

JURY PANEL FOR THE YEAR 1910 IS DRAWN BY THE COUNTY COURT

Court Adjourns at Late Hour Last Evening

BILLS ARE ALLOWED

Jury List Consists of Representative Taxpayers From Each Precinct in the County—Two Hundred Names Are Drawn.

After unceasing toil from an early hour yesterday morning until late in the night, the members of the county court, consisting of County Judge Wonacott and Commissioners Ryan and Nichols, completed their labors for the January term last evening, the latter two gentlemen leaving for their respective homes on the midnight train. The final business transacted for the term was that of selecting competent jurymen to serve the county during the present year, 1910. In drawing these men the court used every possible precaution, realizing as they did, that in the hands of these persons is placed a great responsibility. Several representative taxpayers from each district were drawn, politics and personal matters being entirely eliminated. As each name was read from the tax roll the record of the person was scanned, that the members of the court might determine whether or not he was possessed of those qualifications necessary in rendering him a competent juror. Notwithstanding the fact that the court invited the several local attorneys as well as the public generally to be present at the drawing, few responded, no doubt having full confidence in the honesty and ability of the county servants.

Prof. A. M. Sanders Dies at Albany
The residents of Roseburg and vicinity were startled this morning to learn that Prof. A. M. Sanders, at one time superintendent of the local public schools, but of late the incumbent of a similar position at Albany, had passed away at that place shortly after 11 o'clock last evening, death resulting from an attack of pneumonia. The deceased was 47 years of age and is survived by a wife, formerly Mrs. Gertrude Hampton of this city, and two children by a former marriage, Gale, of Albany, aged 17 years, and a little girl, who is at present in the custody of her grandparents at McMinville.

Mr. Sanders first came to Roseburg late in the year 1901, having accepted a position as superintendent of the public schools. He was an able instructor and during his residence of four years in this city won a host of friends who are grieved to learn of his sad demise. The bereaved wife who is left to mourn his loss is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. P. McLendon, of this city, their marriage having occurred about a year prior to their removal to Albany early in the year 1906.

The remains will be brought here tomorrow morning and lie in state until Monday morning at 10 o'clock when the funeral will be held at the Baptist church. Rev. Douglas, pastor of the Albany Baptist church, will officiate, assisted by Rev. E. H. Eaton, pastor of the local church. Interment will occur at the Masonic cemetery.

The deceased was a member of three lodges, as follows: Odd Fellows, W. O. W. and Artisans. It is urged that the members of these orders attend the funeral out of respect to the deceased brother.

DIES FROM INJURIES RECEIVED
(Special to The Evening News)
Oakland, Cal., Jan. 15.—Elsie Olson, aged four years, daughter of August Olson, died in this city today as the result of burns received Wednesday when her dress caught fire. The child ran through the house a living torch while her blind father made a frantic though helpless effort to locate her and put out the flames.

HINGES AT VITAL POINT

Must Turn For or Against Mr. Hermann

COURT ADJOURNED NOON

Judge Wolverton to Hand Down Decision Monday Which Will be Vital in Further Conduct of the Trial.

(Special to The Evening News.)

Portland, Jan. 15.—Judge Wolverton, of the United States court, today has come to a point in the Blinger Hermann trial where the hinge must turn for or against the defendant. All during the morning session of the court the judge listened to the reasons presented by his attorney, Mr. Worthington, why the gate to the evidence against him should not be opened, and to the other reasons presented by Henry why he should not be loose of the flood of testimony which the prosecution expects to connect Mr. Hermann with the Mays-Jones conspiracy in the Blue Mountain forest reserve. When court adjourned at noon today Attorney Worthington had not finished his reply to Henry. Court will not again take up before Monday noon and the judge will not have an opportunity to hand down his decision before that time, which will be most vital in the further conduct of the trial. Much controversy has been raging between the attorneys concerning the testimony of Dan Tarpley, Horace G. McKinley, Geo. Sorenson and S. A. D. Pater regarding the conversation, or conversations, had with F. H. Mays, regarding the operations of the men in securing school lands in the Blue Mountain forest reserve prior to the time of the creation of the reserve or the withdrawal of the lands from settlement. It is expected by the prosecution that this testimony will link Mr. Hermann with the conspiracy of Mays and Jones in creating the reserves which was an illegal plan to secure school lands prior to their creation.

Efforts of Francis J. Heney to connect Blinger Hermann with the Blue Mountain forest reserve conspiracy will not be confined to the introduction of testimony showing the relations between Hermann and the convicted conspirators prior to Feb., 1903, when Hermann was required as commissioner of the general land office to qualify as representative from the first congressional district. This developed yesterday when Heney secured the temporary admission as evidence of protests by Grant county people against the creation of the proposed reserve, which were received by the interior department at Washington after Hermann had ceased to be connected officially with the general land office.

These protests were admitted by Judge Wolverton over the objection of Mr. Worthington, for the defendant, with the understanding that the government will be required to connect the protests with Hermann and show that he had a knowledge of them. Mr. Worthington objected to the admission of these protests, which were not forwarded to the department at Washington until April 1903, or a month after Hermann had resigned as commissioner of the general land office. For that reason, counsel contended, the documents were not competent as evidence against Hermann, since their transmission to Washington was a transaction subsequent to the time he was connected with the land office.

Protests to be Used Later.
"We propose to make the necessary connection between these protests and Mr. Hermann and clearly to establish their competency as evidence in this case," said Mr. Heney in answering the objection. "The government will show that, although Mr. Hermann was no longer commissioner of the general land office when these protests from Grant county reached Washington, he was a representative in congress from Oregon and as such was representing the entire state. We expect to show that these protests were brought to the attention of the defendant before the reserve was finally created. Unless we do, of course, they will not be competent evidence against him."

The protests in question had been identified by Orin L. Patterson, of Canyon City, Grant County, who circulated one of the documents and secured many signatures. One of the protesting petitions, the witness testified, reached Hermann at Washington before that official recommended the temporary withdrawal of the lands for the reservation on July 23, 1902. The other protests, it was conceded, were not forwarded to the interior department until April, 1903 or the month after Hermann had left the land office. Mr. Patterson identified several of the protests and said the signers included the most prominent business and professional men and citizens of Grant county.

The proceedings yesterday were made the more tedious by the introduction and identification of numerous protests against the creation of the proposed reserve and other correspondence relating to the same subject. It was not a bad day for the defendant, little of a damaging character developing in the testimony

Clothes Become Ignited and the Little Ones Crawl Into Bed for Protection—Home Destroyed—Mother Frantic.

(Special to The Evening News.)

Winlock, Wash., Jan. 15.—Three infant children of Oscar Blackman were burned to death in a fire that destroyed the Blackman home south of this city last evening. Mrs. Blackman sent two older boys, 4 and 2 years old, on an errand to a neighbor, shortly after which, placing her 18 months old baby in its cradle, she went to her mother's home a few hundred feet distance. She had been absent but a few moments when she noticed her home in flames and ran frantically to rescue her children, with her was Warner Blackman, uncle of the children. Mrs. Blackman rushed into the house and attempted to get the children but was unable to get into the kitchen. Blackman then broke into the front of the house and finally effected entrance to the room where the children met their death. It was too late, however, as the smoke was so dense he could not distinguish them and not until the charred remains of the three unfortunate boys were found after the home had burned down did the distracted mother know that the two other children had returned

HEAVY DAMAGE CASE CONTINUED UNTIL THE MAY TERM OF COURT

E. F. Rogers Sues J. Harding For $10,000

FALSE IMPRISONMENT

Plaintiff Alleges That He Was Arrested and Remanded to Jail Illegally—Accused Him of Absconding.

The most important case scheduled for trial during the present term of the circuit court was ordered continued this morning upon mutual agreement of the attorneys for both the plaintiff and the defense. The action in question was brought some time ago by E. F. Rogers, of Glendale, who asks to recover the sum of $10,000 as damages from J. Harding, a merchant at the same town. Among the allegations Rogers alleges that on or about September 21 the defendant made an affidavit wrongfully and unlawfully charging the plaintiff with absconding and leaving the country, and without having commenced any action at law filed said and home. When found the 4 year old boy had his arms around his little brother as if he had apparently tried to protect him from the flames. It is thought the children were playing with matches in the kitchen, their clothes became ignited and in attempting to free themselves from the fire crawled into bed.

affidavit with Charles T. Nail, purporting to be justice of the peace of Glendale, who, without warrant or jurisdiction so to do executed a warrant of arrest, the same being placed in the hands of Sheriff Russell, of Josephine county.

The plaintiff further alleges that the sheriff, acting upon the legal instructions of the warrant, placed him under arrest at Grants Pass, and later remanded him to the county jail where he was compelled to remain four days.

Plaintiff claims damages in the sum of $10,000 upon the grounds that he was deprived of his liberty, suffered mental anguish, humiliation, disgrace and loss of reputation and further that he was deprived of the company and comfort of his family. Rogers also alleges that his family was left destitute among strangers, only recovering from their humiliating situation when he was released from jail.

The plaintiff is represented by Attorneys J. L. Hammersly and A. C. Hough, of Grants Pass, while Attorneys Fullerton & Grant are looking after the interests of the defendant.

From indications the case will come up during the March term of court.
