MAIL ORDER OCTOPUS.

Quit Feeding an Organization That Hinders Your Town's Growth.

There's a new octopus, with a big stomach, says the Anti-Mail Order Journal. It is being fed and fattened by the farmers and residents of small towns and the lesser cities throughout the United States. Without being conscious of the fact, those well-intentioned people are pouring fodder into the great, hulking, manatonic octopus that is reaching out its tentacles to seize and swallow thousands of local enterprises.

Every day in the year this octopus eats up some country town or small city merchant body and breaches. Every day it devours some local manufacturing industry. And every day the country people and citizens of the small towns and cities are sending in their dollars to help fatten this creature. It is simply like handing peanuts to an elephant. One peanut would not do him much good, but when so many are coming all the time from every direction he cannot help but grow fat and get strong enough to take in the whole peanut fields with his trunk.

This is the Mail Order Octopus. Let us consider briefly what the Mail Order Octopus eats. First he nibbles at your dollar. You may now and then get bargains by mail, but if you would look around at home you might find the same things for sale at the same price. The octopus then devours more of your dollars and somehow your neighbor's dollars, and so on, and pretty soon he has swallowed the whole store of your merchant in town, who closes up and gets out of business.

But this is only a bit for him. When the store keeper goes out of business he goes out of town, goes to some town where the people trade at home. He takes with him his family and his risks, perhaps. This decreases the population of your town. Thus the octopus eats out of your population.

Perhaps five years ago your town had a thousand people. Now it may have fallen off to half that number. You own lots there or you own farm land near-by. Your lots are not worth so much in or near a town of 500 as they were in or near a town of 1,000. Thus the octopus eats off a considerable slice of your real estate.

This octopus eats up that fine new school house which you might have had if your town kept on growing. It eats up your children's opportunities to get a good education. It eats away their social privileges by reducing the population. If your town remains stationary or goes backward you are not going to have an opera house or a public library—not very soon, never if you keep on feeding dollars to the octopus.

This octopus is only about a dozen years old, but it is of adult size, and yet it is still growing most abnormally and enriching itself at the expense of your community. It all of you in your community would quit feeding this octopus and feed your local enterprises, your town would take a forward movement, and you would be feeding yourselves in the end. Did that ever occur to you? Think it over.

EDW. OLNEY THE GIFTED HEALER

There was a large attendance at Mr. Olney's lectures, while in Portland, Sunday, October 3. Those who were fortunate enough to attend the public demonstrations of healing given last evening by the gifted healer, were treated to a sight seldom witnessed anywhere.

Men and women were healed in quick succession, as fast as they came on the platform in the most startling and wondrous manner.

The large and intelligent audience was held spellbound as one case after another told how their pains vanished and their sight or hearing had been restored, or their rheumatism, asthma and hearing had yielded to the magnet touch and the suggestion of the white magician. Here are a few of the cases.

B. Denton, 460 East Morrison St., healed of rheumatism and liver trouble. C. L. Weber, 488 Pine street asthma. D. H. Gifford, 1379 Irvington street; people healed of stiff knees and catarrh; P. Lee, healed of fever sore. Mr. Snider, cured of lumbago; Mrs. Delmore, 248 South Portland, healed; R. W. Smith, kidney trouble and stiff knees.

An investigation of these and other cases continuously occurring in the Healer's office, will convince the most cautious and skeptical of the reality of the laws of healing, and that this man has almost supernatural powers. Don't wait until Mr. Olney is gone, but come now and be healed. Come and he will tell you if he can help you or not. It costs you nothing to investigate.

Main office in annex of Hotel McClallen, 349, corner of Main and Douglas Sts. Main street entrance, hours 9 a. m. to 8 p. m. Consultation Free.
