Horse Collars

To Be Made In Roseburg

Mr. H. Pearce, who recently bought Long & Sons harness store, will start making horse collars in about eight weeks, or just as soon as the necessary machinery comes from Cincinnati. Mr. Pearce has made a big change in his harness shop and is now able to turn out work that Roseburg has been unable to get before. Mr. James Donahue, who has been head man for the Askin Harness Co., of Kansas City, Mo., several years, has just arrived to charge of the manufacture of the harness department.

Mr. Pearce expects to employ three or four men in his shop. Having done a good business in this spring he intends to go in on a larger scale in the near future and supply Roseburg and the surrounding country with a good grade of leather goods and at as good prices as can be obtained on the Pacific coast.
