WARREN'S ADDRESS

This question involved in this case is whether there is one law for the workingman and another law for the rich employer. The supreme court's decision in the famous kidnapping conspiracy in Colorado and the action of high government and state officials in protecting a fugitive republican politician, charged with murder, lends color to my contention that there is one interpretation of the law for the poor and another one for the rich. The action of the governor of New Jersey in refusing to issue requisition papers for Armour, the Chicago meat packer, who was charged by the New Jersey prosecutors with violating the anti-trust laws of that state is a convincing argument that there is one law for the poor and none for the rich. The methods adopted by the government's attorney in his prosecution of me and his refusal to take cognizance of similar acts on the part of bankers and others, strengthens our argument that there is two wholly different kinds of law in this country; and your decision will, if that decision upholds the action of the lower court, add to this belief in the public mind.

The government's attorney emphasizes the fact that this reward offer is printed in red. Out of curiosity, I asked a number of the leading ink manufacturers in the United States for what color of printing ink they had the greatest demand, and they replied, without a single exception, that they sold more red ink than all others combined, save one—black. Black is the emblem of slavery and has been since long before the days of Captain Kidd. Under its able folds march the land thief, the predatory rich, the employer of little children, those who quarter justice, the Wall Street speculator, the petty gambler and grafter, and all those who labor and oppress the poor. Black is the color of death. Red on the other hand, is the color of life; it glows with vitality; it is the badge of universal kinship. It has been from the days of Sparta, down through the ages, the emblem of revolt against tyranny. Under the crimson banner the revolutionary strikers of 1776 fought and won their battles against the English king, Longfellow's inspiring poem to Pulaski, the Polish patriot who gave us life for American independence, immortalizes the red banner:

Where, before the altar, hung
The blood-red banner, that with prayer
had been consecrated there—

Take thy banner—and if e'er
Thou shouldst press the soldier's saber,
And the muffled drum should beat
To the tread of mournful feet,
Then this crimson flag shall be
Martial cloak and shroud for thee.

The warrior took the banner proud,
And it was his martial cloak and shroud!

The original flag of the American revolution was red. The stars and stripes were added later by our rebel forefathers to distinguish it from the national emblems of other countries. It is a significant historical fact that red predominates in the flags of all countries with one exception—Russia. It is not surprising, therefore, that the government's attorney who sails under the black flag, should seek to cast aspersions on the red banner.

If the liberties brought with the blood of our forefathers, who fought under the red flag are to be preserved it will be done by the men who today march under the crimson banner.

The theory of law that a man is presumed to be innocent until proven guilty was wholly overlooked in my trial at Fort Scott. I was convicted and sentenced before I entered the court room.

I was not prosecuted as a presumably innocent man charged with an alleged violation of the law. I was prosecuted by partisan politicians, before a partisan jury, three of whom it was proved later declared they were prejudiced against me, and before a partisan judge and on perjured testimony. But this is not the first time in the history of the world that this same farce has been enacted. When the ruling class of any epoch is forced to use such means to bring about the imprisonment of a man advocating revolutionary doctrines, it has always foreshadowed the dawn of a new era. Several million men and women in the United States today believe that I have been prosecuted in the federal courts because of my political beliefs.

It is true I am in revolt against the present capitalist regime of graft and boodles and I have dedicated my life to the Revolution of Tomorrow. Our cause will triumph in America just as it is winning in Germany, France and England. The Milwaukee Socialist victory is a prophecy of what will happen throughout the nation at no distant day.

By environment, training and economic interests, the judges who compose this court are opposed to me. You can no more impartially consider the questions involved in this case than could the judges appointed by the English king to consider impartially the questions which arose between that monarch and his American subjects.

In all controversies that arose between the master and his slave prior to the revolution of 1860, the federal courts made their decision conform to the interests of the masters. It was from the slave owner that they derived their powers and held their positions. No man openly antagonistic to the slave power could hold a position on the federal bench.

An examination of the decision of this court—and your decisions are similar to those of all other federal courts—wherein the interests of the workingman conflict with the interests of the employer, is ample proof of the class character of the federal judiciary. Dissenting from the opinion of this very court, in a case wherein a working girl was pitted against a great corporation, Judge Thayer said: "I dissent from these doctrines which seem to have been formulated with an eye mainly to the protection of the employers and with too little regard for the situation and rights of the employees."

As a militant member of the working class I frankly confess that I expect nothing from this court. A court of justice, so-called, which turns away a mangled working child empty-handed, in defense of capitalist class property against working class life and limb, is not apt to look with favor upon me in revolt against such shocking inhumanity and the system responsible for it.

I know that is the settled policy of this court. I understand why its decisions are in the interests of the employer and against the working man and working woman.

You are serving those to whom you are indebted for your position and responsible for your power. I am simply trying to show to the working class world, which embraces a great majority of the population, the character of the federal court, to which must be submitted their liberties and their lives. The federal court under capitalist misrule is essentially capitalistic in its sympathies, its interests and its decisions.

In this important work of educating the working class as to the true character of the courts, you are helping me. It was the Dred Scott decision that hastened the overthrow of chattel slavery, and as history repeats itself, we may confidently expect that the decision of the supreme court in the now famous kidnapping conspiracy, backed by the federal court's decisions in all other labor cases, will precipitate the downfall of the mill, factory, mine and farm of wage slavery. When the toilers once understand the true situation, they will realize that there can be no relief from judicial despotism until they use the power latent in themselves to abolish the present inequitable system, based upon the legalized robbery of the nation's toilers and producers in which the courts are mere creatures of capitalist class rule and instruments of working class subjection. These workingmen will one day learn to choose their own judges and while these judges may know little of the intricacies of law and the chicannery of technicality they have an inherent sense of justice and they may be depended upon to serve their brothers.

Personally, it is a matter of no consequence to me what this court may decide in this case. If this court concludes to sanction the scandalous methods employed to secure my conviction and the outrageous sentence imposed upon me for the commission of what Judge Pollock termed "a mere misdemeanor," I shall consider it the proudest day of my life when I enter the jail at Fort Scott, imprisoned because of my defense of the poor and oppressed. You will by that act increase

Word was received at the headquarters of the Roseburg-Coos Bay auto stage this morning to the effect that the gear of the passenger automobile, bound for this city broke several miles in the country. Another gear was immediately sent out to the scene of the accident, but the stage at the time the matter was reported was already very late and will probably be much later before it arrives in Roseburg.
