

CROSS EXAMINATION

Heney Puts Hermann Through Strenuous Grilling

FEW IMPORTANT POINTS

Prosecutor Questioned the Defendant as to His Early Life Work in Oregon and His Work in Public Capacity.

(Special to the Evening News).

PORTLAND, Feb. 2.—Prosecutor Heney had his inning today in the Hermann trial. The cross examination of the aged defendant began early yesterday morning and slowly Binger Hermann was taken through the story of his early life in Oregon vice as commissioner in the general land office. During all of the session of the court this morning it was a game of fence, of thrust and parry between the government prosecutor on one side and the defense on the other but candor compels the statement that at different times during the contest Heney pierced the armor of the defendant and succeeded in "drawing blood." Heney wrung two important points from Hermann, and one was the admission that he had a general knowledge of the fact that school lands could be, and perhaps were being used for fraudulent exchange under the lieu land act of 1901. The other point scored by the prosecution was that had Hermann made temporary withdrawals of the proposed reserve as soon as the investigation into the feasibility of the reserve was commenced, that fact would have served as an effectual bar against the fraudulent acquisition of school lands or other land frauds. These two important points came into Heney's possession after much parrying between the witness and the prosecutor, the questions and answers passing back and forth concerning the details of the land office routine, the main question at issue always bobbing up, and these were skillfully parried by the witness.

ROBBERS LOOT POST OFFICE SAFE

(Special to the Evening News).

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Feb. 2.—The postoffice at National City was broken into by safe crackers last night, the safe blown open and robbed of about $300 in money. Two packages of stamps, one containing $18 and the second $100, were not taken. A package containing $60 in money was overlooked in the haste of the gang to depart after the explosion.

FORTY NINE DEAD BODIES RECOVERED

(Special to the Evening News).

PRIMERO, Colo., Feb. 2.—The work of rescuing the bodies from the Colorado Fuel & Iron company's property, which was wrecked by an explosion yesterday, is going on continuously, and 49 bodies have so far been removed from the mine. TYPHOID FEVER EPIDEMIC SURE

(Special to the Evening News). PARIS, Feb. 2.—The city is now threatened by an epidemic of typhoid fever, resulting from the use of water that had become fouled from the breaking of the trunk sewers and the draining of the filth in the sources of the city water supply. Many cases of fever have already been reported, and the authorities are fearful that the contagion will spread among the people. The city health board has officially warned the public from drinking or using water unless it first be boiled. The flood that overwhelmed the city last week is receding at the rate of an inch an hour and the river is now practically within its own boundaries. Bridges that were closed during the flood because they were thought to be unsafe, have been reopened to traffic and business is rapidly assuming its normal conditions.

EXPLOSION AND FIRE

Eighty-five Men Lose Lives in Colorado Mine

52 BODIES RECOVERED

More Than One Hundred Men are Dead or Missing—Still Others Buried on Lower Levels.

(Special to the Evening News).

PRIMERO, Colo., Feb. 2.—The lives of at least 80 men who labored deep down in the earth for the support of themselves and their families, were snuffed out by an explosion and fire in the mine. Following the fire explosion three days ago, fire set in and has raged in the tunnels ever since, making the work of rescue very hazardous. In addition to those men who are known to have met death in the disaster, 25 others are missing, and it is regarded as almost certain that they also were killed. Up to this afternoon 52 charred and disfigured bodies have been recovered from the tunnels of the Colorado Fuel & Iron Co.'s mine at Primero. There are still 24 more in the mine. Thirty-three bodies have been taken from the Border mine at Drakesboro, Ky., where a terrific explosion occurred yesterday, and search is being made for others who were known to have been in the mine at the time of the disaster.
