Joe Leggett, at one time night clerk at the Roseburg Hotel, in this city, but for the past two years of Medford, is spending the day in town visiting with friends. Mr. Leggett stopped over here enroute home from Portland where he spent the past few days conferring with the hotel clerks relative to forming an association. He says that the citizens of Portland certainly celebrated the incoming of the New Year, fully 50,000 people being on the streets, say nothing of the throngs that crowded the down town grills and cafes.
An organization to be known as the "Alpollo Club" was formulated at the Parish House of the Episcopal church last evening. The society has as its chief object the promoting of music in the city, and anyone mutually inclined is eligible to membership. Meetings will be held each Monday evening. The following officers were elected: W. C. Harding, president; C. W. Clark, vice-president; F. E. Blackman, secretary; W. H. Eaton, treasurer; C. A. Lotz, director. The club starts out with a large membership, a majority of whom are talented along musical lines.

The meeting of the Douglas County Fruit Growers scheduled for yesterday at which time the erection of a cannery was to be considered, did not materialize for the reason that Mr. Prodger, of Seattle, who is promoting the proposition, is bedfast at the McClallon hotel. Upon being apprised that Mr. Prodger would be unable to attend the meeting and explain his proposition, the members simply passed a resolution in which they signified their intention of aiding the proposed cannery in every possible way, both financially and otherwise. Another meeting will be called as soon as Mr. Prodger is able to leave his bed, at which time definite action will be taken regarding the proposition.
That prosperity unprecedented in the history of Roseburg has reigned during the past year could be no better evidenced than by the strides that have been made along improvement lines in this city. Many substantial business blocks have been erected, residences of every description have sprung up in all parts of the town, the streets have been improved, sewer systems have been installed, new water mains have been laid, the local telephone equipment has been completely overhauled and replenished, while miles of cement sidewalk have been constructed. According to the usual management of the Pacific Telephone Company the number of phones now in use exceeds the number a year ago by fully twenty-five per cent. Such a showing should fully convince the most skeptical that Roseburg is growing. The water and light company also report many new consumers during the past year, and anticipate even greater progress during 1911.
