saw one the other day with lead pivot—but we don't keep that kind. There's only a few cents difference in the price, and the satisfaction we do up with the clock doesn't cost you a cent.

Rev. C. W. Baker Resigning Urges Ministers to Study Pimaoy's

Rev. Charles Wilson Baker, one of the busiest men among the Episcopal clergymen of Cleveland, will in about two weeks take up his new work in St. George's parish at Roseburg, Ore. He has resigned as registrar of the diocese, assistant diocesan secretary, secretary of the committee on arrangements and the rectorships of St. Philip's and St. Matthew's parishes.

During his two years and a half pastorate at St. Philip's the membership of the church increased 25 per cent; the Knights of King Arthur was organized for the boy and the Girls' Friendly Society for the girls. The interior of the church has been remodeled and chancel furniture purchased. A parish house has also been equipped for social activities. In the year and a half work at St. Matthew's Mr. Baker has succeeded not only in increasing the membership but also in organizing a choir which next week will give a concert to purchase chancel furniture. For four years Rev. Mr. Baker was curate and "locum tenens" at St. Paul's Church, and while there he was instrumental in obtaining the adoption by that congregation of a new system of weekly pledges. Rev. Mr. Baker also served the St. Alban's Church on Euclid Heights.

The distinctive feature in all Rev. Mr. Baker's undertakings has been the exercise of his business abilities. He was a business man before he entered the ministry, and is still a member of the firm Baker & Son, wholesale druggists at Mt. Vernon, O.

Rev. Mr. Baker greatly laments the lack of business experience in many ministers. "They pass through the college, are graduated from the seminary and placed in charge of a church and property valued at from $5000 to $50,000," he said, "and it is not to be wondered at so many fail just because they never had any business training. Every minister should take a year's course of study in some commercial college."

St. George's parish at Roseburg, Oregon, is located on the Umpqua river, 195 miles south of Portland and 55 miles from the coast.—Cleveland, Ohio, Leader.

Manager Frear, of the local Water & Light system, is enjoying the comforts of a modern electric heater recently installed in his office. The heater is a charm and works to perfection, needing little, if any care or attention.
