THE AUTOMOBILE IN FINANCE.

Oregonian: Extensive buying of automobiles by people who are obligcle to strain their credit in order to satisfy their craving for something that their neighbor may have and can afford to have is undoubtedly becoming a very prominent factor in the financial situation. A St. Louis firm, which annually handles more than $25,000,000 worth of commercial paper in various Western state, recently sent out a letter asking for information as to the demand for money in particular localities, as compared with last year, the prospect for easy money, etc. They also asked regarding the purchase of automobiles, whether with cash or with borrowed funds. Some of the answers of these letters revealed starting results. Oregonian: Extensive buying ing results.

A Greenville, Texas, banker wrote A Greenville, Texas, banker wrote that the payments for automobiles there reached a total of $225.000, or seven per cent of the bank deposits. The local banker who answered the questions for Whitia, Kan, said there were 900 automobiles in Wichita, and he believed the craze would rain the country. At Cape Girardeau, Mo., only half of the automobiles were owned by people who were able to pay for them. A banker from Little Rock writes that many people have bought automobiles. er from Little Rock writes that many people have bought automobiles there, and in explaining the size of the movement, he continues: "Some have mortgaged their property to buy them and others have bought them on installments. More than one-half the automobiles owned here were bought on borrowed funds or on eredit."

There does not seem to be much difference in human nature whether on credit."

There does not seem to be much difference in human nature whether in the Middle West or the Pacific Northwest. Nearly every daily paper contains from one to a half dozen advertisements offering to trade a home or equity in a home for an antomobile. The economic waste does not cease when a trade of this kind is ended, for the automobile at its best, is an expensive luxury and millious more must be spent annually for keeping in repair the thousands of high-priced machines that have supplanted the comparatively inexpessive horse and buggy. Just where this orgy of extravagance will end is uncertain, by tying up vast sums of money in automobile contracts that are of course unproductive, we han not escape some stringency in money matters. Fortunately Portland is such a wealthy city that there is a very finall per centage of the auto owners here who are unable to afford the machines, which are becoming so plentiful that they are affecting to a degree the financial situation.

INFORMATION by TELEPHONE

People are not leaving so much to chance iù these days of universal telephoning service. Instead of risking disappointment they telephone and get the facts.

Will school be held on a stormy morning, will your friend be in if you call, what does the weather man predict and when does the train leave—are samples of myriads of questions constantly passing over the wire, and being answered by the proper authorities.

There are also questions to be asked about the telephone service, how somebody can be reached over the Bell Long Distance Telephone and what it will cost, and similar questions, which are being answered by tre information operators.
