Below a pretty rivulet with Waters cool and clear,
 And with the mountain springs to drink
 Drains valley far and near.
 It feeds the flowers, fruits and trees—
 An endless flow of wealth.
 And, creeping toward the ocean,
 leaves
 Both happiness and wealth.

No spot in all the universe does
 Heaven hold more dear—
 For, opening wide her generous
 hand,
 Showers every blessing here.
 Rose-laden perfumes fill the air.
 Love messages to bring.
 What better proof can mortal need?
 The handwork of our King.

But, hush; there is a rivulet
 Three thousand miles away
 Which wends its sluggish, winding Course through mountains tall and gray.
 It brings fond, loving memories—
 The perfume I can smell—
 Ye gods, it is the stock yards
 Because it smells like Madie DeLong, this week at the Star Theatre.

 With mounts of lofty crest.

CHILDREN IN PARADE.

represented farries, No. 3 was in charge of Miss Tipton.
 The children of Miss Mahn's room all carried beautiful bouquets of roses.
 Youngsters in Miss Smith's class, room No. 5, was dressed as Indians.
 Some of the boys carried guns, representing the Indian brave. Many of the costumes were both original and true to Indian character. The little girls, in their Indian trappings, made charming little "squaws" and caused many a laugh from among spectators who lined the sidewalks.

Open House Tomorrow Evening.
 The members of the Roseburg Commercial Club and Ladies' Auxiliary will hold open house at the club rooms tomorrow evening in honor of the local school teachers, the O. A. C.
 Cadet band and other guests which will prove one of the pleasing features of the closing of the three days' carnival.

Afternoon Sports.
 The sports for the afternoon were featured as announced in the official program. The May pole dance by eight little girls in the courthouse square attracted a large crowd at 2:30 and to music by the O. A. C.
 Cadet band the fairly-like little girls gave the May pole dance. The boys' sports on Washington street were witnessed by many, and the athletic-ly inclined youngsters, of whom Roseburg can boast a few legions, covered themselves with glory and perspiration in doing the stunts to win the prizes hung up. It is quite unnecessary for us to remark that when the boys got through with the games the prizes were all claimed. Roseburg boys never do anything by halves.

A carnival grand ball at the Armory tonight will wind up the fea-tivities for today. Mayor Haynes and Mrs. F. W. Benson will lead the grand march.
