THE AMERICANS DEATH

May Prove a Very Serious Affair for Zelaya.

HANGING IS TOO GOOD

If Half the Story Told is True He has Been Outside the Law all the Time and Fliend in Cruelty All the Time

(Special to The Evening News)
NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 27.—Dispatches received here today state that the American Vice-Consul at Managua was imprisoned by Zelaya. This news has not been confirmed. Caldera has been missing for some time, and is believed to be imprisoned. Today's message declares Zelaya has imprisoned him because he wants to hide from America the cruelties incident to the execution of Cannon and Grace.

According to the passenger's story of the steamer Parismina Cannon and Grace were captured in neutral territory, yoked together like a pair of oxen, a hundred pound weight tied to the yoke, and then, the men said they have been beaten with a cat-o-nine tails.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 27.—A cablegram was received this afternoon

"BILL" BRADLEY IS DEAD

A message was received in the city shortly after 4 o'clock this afternoon from Gilde to the effect that "Bill" Bradley, who was recently injured at his home in the Illabe district about fifty miles above Peel, had been dead three days when Dr. Stewart reached his cabin yesterday morning.

Dr. Stewart is now enroute home and is expected to arrive here either late this evening or tomorrow morning.

Owing to the congested condition of the telephone lines this afternoon we are unable to ascertain details relative to what disposition will be made of the remains. It is supposed, however, that the body will be interred on the homestead where Bradley had made his home for many years.

Bradley was a man of about 60 years of age and was well known in this city where he has many friends who will regret to learn of his death.

John B. Wright, who owns a home stand near the one owned by Bradley, was the only person present at the time of Bradley's death. His brother P. J. Wright accompanied the physician from Gilde to the homestead. Bradley leaves an uncle, William Tipton, in this city.

We are advised from what we believe reliable authority that Bradley leaves considerable money. He is said to have an account at a local bank as well as depositories in California and in Klamath county. He also kept considerable cash at his home, it is said, but this may never be found inasmuch as it is probably hidden. But a few months ago he is said to have told a friend that he had a little over $700 within easy reach of his cabin, intimating that he was not in want of the necessities of life.

He purchased the homestead from a friend but never obtained a deed, inasmuch as he did not care to pay taxes. The land will revert to the heirs who will be able to secure the deed upon having the line surveyed.

Accident in Brief.
It will be remembered that Bradley was found by one of the Wright brothers several days ago lying a short distance from his cabin, apparently lifeless. He was unconscious at the time, several ugly bruises furnishing evidence of what had occurred. He never regained sufficient strength to relate the details of the accident, but nevertheless it is presumed that he attempted to mount a fractions horse, and in so doing was thrown and dragged through the thicket. Portions of his wearing apparel were found scattered about the ground in the vicinity, showing very conclusive evidence that he had fought a desperate battle in hope of freeing himself from what he no doubt considered death's grasp.

From Bluefield's announcing that American Vice-Consul Caldera had succeeded in communicating with the State Department at Washington. His report bears out the stories of barbarous cruelties inflicted upon Grace and Cannon. It is said the report of Caldera was forwarded several days ago. His present whereabouts is unknown.

Then She Hurried Back

Irving Berlin, the author of "My Wife's Gone to the Country," said at a recent dinner in New York:

"A true happening was the inspiration of the song. In July a Brooklyn woman set out for Ocean Grove, and on her arrival discovered that her watch, a small affair was missing. She thought it probably had dropped on the soft thick dining-room rug, so she wired to the maid a letter saying:

"Let me know if you find anything on the rug in the dining-room."

A few days later she got from the maid a letter, saying:

"Dear Madam: I was to let you know if I found anything on the dining-room rug. This is what I found this morning: Three champagne corks, eighteen cigar butts, five cigar ends, four blue chips, thirty-six burned matches, and one pink satin slipper."

FEARFUL PANIC OSIKI

Men and Women Fight Each Other Like Wild Beast

ONE HUNDRED DEAD

Several are Injured and Many Who Will Die—Where Panic Ensued Men and Women Fought Like Beasts

(Special to The Evening News)
TOKIO, Japan, Nov. 27.—Reports received from Osaki say that more than one hundred were killed in a panic at a general meeting of the Red Cross Society this afternoon, and several hundred injured, many of whom cannot recover.

More than thirty thousand were gathered to attend the meeting, the order having gained great and increasing popularity with the Japanese since the time of the last war with Russia. There was one doorway to the large building where the ceremonies were held for either entrance or exit. As the great crowd struggled and fought to enter many within commenced struggling to get out.

At this juncture a great panic ensued. Both men and women lost their senses in terror and fright. Sensible people on all other occasions were transformed into raving, crazy, frenzied beings, without reason and bereft of all human feeling. They struggled and fought each other like wild beasts, and in their extreme terror trampled hundreds under foot. It was an appalling happening.

DASTARDLY DEED

Ghosts Steal Body of Millionaire's Son

GREAT FALLS, Mont., Nov. 27.—One of the most heinous and daring crimes ever committed in this vicinity was brought to light yesterday afternoon in the nature of a grave snatching case, when the sexton of Highland cemetery found that last night the grave of the infant son of Harfield Conrad, son of William G. Conrad, a Great Falls millionaire banker, had been opened and the body of the child made away with. The crime was detected as the sexton was preparing for the arrival of a funeral party. In passing the gate of the burial ground he found the casket of a small child lying upon the ground. The casket was empty, and an inspection showed that the grave of the Conrad child had been opened. The only reason which can be ascribed for the dastardly crime is that the perpetrator desired to hold the body for ransom, and that he placed the casket in the most prominent spot about the cemetery so it would be seen.

The body of the Conrad child was interred in the cemetery about a year ago. The child was about four years of age.

BREAKS DOWN

Cook's Meath Impaired by Northern Journey

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—Suffering from a nervous breakdown following his labors in preparing his report for the University of Copenhagen to pass upon, Dr. Frederik A. Cook, the Arctic explorer, is at the home of friends in Manhattan. So serious is his ailment that not even his most intimate friends are allowed to see him.

Walter Lonsdale, the private secretary of the explorer, called yesterday with the records, with which Dr. Cook hopes to prove that he is the original discoverer of the North Pole, on the steamship United States, for Copenhagen. The records and reports contain about 30,000 words, and the university authorities probably will be several weeks going over them.
