O. W. Murdock, of Cleveland, was in the city Saturday. He called at the News office and left a generous supply of Albert nuts which were grown on his place. They were fine samples of the product and prove the adaptability of Douglas county soil for the raising of nuts. He marketed 20 pounds.

Mr. and Mrs. I. C. Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Smith left for Eugene this morning after a brief visit with friends in this city. They formerly resided in this city, having sold their holdings in West Roseburg about two years ago to John Penny. Since that time they have lived at Enterprise, Oregon. They now contemplate locating in the vicinity of Eugene.

Mrs. Susan Wilhoit filed suit in the circuit court late Saturday afternoon through her attorney C. L. Hamilton, in an attempt to oust her former husband, Cal Judy, from a certain tract of land situated in the Loon Lake district. The land involved contains 140 acres and was taken up by the Judy's a number of years ago under the homestead act. When Judy was sent to the penitentiary several years since Mrs. Judy continued to reside on the place, and later married a man by the name of Wilhoit. The homestead furnished the couple a home until about a year ago when Judy returned from the penitentiary and drove them from the place. Since that time both Judy and Mrs. Wilhoit have furnished the officers considerable trouble. Mrs. Wilhoit asks that she be allowed to reside on the place and that Judy be ordered to leave. She also asks for the sum of $50 damages. One peculiar circumstance which surrounds the affair is the fact that Mrs. Wilhoit holds a tax title, while Judy is possessed of a government patent. This question, of course, is for the courts to decide. Both Mrs. Wilhoit and Judy bear a questionable reputation in this locality and their present difficulty comes as no surprise.

LOCAL NEWS.

County Judge Wonebott says that Mrs. Alice Rogers, the woman who was caught by the Lane county authorities while attempting to secure railroad transportation under the pretense that she was ill and needed aid, was a visitor in this city some time ago and was successful in obtaining a ticket for herself and children to Medford. Here she represented that her husband was a candy maker and had secured employment at the southern town. Hereafter the judge says he will have to be "shown", intimating that he will display the Missouri disposition.

County Assessor Frank L. Calkins has returned from Salem where he was called together with other assessors of the state, to appear before the state board of tax commissioners. He reports an excellent meeting and says that much good will result therefrom. Interviewed relative to what took place during the meeting in the state was questioned as to his manner of assessing, with a view of ascertaining whether or not the tax laws of the state are being recognized by the several officials. Mr. Calkins says that on fault was found with the manner of assessing property in Douglas county, such valuations having been based on the true cash value. Baker was the only county to fix the valuations at 50 per cent of the cash value of the property. The commission decided to search the mortgage records hereafter, it being their intention to assess all mortgages and notes regardless of public sentiment. It is said that the commissioners deem the note and mortgage assessment law unfair, but notwithstanding such fact, believe that the laws should be enforced to the letter. In other words they argue that the best manner in which to get a law repealed is to enforce it that the people at large may learn of its worthlessness.
