Meets Sad Downfall in Portland Courts.

WAS HEART SMASHER

During the Days of the Vitagraph Theatre in This City She Played Here With Roseburg's "Butterfly" Set.

The "chief" actor in the following article is well known in Roseburg and vicinity, and especially in "butterfly" circles in which she was very popular. During the days of the Vitagraph theatre in this city, "Bobbie" Pulliam, as she was familiarly known, proved herself a star attraction, and the manner in which she drew crowded houses was something a bit out of the ordinary. She was pretty, and during her brief stay here she played close to the hearts of the young men, many of whom were grieved when the announcement came that she was to leave for other fields.

"Bobby" Pulliam, variety actress at Fritz' saloon, and intimate friend of ex-Policeman Charles Tennant, was found guilty of an immoral act in Judge Gantenbein's department of the circuit court yesterday afternoon and was paroled.

The pretty wife and two children of "the man in the case" sat through the trial beside their husband and father and heard him denounced as "this thing" and "this imitation of a man" by the attorney on both sides. Once this grilling got the better of Tennant's self-control, when Attorney Pague charged that he told the Pulliam woman that his wife was an immoral woman, and with a cry of "You're a liar," Tennant sprang half way across the intervening space between him and the attorney before he was intercepted by the Deputy Sheriff, who had him in charge.

"Miss Pulliam swears you said it," said Pague.

"She's a liar if she does," shouted Tennant.

Defendant is Comely.

The defendant is rather a fine-looking woman, who was recently brought back from Spokane, along with Tennant, to answer to the charge of immorality. She was very self-possessed during the trial, aiding her counsel with suggestions and taking notes of the testimony. She told the court that her correct name was Babette Pulliam, that she had been married to and divorced from a man named Goldsmith and that she had one child. She said that she passed as "Mrs. Pulliam" at hotels for self-protection. She was for a long time a player in Fritz' variety theatre, but later graduated into higher class vaudeville.

When placed on the stand in her own behalf the woman said that when she first met Tennant about two years ago, he told her that he was unmarried. About four months later, she said she was informed by a friend that he was married and had two children. When she confronted him with this statement he denied it, she said, but his face turned red and she said she knew he was lying. When further pressed, she said he told her that he was married, but that his wife was an immoral woman, that she had left him with the boy, and that he was then trying to make the little fellow a dress. Out of pity, she said, she made the dress herself and sent it to the child.

Promise to Wed Made.
The woman said that she had promised to marry Tennant, but that when she found that he was married she refused to have more to do with him, and tried to keep away from him. Then, she said, he abused her, struck her and hounded her up to the very day of the trial.

Asked if he had supplied her with money, Mrs. Pulliam said that he had not, but that, on the contrary she had often given him money which he never returned. Finally, to get rid of him, she said, she took an engagement at Spokane and was playing there when he followed. He came to the theatre and told the manager that she was his wife. She denied this and he blacked her eye, which was still black when she was arrested.

The district burned is a part of "Jap town," and nine-tenths of the population is Japanese who were made homeless by the fire. Many were compelled to flee into the streets in their night clothes, and although the entire fire department fought the flames they had great trouble in keeping the fire from spreading.

May Term of Circuit Court Practically Ended..

MOTION IS OVERRULED

Counsel For Miss DeHart Asks Court to Suspend Sentence—Other Minor Court Matters

The May term of the circuit court practically reached a close late today says the arguments in a few equity cases of minor importance. At this morning's session of court, Attorney Albert Hermann, representing Miss Vera DeHart Parker, the young lady who was recently sentenced by Judge Hamilton to pay a fine in the sum of $50 upon pleading guilty to the crime of lewd cohabitation, submitted a motion in which he requested the court to suspend sentence. In asking the favor Attorney Hermann alleged that his client was physically unable to serve a jail sentence of 25 days, equivalent to the fine, and further, that she was practically without funds and could not possibly pay the amount of the fine. To substantiate his assertions the attorney submitted affidavits signed by physicians, each of which was to the effect that the girl was a nervous wreck and was a constant sufferer of heart disease.

After brief deliberation Judge Hamilton overruled the motion, and present indications tend to show that the young lady will be compelled to spend the next twenty five days in the county jail in satisfaction of the sentence.

Grand Jury Adjourns.
Shortly after noon today the grand jury completed its labors and reported to Judge Hamilton in the circuit court. Accordingly the members of the body were excused until three days prior to the regular October term of court when they will convene and consider such matters as are brought before their attention.

Following is the final report of the grand jury submitted prior to adjournment:
To the Honorable Judge Hamilton:

We, the Grand Jury, have listened to the several complaints brought before us and have indicted those whom we considered guilty and dismissed others.

We call special attention to the filthy condition of the county jail which needs a thorough cleaning and also repairing when necessary.

We also recommend that the county poor farm be moved to a point near the city of Roseburg, the county to purchase a small tract of land, ten or fifteen acres to be improved for that special purpose only.

As to the complaint from the sheriff's office we find that someone unknown to us has tampered with the books, raising the total amount of assessable property in Roseburg to $29,200.

Having completed our labors we wish to be dismissed.

Three Divorces Granted.
Alberta Reizenstein was granted a divorce in the circuit court this morning from Louis F. Reizenstein. Aside from a decree the plaintiff was allowed to resume her maiden name, Alberta Boggess. Attorneys Fullerton & Orcutt appeared for the plaintiff.

John R. McCarthy was granted a divorce from S. E. McCarthy on the grounds of desertion. Plaintiff was represented by Attorneys John T. Long and C. L. Hamilton.

The divorce case of Press Jackson vs. Dora Jackson came up for hearing in the circuit court this morning, but owing to the fact that the defendant is at present confined in the state insane asylum, Judge Hamilton dismissed the case.

Return Four Indictments.
Concurrent with filing their final report with Judge Hamilton in the circuit court this afternoon, the members of the grand jury returned four sealed indictments, all of which will be held a secret until such time as the indictees are arrested.

Notwithstanding that every officer has been asked to impart some information relative to the indictments, they will remain a secret. In event the parties indicted parties are arrested previous to the October term of the circuit court they will be given an opportunity to furnish bonds, but in case of failure to furnish the necessary surety they will be remanded to jail to await disposition at the hands of the officers.

"Any one," said Roosevelt, "who studies the record of my hunt in Africa will know that we killed only for science and a definite purpose."

ROOSEVELT INSURGENT

Cannon Obstacle to Trust Busters Administration.

ASKED TAFT'S FAVOR

Roosevelt Offered to Write Letter Endorsing Insurgency—In Order Not to Embarrass Taft it Was Withheld.

(Special to Evening News.)

WASHINGTON, May 24.—That Roosevelt is with the Insurgents, heart and soul, is the gist of a hitherto unpublished report made by a committee of Insurgents to caucus the house progressives in March, 1909. Roosevelt gave his endorsement during the closing days of his administration. With this support behind them, Insurgents are planning a terrific campaign next fall that will sweep the ex-president into the whirlpool of politics. Roosevelt and Insurgency is to be the battle cry. The endorsement was given to Nelson, of Wisconsin, Gardner, of Massachusetts and Madison, of Kansas, who were sent as a committee by the Insurgents to obtain Roosevelt's sanction on March 3, 1909. The report declares that Roosevelt proposed to give Nelson, as chairman of the committee, a letter endorsing the Insurgents' fight on Cannon. Roosevelt at that time, expressed thorough sympathy with the progressives, and said: "Speaker Cannon has been the greatest obstacle to my efforts to secure good legislation throughout my administration." On March 4, the evening spent with Taft, Roosevelt asked the Insurgents to excuse him from writing the letter, on the ground that it would embarrass the new administration. Standing in the president's room the retiring president took Gardner and Nelson by the hands and asked Taft to take up the Insurgent cause.

At the time that this conversation was held, and Roosevelt asked Taft to support the Insurgents, the latter laughed and dismissed the matter in a joking way. Afterward Roosevelt said he could not write the letter promised, as he did not want to interfere with Taft.

Last night's session of the city council proved uninteresting, less than thirty minutes being consumed in disposing of the weeks accumulation of business. But one matter of importance was considered, that being a remonstrance, signed by James Sawyers and others, protesting against the establishment of a dumping ground between Jackson and East streets. The petitioners allege that the dumping ground would not only prove a nuisance, but would have its effect upon depreciating the value of the property in the vicinity where it is located. Wm. Tipton and F. P. Brown, who reside in the vicinity of the proposed garbage depository were present at the meeting and in emphatic terms informed the council of the general sentiment among the residents of that vicinity, asserting that it was the unanimous opinion of the petitioners that the purchase should be reconsidered inasmuch as the establishment of such a nuisance would ruin the surrounding property. From statements uttered by several councilmen at the conclusion of the meeting, it appears that the petition will meet with but little consideration, a majority of the council being satisfied with the selection.
