Riddle Tribune: The remains of Anthol Cox were brought here from Ashland for burial Tuesday. The burial was in charge of the Elks lodge of Roseburg No. 326, of which he was a member. Mr. Cox was a bridge foreman for the Southern Pacific, and while at Ashland took down with pneumonia, dying Saturday morning, January 28th, 1911, aged 33. He leaves a wife and two small children. He was insured for $2,000. Mrs. Cox arrived Wednesday and is in a very precarious condition, being doubly hard for her, having buried her mother but two weeks ago.

Bro. Noah had his Ark papered, and Roseburg has heretofore used the style and designs he used then. Now, in all sense, can't you look at something new? See what they are using in civilized countries. It won't cost you a cent to look at them, anyway, and then you can tell your grandchildren what you saw at Fisher's Paint and Wall Paper Store on Oak street. Phone 333.

In the recent mention given the formation of a local organization in this city of former residents of North Dakota, the secretary of the organization inadvertently omitted the name of H. Guest, the local laborer, as one of the chief promoters of the order. Mr. Guest took an active interest in getting the "boys" of his native state together, and the success of the organization, to a great extent, was due to his painstaking efforts.

Mrs. H. R. Stages and daughters, Mrs. C. C. Mace and Miss Edith Stages, arrived in the city from Santa Cruz, Cal., today to join Mr. Stages, Sr., and Mr. Richard Stages, who have been here for several weeks, they recently having purchased the Best mill, which is being remodeled and put in commission for cutting. The ladies, with the exception of Mrs. Mace, will remain here permanently. The News is sure they will find a cordial welcome into Roseburg social circles.

Riddle Tribune: Victor Short and his brother, Claude, had quite an exciting adventure with three mountain lions last Thursday in which they lost one of their valuable dogs. The lions attacked the dog and partially devouring it before they could get there with a gun. The boys succeeded in killing two of them and night coming on they abandoned the chase. Their best dog gone they phoned for their neighbor, Jay Wright, who came with his well trained dog, Doc. They returned to the scene of the fight of the day before and after a hard chase they succeeded in killing the third one. These animals cause the ranchers much loss and worry by killing their calves, sheep, cows, etc., besides the many deer they kill every year.
