That San Francisco bandit who one day held up a drug store, then notified his victims by mail that they could expect him again, but that the firm better make it a point to have a goodly sum on hand, and who later kept his word, returning and taking all the loose change belonging to the establishment, certainly has a nerve that ought to make him a master in the financial world. His methods vary somewhat from those of other bandits, who calmly extract wealth from the dear people, but the results are the same.

Milton, Umatilla County, held its annual city election Tuesday, and among the progressive matters dealt with an amendment to the charter which was carried by a large majority, providing for municipal ownership of the electric light and power plant, and the right of the city to sell power within or without the corporate limits of the town. The city is determined not to be at the mercy of private corporations in these important matters, and will not only save on the first cost of lights but will derive a nice revenue from the sale of power to individuals and corporations.

Mr. Hartog, who has done such good work for the past two years as publicity manager for the Eugene Commercial Club, is about to retire from that position to engage in a private enterprise. Of the fund that was raised by the Eugene people for the 1909 campaign, $1,000 yet remains in the treasury and there are no outstanding accounts against the club. Eugene has certainly established an enviable record in the matter of publicity work, and for the year of 1910 has already raised a fund of $12,000. Adding to this the $1,000 saved from Mr. Hartog's administration and our sister city has available $13,000 for the sowing of the gospel of Eugene's advantages to a receptive world.

It will not be many years until the Umpqua Valley will be practically one vast orchard, supplying fruit to the people of the world. A well known farmer was observed with a lot of fine trees in his wagon, recently, which he had just received, and speaking of the fruit industry remarked that "everybody is going into the orchard business." They are going into business because it pays, and a man can make more money from a small farm in orchard well cared for than he can from the big ranch. And he can do it with a lot less hard work, too. Over at the little town—but its a wide awake community—of Sutherlin just the other day 50,000 trees were received in one shipment, and a second shipment of equal number is due to arrive. The fruit industry builds up towns and communities as no other business will, and these Sutherlin people, as well as many others in the favored Umpqua Valley, know it. Not many seasons from now we will hear a lot less about fruit of other parts of the Northwest, and a great deal more of Douglas county.
